Harvest Weather Draws Out Populace

Judges of County Fair Complete Awards and Four Thousand Dol- lars Distributed

A crisp autumn afternoon whose sparkling sunshine greeted the crowds who surged through the fair grounds for the second big day of the Klamath County Fair and Products Show yesterday, gave typical harvest weather for the fall festival.

Busy judges and officials completed decisions on the prize awards aggregating $4000, late in the afternoon. Virtually all ribbons had been placed with the close of the second day, the prizes to be given out later. A feature of the afternoon was the auction sale of pure-bred cattle in which over 25 head of fine dairy stock, worth several thousand dollars, changed hands.

Entertainment today will consist of a lively baseball game between the Klamath Falls Pelicans and a picked team from the Henley timber league. This is the last day of the fair, the gates to close at 6 o'clock.

First Cold Snap Of Season Felt By Many People

Klamath Falls shivered for the first time in many a day when the mercury dropped down to 27, or five degrees below freezing on Thursday night.

The advent of the early cold snap is indicative of a cold, snappy winter, when it does descend upon Klamath plains and hills, according to old timers who have spent winter after winter, both harsh and mild, in southern Oregon.

Many a Klamath Falls housewife took inventory yesterday morning so that her family would not feel the pangs of winter winds during the wee small hours of the night, when the mercury is the lowest.

Farmers, sitting by fireplace and grate last night, chuckled down to their boots, for Old Man Winter sent his frost too late to damage the summer crops that have sent Klamath ranches and farms over the top in a banner year.

Although yesterday afternoon found the air snappy, there was a better attendance at the Klamath county fair than the opening day, and tomorrow is expected to be the banner day for the fair.

Tule Lake ranchers brought in an excellent crop of grain this winter, despite the grasshopper plague that threatened acre after acre of the reclaimed land crops. The truck farmers were congratulating themselves that the first frost of the year, which covered housetops and sidewalks yesterday, did not bite the pumpkin and the cucumbers from the vines.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 17.—(United News)—Mexico's law forbidding foreign clerks to function here will prevent services for Jacob Rosenthal, American business man slain by bandits Wednesday, before the latter's body is sent to his home in New York.

Turks Island Is Badly Wrecked by Great Hurricane

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Sept. 17.—(United News)—A hurricane moving at the rate of 150 miles an hour has struck Turks Island. Many buildings have been demolished and few are left undamaged. Some salt lighters were lost.

There has been no loss of life but the food supply is low.

Turk's island is one of a group of islands in the Bahamas, about 110 miles north of Santo Domingo.

Driverless Auto Smashes Window Sunset Grocery

A runaway automobile, left parked in front of the Putterbaugh apartment house on Pine and Tenth, yesterday crashed into the plate glass window of the Sunset grocery on Tenth and Main, piling up about $200 damage. The window, according to Percy Evans, proprietor of the store, was not insured.

The car, belonging to B. C. Stanley, who arrived here yesterday from Longview, Wash., had been standing several hours when the brakes apparently gave way, allowing the car to back down Tenth and into the store window. Cars were parked on both sides of the street, down which the driverless automobile careened, but none of these received so much as a scratched fender from the runaway.

The window was completely shattered, and a display of merchandise in the window was damaged to some extent. The impact also loosened a section of marble facing on the outside of the building, which splintered when it struck the sidewalk.

Alvie Kendall Is Dead From Wound Received on Head

Alvie Kendall, tree-faller for the Kesterson Lumber company at Dorris, died in the Dorris hospital shortly after noon last Tuesday from injuries received when a falling limb fractured his skull in southern Klamath county early Monday morning.

Kendall, who was 30 or 32 years of age, was the oldest of the four brothers, all who are well known in the lumbering game of northern California and southern Oregon. Their parents reside in Jacksonville, where Kendall's remains were shipped shortly after his death Tuesday.

