

McFadden Branch Bank Bill Meets Approval Bankers

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 7.—(United Press)—Endorsement of the national administration policy in dealing with foreign governmental debts and approval of the McFadden branch bank bill without the Hull amendment had been accomplished when the fifty-second convention of the American bankers' association adjourned Thursday.

The second largest banking conference held in the United States in the past 52 years terminated when 600 delegates began a two-day holiday before returning to their homes.

Emergency measures to relieve farmers of eight major cotton raising states of the south were taken at a special meeting of southern bankers.

Resolutions endorsing the following platform were passed:

Twenty-five per cent reduction in cotton acreage in one crop section, with a recommended food and feed reduction to carry out a live-at-home program; early marketing of cotton so producers may receive largest financial returns from crops; the pledge of credit facilities of southern bankers to aid in financing holdings on actual cotton that can be marketed until there is a demand for the commodity at a satisfactory price.

Upon the return of the bankers from this territory from scheduled leisure trips, a meeting will be called to consider adoption of these resolutions.

Before the convention adjourned new officers were installed and the official gavel transferred from Oscar Wells, of Birmingham, Ala., retiring president, to Melvin A. Traylor, newly elected.

Old-Time Baseball Player May Locate In Klamath Falls

Frank Thornton, one of the old time western ball players, and who one time was a member of the Boston Red Sox, has arrived in Klamath Falls with the expectation of making his home here permanently.

Thornton first came into prominence in the baseball world when he was a member of the Santa Clara college team as a boy, and was playing was of such merit that he was later called to Boston, where he became a member of the Red Sox.

Of late years he has been giving his attention to management of teams, and his success has been most creditable. His last undertaking in that line was at Reno, Nev., where he had charge of the fast team of that city during the season of 1925, and his team succeeded in defeating most of the visiting aggregations from the coast.

Thornton is anxious to take charge of the Pelicans during the season of 1927, and is negotiating with those interested in the management of that strong aggregation of players during the past year.

Liquor Smugglers Convicted Charge Of Landing Booze

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—(United Press)—Tom Murphy and Paul Payne were convicted today of conspiracy to violate federal revenue laws. Prosecution was the result of discovery of 340 cases of liquor which the men, described as two of the largest liquor smugglers on the Pacific coast, were accused of landing from the rum runner Prince Albert on April 25, 1924.

A third man, Percy Allender, who was convicted but in his case the jury recommended mercy on the ground that he was merely an employee of Murphy and Payne. Sentences will be imposed Monday.

RESTAURANT ENTERED BY THIEVES WEDNESDAY
Stella's restaurant on South Eighth street was broken into late time during Wednesday night, according to a report received last night. Entrance was gained through rear window, and although the place was ransacked the robbers took nothing of value, evidently contenting their search for money. Upon taking their departure they were said to have left by the rear door which was found unlocked yesterday morning.
