Congressman Sinnott States What May be Expected in Congress

Oregon, and especially the great Klamath country, will be benefited during the coming year by various acts of congress, according to N. J. Sinnott, representative from Oregon, who spoke before the forum guests at the chamber of commerce luncheon yesterday.

In discussing the recently passed acts, Sinnott spoke briefly in regard to the following:

"Now I will tell you something about our work in Congress," the representative stated. "Congress has passed a number of acts which will be of benefit to this community. First, we have appropriated for the next two fiscal years, $75,000,000 for Federal aid roads. You will get your share of these. We have passed for the benefit of your irrigation project and other projects, the charge-off bill which will enable the settlers on this project to get an extension of 40 years in their payments. We have also passed the Public Building bill appropriating $100,000,000 for public buildings throughout the country. That matter is now being investigated by the secretary of the treasury, and the postoffice department. The delegation to Portland from Klamath Falls proved very successful. I met them there and I want to assure you that they made a very fine showing for your community."

Following the luncheon, when Representative Sinnott discussed the probability of the federal building in Klamath Falls, he stated:

"Whether or not Klamath Falls will be one of the fortunate two cities in Oregon to receive the federal buildings, I cannot say. All seats with the secretary of the treasury and the postoffice heads. I can say this, however, that the government agent, Frank McMillan, expressed himself to me that the report submitted by Klamath Falls was very favorable although there were a number of cities, namely Corvallis, that had a greater showing in postal receipts and office maintenance, than has Klamath Falls."

Liquor Violations To Occupy Emmitt For Several Days

Justice R. A. Emmitt's calendar for the coming week is as full of liquor cases as is the bridge calendar of a society butterfly, and this is according to the old justice, himself.

When Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Peterson, arrested by C. H. Bennett, federal prohibition officer, were haled before Justice Emmitt, the magistrate could give them only Saturday morning, October 30, at 10 o'clock, because, as he put it, he was booked high, wide and handsome for the remainder of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Peterson, 1136 Pine street, are alleged to have dumped bootleg whiskey down a sink and a pint of the liquor was salvaged by officers. They pleaded not guilty before Emmitt and each posted $500 personal bonds to appear October 30.

Following is Justice Emmitt's calendar: Thursday, 10 a. m., October 21. (Continued on Page Six)

New 60,000-Volt Line Gets First Electric Juice

Future shortage of electricity in Klamath Falls due to line troubles became virtually impossible last night when the first power was turned through the new 60,000-volt line recently completed by the California Oregon Power company.

The new line, No. 18, which has been under construction for several months, leads directly to this city from the big power plant at Copco, California, via Keno, and will augment the local supply of juice coming in on the old line which follows the railroad track.

The additional voltage increased the local supply about one-third. Copco officials stated, and gives double assurance against line breakage or other troubles which some times threaten a few hours of power shortage.

ENORMOUS APPLE CROP IS REPORTED STATE WASHINGTON

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 20.—(United News)—Famous for the nation over for its apples, Washington will have a crop this year estimated at some 34,000,000 bushels.

The estimate, announced by the chamber of commerce here, would place this state next to New York as an apple producer. Last year's apple crop totaled 29,000,000 bushels.

Big Lumber Mill To Be Provided With First Unit New Dry Kilns

Pelican Bay Lumber Company to Expend $45,000 in Improving Dry Process for Finished Product of Plant.

A major step in Klamath county industrial construction and the development of lumbering in this vicinity was taken yesterday with the announcement that the Porter Construction company has started work on the first of nine dry kilns for the Pelican Bay Lumber company.

Cost of the construction of the new kilns will be $45,000 and excavation for foundations commenced yesterday, according to Louis K. Porter, president of the Porter Construction company. The new kilns will take the place of nine dry kilns at the Pelican Bay mill which have been in use in the past.

The kilns are to be constructed of concrete and tile and will be 122 feet long. The first block of four kilns will be completed before the lumber drying facilities which are being replaced, are torn down. Porter expects to finish this initial phase of the job by the first of the year, when work will commence on the remaining five kilns.

Cost Will Be Heavy Of interest to millmen is the fact that the Northwest Blower type of kiln equipment is to be installed in the new plant. Total outlay for the completed drying unit is estimated at $80,000. Not only will the (Continued on Page Four)

Southern Pacific And Northern Line Must Act Quickly

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—(United News)—If promises are kept the time is at hand for officials of the Southern Pacific and the northern lines to confer in earnest on arrangements of a joint line into Klamath Falls.

They have been informed that the interstate commerce commission is not pleased with the jockeying which has wasted away the summer and carried the work over for a year.

According to advices received here the officials concerned laid the matter on the shelf until the return from Europe of H. W. DeForest, chairman of the board of the Southern Pacific.

He was due in New York Tuesday and assurances were given that the Oregon construction program would be considered "as soon as practicable" after he arrived.

That the Southern Pacific is in no hurry was indicated by a letter from A. D. McDonald, vice chairman of the board, in which he informed the commission that "as the proposed work could not be started until after the opening of spring next year we respectfully submit that the public interests are not substantially affected by the present interval in the negotiations."