According to word received from A. P. Heup, secretary of the Kesterson Lumber company at Dorris, Kendall was working in the California line in Klamath county. While felling a tree, a limb from a neighboring tree was brought down in the crash and did not fall true, crushing Kendall under its weight. The tragedy occurred at 9 o'clock in the morning and until his death, at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, he did not regain consciousness. His brothers were with him when he died.

Although Kendall had been employed with the Kesterson company for the past three months, he had been with other concerns both in Klamath and Jackson counties, Oregon. He is the son of well known Jacksonville residents, pioneers of the Rogue River valley. He was unmarried.

Prayers Answered Too Soon; Farmers Greatly Damaged

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—(United News)—Hundreds of middle western farmers who prayed for rain during the dry heat of July and August are facing financial ruin because their prayers were answered too abundantly.

A survey of agricultural departments and farm bureaus in the six states where rain has been a daily occurrence since September 1, indicates that the farmer has suffered almost unprecedented losses.

Floods in Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska have ruined thousands upon thousands of acres of ripening grain, principally wheat, corn and oats.

In Illinois the loss to farmers is estimated at $3,000,000 and the bulk of the fifteen or sixteen million dollars in damage that has been the flood and cloudburst toll

Widow of Murdered Minister Arraigned

With Kinsmen Plea of Not Guilty Is Entered in Court at Somerville, New Jersey

SOMERVILLE, Sept. 17.—(United News)—Quietly, with the assured dignity of aristocracy, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her three kinsmen pleaded not guilty late Friday to indictments charging them with the murder four years ago of Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills.

Preceded by Henry and Willie Stevens, her brothers, and Henry de la Bryere Carpenter, her cousin, who also are charged with the double murder, Mrs. Hall entered the crowded courtroom to plead before Justice Charles W. Parker and County Judge Frank L. O'Leary.

The men were remanded to prison. Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson announced he would not oppose the granting of bail for the release of Mrs. Hall. He suggested placing $25,000 bail on each murder count against Mrs. Hall. Until now Mrs. Hall had been free on $7,500 bail for each count.

After considerable wrangling it was agreed that Mrs. Hall should provide $40,000 cash bail—$20,000 on each count. The bond was provided.

Homeseekers Here To View Display County Products

The Klamath county fair's attractions have not beckoned to residents of southern Oregon alone, according to S. L. Head, local realtor, who stated yesterday that a good many persons from other parts of this state and California, are here to see what the county farmers are able to do on inexpensive Klamath land.

One party came in from the Owens Valley in California, to look over the Klamath produce, and marveled greatly thereat, Head stated. This group comprised ten persons. There were also several people here from Tillamook county, interested in dairying possibilities here.

The dairymen were highly enthusiastic over the fine showing of blooded livestock at the fair, one of the best showings of stock ever assembled in southern Oregon.

Incidentally, 13 farmers from the famed Owens valley have purchased land here in the past year and a half.

"I love Lew, that's all," was Miss Normand's smiling answer to questions concerning the marriage, which came as a surprise to Hollywood.

"We have been wonderful friends for years. He proposed to me before, but at the time I hesitated, thinking it might be a passing infatuation. But time proved that our love was substantial," the famous comedienne said. The couple were married at Ventura 75 miles north of Los Angeles at three o'clock this morning. The event followed a dinner party at the Normand home, when Cody proposed and was accepted.

Aged Lumberjack Expires Suddenly At Lamm's Camp

Charles Weir, aged 73, one of the best known lumberjacks in Klamath county, with a residence of many years, died suddenly yesterday morning at 10:15 o'clock while working at the new camp of the Lamm Lumber company on the Indian reservation, four miles from the main camp and seven miles from Chiloquin.

Weir was working under Foreman Carl Ledell, and with Joe Congleton, James Kearns, A. D. Campbell and W. S. Randall, was unloading finished lumber from a car. He was seen to fall to the ground suddenly and without warning and was dead when his co-workers reached his side.

Weir had complained Thursday night of a pain over his heart, and also mentioned the same thing yesterday morning.

