

Faber Cards 440th Game of Career Pitching Baseball

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—(United News)—Urban "Red" Faber, veteran of the White Sox pitching department, celebrated his 38th birthday today by pitching his 440th game of his big league career.

Though Faber had to be relieved in the ninth, he was credited with the victory.

The sorrel topped spitballer was born in Cascade, Iowa, and came to the White Sox from Des Moines in the Western league in the fall of 1913. He accompanied the Giants and White Sox on their world tour that fall and was loaned to the Giants for the trip. He has been with the Comiskey team since.

Faber is one of the few spitballers left in the majors. The others are Carl Mays, the Reds' submarine hurler; Urban Shocker, former Brown, now with the Yankees; Burling Gimes of the Dodgers and Stanley Coveleski.

The big Iowa still is remembered for the two shutout victories he hung on the Giants in the world series of 1917. He was on the sick list and did not participate in the 1919 series.

FOREST INN, LAND OF TRANQUILITY

en, was built for the convenience of visiting officials of the Forest Lumber company, and for mill guests.

Completely furnished, the Lodge, overlooking, as it does, the entire town of Pine Ridge and a broad expanse of surrounding country, is as beautiful a home as one could find in city or woods. The finest of furniture has been used throughout the lodge, each room combining the restfulness of a mountain lodge with the beauty and convenience of a city dwelling. The four bedrooms, each opening into one of the two shower and lavatory rooms on the second floor, are furnished with twin beds, attractive floor and bed lamps, hardwood furniture and fine upholstered chairs.

By Nulance Abate

A screened porch at one end of the lodge offers an incomparable view of the valley below and of the rugged mountain scenery. The porch is equipped with a lovely set of wicker porch furniture, and is virtually an additional room to the lodge.

Forest Inn is to be under the management of the Forest Lumber company, and will be directed by Miss Eve Pfeifer, who will have complete charge of the dining room and hostelry, according to Frank Horan, plant superintendent at Pine Ridge.

The majority of the rooms in the inn will be occupied by millmen, all of whom are eagerly anticipating the opening of the new hotel. Only the steady employees will be given accommodations. It was stated, and the men have already begun applying for rooms. There is ample space for the employes and a great number of outside guests, however, and it is the aim of the management to have accommodations of the best sort always ready for tourists and Klamath Falls guests.

GORGEOUS FLOATS OF CELEBRATION and with the Rambler's orchestra provided the necessary music that is imperative in the success of any parade.

The Queen's float, that carried Queen Ruth I, her two maids and pages, was attractively arranged in red, white and blue.

Another float, that caused considerable comment, was entered by the Painters' Union. Three buckets, tilted at the top of a tall scaffold, dripped red, white and blue paint.

Originality was the keynote in the float of the Glover Jewelry company with a miniature King and Queen on a prettily arranged throne. A half dozen young boys, dressed as working men in overalls, marched in the rear of the float, with Big Bens sending off an alarm.

Judges in the contest were Francis R. Olds, Andrew Collier and John A. McCall. E. P. Duffy was general secretary of the committee.

Her Tragic Mistake

THOSE who knew her would have said: "Such things don't happen to girls like Marion." She was well-educated; she had high ideals; her every thought and word were refinement itself. Yet, she was to find herself subject to the same vicissitudes of Fate that pursue all who blindly try to make right out of wrong.

It all started when she met and fell in love with Terry Dixon, who had twice been engaged to the mad-cap heiress, Helen Carlson, but who swore to Marion that his love for Helen was dead.

But often it is the unexpected that shapes human destiny.

For, having been forced by a terrible storm to seek refuge in a lonely cabin, she had scarcely crossed the threshold with Terry when she found she had taken the first step into a world of terror, desperate conflict and hideous peril.

What she went through is told by Marion herself in "Out of the Storm," in True Story Magazine for October. Don't miss this thrilling, soul-stirring, true-life narrative.

"The Curse of Suspicion"—Once a humble factory worker, Mary today has every luxury that money can buy. Yet, the face that haunts her day dreams is not that of her rich husband. Don't fail to read this straight-from-the-heart story.

"A Wife's Awakening"—Marge's marriage to Kendall Windsor was a glorious adventure in happiness until, in the delirium of illness, he revealed a terrible secret in his life. A strange, soul-stirring narrative.

Finds True Story A Great Help

Dear Sir:

Being a minister of the Gospel, I find True Story a help in warning young people against the trials and temptations of life. If more mothers would provide this magazine for their girls to read we ministers would hear less of the sad stories of fallen girls. May God bless you in your work of helping the young by warning them of the dangers in life. If it is worth anything to you in carrying on the work, I give you permission to use this in any way you see fit. Best wishes for your continued success.

Yours very truly,
Olar, S. C. (Rev.) C. P. CHEWING

"It Actually Happened"
One reason why True Story Magazine has won such wide popularity is that every one of its stories is lifted right out of life. You share the jealously guarded secrets of human hearts that would be revealed to you in no other way. Thrilling narratives of love and marriage, of success and failure, of joy and tragedy, are presented, not only for their gripping interest, but for the guidance and inspirational readers everywhere.