To this, however, Commissioner C. B. Altshuler, speaking for the commission, does not fully agree.

KLAMATH GIRL ON STAFF OF STUDENT PUBLICATION

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Oct. 20.—(United News)—Appointment of members of the news staff of the Oregon Daily Emerald, student publication, were announced Tuesday by Ray Nash, Portland, managing editor. In the staff of general news writers is Ruth Newton, Klamath Falls.

Havana is Suffering Result of Hurricane

Damage Estimated at Three Million; Many Reported Killed and Seriously Injured

HAVANA, Oct. 20.—(United News)—Twelve persons are reported to be dead, 75 to be injured, property damage is estimated at $3,000,000 and communications are paralyzed as the result of a storm of intense velocity which swept over Havana Wednesday.

The streets of the city, while passable, are strewn with glass and uprooted trees at the close of a day during which business was suspended and the army and navy was called into action to protect stores against looters.

Havana is completely cut off from communication with the interior. The Maine monument, most imposing of the Spanish-American memorials, was blown over in a storm, and broken into three pieces. Approximately 100 fishing schooners were wrecked and more than 200 smaller houses collapsed. One of several oil tanks belonging to the Belout Oil company, burned across the bay.

A storm of intense velocity has swept over Havana, leaving a trail of destruction. (Continued on Page Five)

Bank Robbers and Loot Are Taken By Lone Sheriff

CRESCENT CITY, Cal., Oct. 20.—(United News)—The courage of a northern California sheriff, who singlehandedly invaded a bandit's lair on the outskirts of Crescent City, has brought about the capture of three armed holdup men and the recovery of $1,500 stolen from a bank here last week.

Sheriff Ed Breen of Crescent City, after receiving a mysterious tip which he has not yet explained fully, descended upon a ranch 10 miles from here Wednesday evening and uncovered the secret hiding place of William Ryan, Grant Coleman and John Reman, whom Ross accuses of holding up the Del Norte County bank here Oct. 15.

The place in which the three men were hiding had been used as a moonshiner's distillery and was a veritable arsenal. Ross approached the ranch just before dusk, and, after posting men to cut off possible retreat, yelled a demand to surrender down into the ranch house cellar, where the bandits were waiting.

Although heavily armed the men gave themselves up without firing a shot. The currency stolen from the bank was found intact.

Marines to Guard U. S. Mail in All Important Centers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—(United News)—Acting under an executive order signed by President Coolidge today Major John A. Lejeune, commander of the marine corps, ordered 2,500 men on active duty, heavily armed to guard the mails from robberies, such as the recent one at Elizabeth, N. J.

Each marine will be equipped with a rifle, an automatic pistol, with 35 rounds of ammunition, and a shotgun. Each detachment will have a machine gun. Detachments will be located at practically every important railroad center, including Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Washington, Richmond, Cleveland, Cincinnati, St. Paul, St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, Atlanta, New Orleans, Fort Worth, Denver, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Spokane, Seattle and Portland.

LENIENCY SHOWN MEN WHO ROBBED JUDGE'S BROTHER

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—(United News)—"If you had robbed any one else, other than my brother, I would be severe. But I'm going to show you I'm not vindictive," Judge Frank P. Adel told two men convicted of stealing $500,000 in automobile parts from the company of which Edward A. Adel is president. The men received suspended sentences.

War on Beetles To Be Winter's Work of Klamath Forest Protector

Attention Will First Be Given to Yakey Tract Near Crater Lake to Be Followed by Fight in Aspen Lake Section

First steps in the fall campaign which the Klamath Forest Protective association is to carry on against the destructive pine beetle, will be taken today when a crew of foresters leaves here to establish a camp on the Yakey tract near Crater Lake National park.

It is reported that 15 men will be located at the camp to assist in the beetle control work under Harry Baum, in charge of the operations in the Yakey tract. It is expected that about two weeks will be required to rid this section of timber of the pest, which during the past four years, has ravaged millions of feet of valuable timber in southern Oregon and northern California.

With fire season officially closed last week and the patrolmen and lookouts from various points in the county being called in for the winter, many of these foresters will be enlisted in the campaign against the bug.

Following the purging of the Yakey tract, the camp will probably be moved into infested timber in the Aspen Lake district. To clean an area which has been entered by the pine beetle, it is necessary to fell the trees, strip off the bark and burn the peeled trunks of infested trees.

Local Men Make Bag of Two Deer At Harp Springs

Byron LeRoy Hardenbrook and Paul Jackson Dalton, armed to the teeth and hips, left Klamath Falls by dawn's rosy light Tuesday morning, with a view of slaying a deer.

They big off more than they could chew, and chewed it for they came back with two of the finest specimens of deerhood seen in the great open spaces for many a red-eyed moon.

They spent Tuesday, what was left of it when they got there, in the Harp Springs country—wherever that is. It takes an ordinary man two weeks to get a bag like this but these two men who come from that country where men are men, and two-fingers is a monthful, brought down the deer in a day.

