TEA TIME BY FIRESIDES IN WINTER

It's tea time in Klamath Falls now, with a sharp wind blowing from the mountains that are already putting on a winter cloak of pure white snow over the jagged rocks, softening them into roundness. Tea time, unless it's under a lovely flowered tree, or in the shadow of a pergola, is purely a winter pastime, by a glowing fire, or by softly tinted lights.

Americans are prone to pick up and adopt foreign customs, for when it is summarized, what would the melting-pot nation do if it did not adopt the quaint old customs of a quaint old world that has slowly let the centuries go by like a river, running mildly to an open sea.

In England, tea time is sacred, and violation of the art is an unforgivable error. Tea time is four o'clock, yet one drinks tea for breakfast, tea, perhaps, before luncheon, and then at intervals that round out a delightful afternoon and evening.

In Webster's dictionary he has forgotten to use "tea" as an afternoon function, and only explains the origin, the place where tea is found, and, sometimes, how it is made.

Of interest to many in Klamath Falls among the maids and matrons of society, is the bridge tea to be sponsored in the American Legion building Saturday afternoon, October 2, when the Business and Professional Women's club of the city entertain for the benefit of the rest room of the new $40,000 library, which is rapidly being completed on the corner of Klamath avenue and Fifth street.

Mrs. Gertrude Glover heads the committee in charge, and is assisted by Mrs. Lynn A. Zimmerman, Mrs. M. C. Harwood, Miss Clara Calkins and Miss Lois Bynon.

Already reservations have been made that will promise a successful afternoon. An interesting musical program is promised, and even those who do not care to take tables or play bridge, are cordially bidden to the affair for tea.

MRS. McPHERRON IS THURSDAY HOSTESS

Complimenting her sister, Mrs. Wilbur Arnold of Portland, Mrs. W. H. McPherron entertained informally at her home on Wantland avenue Thursday afternoon for a few guests.

Mrs. Arnold has been the inspiration for a number of pretty affairs for which Klamath Falls matrons have been the hostesses.

Guests included Mesdames Wilbur Arnold, W. D. Trubuye, W. W. Dawley, M. P. Lavenick, Ry Hickman, John Schubert, R. D. Bussard, J. Hawkins and Carl Schubert Jr.

MISS BERNICE HANNA WEDS PAUL CAMPBELL

Weddings in the month of September have long been of interest to society for many of the younger set have chosen this month for their marriage date.

Of interest is that of Miss Bernice Hanna, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Hanna, who became the bride of Paul Campbell at the home of the bride's mother on Ewauna Heights Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

The bride was frocked in a becoming gown of jungle green, cleverly fashioned. She carried a corsage of American Beauty rose buds, interminglied with violets and lilies of the valley.

Miss Ruth Akers attended Miss Hanna, and was frocked in apple green silk, and also wore a corsage of roses and violets. Before the ceremony Miss Akers sang "I Love You Truly."

Bert Holloway was best man.

Following the ceremony the wedding breakfact was served at a prettily appointed table, which had miniature figures of a wedding party as a centerpiece. Covers were laid for members of the family and the wedding party.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell are enjoying a brief wedding trip in Portland, and will be at home to their friends in the Arcade apartments.

Mr. Campbell is the son of the late Mr. John Campbell. He is now affiliated with the Klamath Hardware company, which his father controlled.

Among the guests at the Campbell-Hanna nuptials, was Miss Alice Campbell, of Los Angeles, sister of the groom.

NOVELTY SALE OF INTEREST OCT. 16

The Daughters of St. Paul, the altar society of St. Paul's Episcopal church, will conduct an interesting Oriental novelty sale and candy sale on October 16, according to announcement made during the week.

The place will be designated later, and proceeds will be used for the altar furnishings.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S TEA TO BE LOVELY OCTOBER FUNCTION

Leading the events this week on Klamath Falls' social calendar is the bridge tea scheduled for Saturday afternoon from the hours of 2 o'clock until 5 o'clock, when members of the Klamath Falls lodge of Business and Professional Women's club entertain as a benefit for the furnishings of the new library rest room.

The Legion building will present a lovely autumnal scene when the walls and pillars will be changed into a glory of woodland shades of dull golds and brilliant crimsons and reds. A committee in charge of the decorations have made arrangements for lovely fall flowers which will be mingled with the vine maple and Virginia creeper.

Miss Pearl Biehn, talented pianist, will play during the tea hours, among her selections being several of her own composition, including Minuet in E Major and Love Song. A number of other talented girls have been asked to sing and play during tea hours and reception.

Already a number of prominent matrons of Klamath Falls society have made reservations of one and two tables, where they will play with a few intimate friends.

The committee on arrangements for the tea is headed by Mrs. John H. Glover, who is assisted by Mrs. Lynn A. Zimmerman, Mrs. M. C. Harwood and the Misses Clara Calkins and Lois Bynon.

Mrs. Glover will head a reception committee at the door to receive the many guests who have set aside Saturday for the bridge tea, on their busy calendar of dates.

Reservations have been made by the following women, prominent in Klamath Falls society: Mesdames Thomas White Deizell, Marvin K. Lucas, Claude H. Daggett, Tom E. McDonald, Byron J. Noud, Ebbe Bennett, Lynn A. Zimmerman, Will Baldwin, John C. Boyle, J. Hardin Carter, Junior F. Daggett, Claud H. Davis, D. V. Kuykendall, Wilbur Jones, Roy Durbin, Francis R. Olds, Howard R.