Scientist Says World Likely to Get Free Energy

BERKELEY, Cal., Sept. 17.—(United News)—Visions of the famous Roentgen and his pupil, Abram F. Joffe, depicting a world freed from dependency on oil, coal and water power, are resolving themselves into realities, and the university of California in a few months will participate in an effort to tap an unlimited source of energy.

Under the personal direction of Dr. Joffe, director of the physical-technical institute of Russia, graduate students will try to obtain from tiny crystals no larger than dice, a supply of power that would drive a dozen locomotives.

Joffe has discovered that the power is in the crystals, he has even extracted some of it, and hopes to isolate and concentrate them for the good of mankind.

Similar experiments being conducted here have so interested the famous scientist that he has agreed to leave his institute and become a member of the physics staff at the university for the spring semester.

Phonograph Record To Startle World Latest Invention

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 17.—(United News)—A twelve-inch phonograph record, containing a mile and a half of music was demonstrated here today by Charles A. Edison, son of the famous inventor.

The record, which is very ordinary looking, was invented by Thomas A. Edison. It can record a complete opera of two hours' duration on the stage on its two surfaces, each of which will play forty minutes, as compared with the six or seven minutes of the ordinary record. There are 450 grooves to the inch, whereas there are only ninety on the old type. The diamond needle which fits into these grooves must be only two-thousandths of an inch in diameter.

Dry Chief Has Plans to Dry Up Country

Andrews to Demand Directors Plug in Leak Rather Than the Use Strong-Arm Work.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(United News)—Lincoln C. Andrews, dry enforcement chief, hereafter will demand that his administrators show results in checking the big sources of liquor, such as diversion of industrial alcohol, rather than making a show by strong-arm "police" enforcement methods, he revealed in announcing appointment of a new administrator in New York.

Roscoe C. Harper, now counsel for the federal alcohol supply division, has been named administrator at Buffalo, where an acting administrator has been in charge for several weeks, following the resignation of Eugene C. Roberts.

Andrews praised the work of Harper in connection with the government's efforts to check the flow of industrial alcohol. He explained that he first recognized the new administrator's abilities when he came before him as legal representative of alcohol drug store interests.

The dry enforcement head is expected to emphasize his new policy.

Washington Boss Of Timber Likes Klamath Section

Klamath Falls is located in the heart of the finest timber belt in the country, according to Z. B. Hoyt, for many years identified with prominent timber interests in Washington and Idaho, who with his wife and grandson passed through here yesterday.

"We hear quite a bit about Klamath Falls up north," Hoyt stated, "so I expected to find a lively city. It is certainly all of that, and is by far the most active place we've found on our trip."

Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt were returning to their home in Leavenworth, Washington, where for several years Hoyt has been superintendent of logging operations for the Great Northern Lumber company operating in North Central Washington.

The timber boss is completing a motor tour through the Northwest, anticipating a new location, and the impressions which he gained of the Klamath country may bring him here later, he stated.

Copco Exhibit at County Fair One Real Attraction

L. F. Ivanhoe of The California-Oregon Power company is in charge of the Copco exhibit at the fair grounds this year, and the display arranged is attracting unusual attention.

This exhibit shows a striking scene of a raging forest fire in action as the centerpiece, with burning trees, flames shooting skyward, and smoke rolling through the treetops, depicting vividly the havoc and destruction of forest fires. Its intention is to bring clearly to everyone the hazards of fires in the timber, and to urge fire prevention and precaution of the forest resources of Oregon.

Another feature of the exhibit is a large map of the field served by Copco, with a tack showing each stockholder on the system. More than 2000 tacks show the location of Copco preferred stockholders, practically all towns and communities in southern Oregon and northern California being included in the groupings of the tacks. Klamath Falls looms up with 216 stockholders, leading Ashland, Roseburg, Grants Pass, Duns-muir and Yreka by a comfortable margin.

Mr. Ivanhoe advises "Copco preferred stock will advance in price on October 1, and investors everywhere throughout the field served by Copco are buying their shares now, thus saving themselves a dollar a share. Many are merely making their first payment on the number of shares wanted at this