Hardenbrook returned with a 260-pound mule deer over his shoulder, making him humped-backed for life. Dalton tagged along behind with his plump little catch, a forked pointer, dragging the dust behind. Let it be said right here in this chronicle, that Hardenbrook's deer friend boasted eight horns on one side of its head and seven on the other.

It's all over but the shouting now, boys, but there'll be many a juicy bite from the hams of those husky venison brought down from God's own country, the Harp Springs land.

BLACKSMITH REPORTS HIT-AND-RUN AUTOIST

Charles B. House, well known blacksmith, reported one of the numerous accidents of the week to the sheriff's office following a collision Tuesday at the corner of Ninth and High streets.

According to House, a man driving a car with Idaho license No. S-178, ran into him when he had the right-of-way at the corner.

Normal Expansion of Klamath is Urged to be Carried Forward

"Build for the future generations of Klamath Falls with normal expansion, and not inflation as the basis for the great development that is to come."

In those few brief words Bishop William P. Remington of the diocese of Eastern Oregon, addressed the forum luncheon guests at the chamber of commerce yesterday.

Eugene Debs Dies Peacefully Among Closest Friends

Picturesque Leader of American Socialists Dies Last Night in Elmhurst Sanitarium; Nationally Known.

ELMHURST, Ill., Oct. 20.—(United News)—Eugene Victor Debs, picturesque leader of American socialists for 32 years, died in a sanitarium here tonight at 7:34 p. m.

Debs had been suffering intensely from nephritis for the last four weeks. Early yesterday he became unconscious and physicians announced there was no hope for his recovery.

With Debs when he died were his wife, Katherine; his brother, Theodore; his two sisters, Mrs. Fred Heintz of Terre Haute, Ind., and Mrs. C. O. Mailloux of New York, and Dr. H. O. Wiseman, his personal physician.

Those who had been close to Debs in recent months knew that the aged campaigner was reconciled to the fate which chronic nephritis had imposed upon him. (Continued on Page Five)

Woman Prisoner Falls on Stairs; Is Badly Injured

Mrs. Frances McEwan, federal prisoner, who was seriously injured when she fell headlong down the stairs of the county poor farm, was in a serious condition last night, according to Dr. G. S. Newsom, who is attending the injured woman.

Mrs. McEwan, charged by federal officers with sale of intoxicating liquor, was bound over to the grand jury and detained at the poor farm. Deputy United States Marshal Wells arrived in the city Tuesday to take Mrs. McEwan and Fred McDaniels to Portland. At 7:15 o'clock Tuesday night, Mrs. McEwan had packed her belongings and was preparing to leave with Wells, when she fell. It is thought she fainted.

According to Dr. Newsom, health officer, Mrs. McEwan is suffering from internal injuries which may prove fatal. She is lying at the poor farm.

Americanization Classes Making Good Headway

When foreign born residents of the United States ask more questions in one hour than their instructors can answer in a week with the aid of Noah Webster and a good sized encyclopedia, it is time for American born men and women to sit up and take notice at what is going on around them.

This is the opinion of Louis Mueller, Americanization officer of Klamath post of the American Legion, who is working with Don Fisher in the naturalization and reading and writing classes being conducted this winter.

The classes will be held tonight in the Veterans building with reading and writing classes at 8:30 o'clock and naturalization classes at 7:30 o'clock. Classes will start twice a week soon, Mueller stated. Along with the work of the Legion smoker to be held in November, H. S. Mathews, F. R. Olds and Louis Mueller are in charge of the affair. The Medford American Legion post has been invited to the affair, the date of which will be announced later, and the valley veterans are planning to attend 100 per cent strong.

Crater Lake Road Is Still Open to Traveling Public

Coming as one of the happiest announcements of recent weeks, was the word brought to Klamath Falls yesterday by Colonel C. G. Thomson, superintendent of Crater Lake national park, when he stated that the park is still open to traffic, and probably will remain so for at least two or three weeks.

Colonel Thomson, with an aide, made the trip from the park to Klamath Falls in a little over two hours and a half. The snow at the park is entirely gone, and the rain has postponed the oiling of the road indefinitely.

According to Colonel Thomson, the weather is not the temperature that might be expected. "We have not been wearing more than our usual heavy sweaters," the park superintendent said, showing a light olive knit sweater under his uniform. "It is not more than 15 degrees colder at the rim of the crater than right here in Klamath (Continued on Page Six)

Bishop Remington Talks to Students Of Klamath High

"If you think you can face the tasks of life without Almighty God as a partner, you're mistaken," was the ringing statement which Bishop Remington flung at the student body of the local high school in his address during assembly yesterday.

"Beating the Facts of Life" was the subject upon which the Bishop spoke and in reference to cooperation, said: "It is impossible for us to get along in life by disregarding other people. Team play in all lines of endeavor is quite as essential as it is on the gridiron or basketball court if success is the goal." Bishop Remington was introduced to the students by Reverend J. Henry Thomas, pastor of the local Episcopal church, who addressed a few brief remarks to the student body in presenting the principal speaker.
