

Irrigation Suit Bill in Congress Is Investigated

That the committee in congress in whose hands the Klamath Irrigation District Suit bill rests, will take action on the bill soon after congress convenes in December, is the hope of Lawrence A. Liljequist, special assistant to the attorney general, Portland, who arrived here yesterday to spend several days gathering additional data on the matter.

The bill was drafted to have congress extend permission to the state of Oregon to bring suit against the government for the setting aside of the present contract between the government and the California-Oregon Power company for power rights on Link River. When introduced to the committee last spring by a representative group from Oregon, including Liljequist, R. E. Bradbury, and others, action was delayed by the committee until it became too late to get the bill before congress.

It is expected by the majority of those interested that congress will take an avorable stand in the matter and grant Oregon the right to bring suit against the government. The big thing now, it is stated, is to get the bill before congress without further delay.

Once the suit bill is approved, the state of Oregon will take steps to have the government get aside the contract made in 1917 with Copco. The state holds, and the stand is concurred in by leading engineers, that power development on Link river should be controlled by the government so that revenue derived therefrom can be returned to the people and farmers under the reclamation project, aiding the latter in the repayment of construction and maintenance charges.

"In spite of the fact that several districts under the project are opposing the state's plan to have the people control these valuable power rights, it is especially for their interests that the move has been launched," Liljequist declared. "The setting aside of the present contract, which gives Copco the power rights in exchange for little more than the construction of a small dam, would mean inestimable saving to the water users in helping them repay government construction charges."

"The entire purpose of the present bill, however, is to gain for the state the power rights, and to set against the government for alleged violation of the contract, he pointed out.

KLAMATH DAIRIES AMONG LEADERS

er pointed out. The report received here yesterday came earlier in the month than usual, due to the fact that Lee Craft, local dairy inspector, took the milk samples to Corvallis on an advanced date.

The Mountain Dairy received the high score for this month with a test figure of 95.1, which places this milk dispensary in class A. Next highest was Crater Lake dairy, with a score of 94.5. The dairies A. Manera and Emil Schell, follow with scores of 93.9 and 93.3 respectively. All three of these dairies are thus in class B under state regulations.

In class C, come the dairies of C. L. Holliday and the Hale brothers, with respective scores of 89.9 and 87.7. The Lost River dairy received a score of 81.8, which is class H. This dairy stood at the top last month.

will be heard at the convenience of attorneys and the court.

An old case, that of W. D. Locke, charged with shooting Jack Palmer's horse, on August 21, was brought up yesterday and Locke entered a plea of not guilty. His bond was set at $100 which he immediately provided. His trial will be held at the convenience of the attorneys and court.

Matt Forssett, charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, was given a fine of $100 and 60 days in the county jail. Forssett's driver's license was revoked for a period of one year at the recommendation of the district attorney, E. L. Elliott.

Lester Hixon, alleged horse thief, was brought before Justice R. A. Emmitt and October 28 set as the date of his examination. Hixon is charged with the theft of four mules, the property of J. R. Fogg, Bonanza rancher. In default of $5,000 bonds set by the court, he was returned to the county jail. Hixon will leave for Salem this morning to complete eight years of a 19-year sentence for violation of his parole. Hixon was sent from Klamath county on the charge of cattle rustling.

A number of minor violations were brought before the justice late in the afternoon by irate ranchers who seek justice against hunters whom they charge shoot from the highway into restricted areas. The case of J. T. Bartholf, Klamath county rancher, charged with issuing a bad check to Joe Cass, was taken under advisement by Justice Emmitt, and his decision will be given within three days.

Hurricane Deaths On Isle of Pines Not Exaggerated

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(United News)—In addition to the three Americans already reported killed by the Isle of Pines hurricane, a hundred Americans were injured, eight seriously, Captain Clark H. Woodward, commanding the U. S. S. Milwaukee reported to the navy tonight after a personal inspection of the island.

Twenty-two citizens of other nations were killed and 100 injured, 40 seriously, Woodward said. Thirty-seven, including six Americans, have been sent to Havana for treatment. Property damage was estimated by Woodward at $2,000,000. He said 65 per cent of the American homes and business houses on the island were destroyed. No names were given in the message.

DEMOCRATS FIGHTING HARD FOR SENATORS

ected in 33 states, including two from Indiana, where candidates are running for a short term to fill out the vacancy left by Senator Ralston's death, which Arthur R. Robinson is holding under appointment.

The seven democrats whose terms expire all happen to come from solid southern states so that there is no probability any will be defeated. This leaves 27 republican seats to be fought for. If the democrats can take nine of them they will obtain clear control of the senate with a majority of one vote.

Eleven of these republican-held seats are from New England and other almost certain republican states. From the remaining sixteen seats in doubtful states now held by republicans the democrats must get their nine seats. These states are: Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana (two seats), Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Missouri, Nevada, New York, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon and Washington.

Turning to the house we find the republicans with a listed majority of 59, assuming that the three farmer labor and the two socialist congressmen would vote with the democrats in organizing the house and electing the speaker. Thus, giving the democrats the full benefit of the doubt concerning these five stray congressmen they should need 30 seats to win a majority.

Seeking the election to the office of County Commissioner I am aware of the fact that to many of the voters I am unknown. I take this means to inform you of what I believe paramount issues: Connecting up all smaller arteries or roads to our completed highways, that the people who have waited patiently for years may enjoy the same privilege as those fortunate enough to have been located on them. Open competition in all contracts by contractors. Open door at all times while court is in session. Star chamber sessions taboo. The people of east part of county are seeking representatives in County Court. Having no voice in the Court for seven-teen years, and have selected me as their standard bearer. I feel proud of the following letter handed me with instructions to use as I saw fit, which may serve to show some things for which I stand.

LANGELL VALLEY IRRIGATION DISTRICT

October 23, 1926.

Mr. Tichnor has been a resident and successful farmer of Langell Valley for a number of years, and was one of the most energetic workers in the interest of the Langell Valley Irrigation District and it is largely due to the efforts of Mr. Tichnor that the Langell Valley Irrigation District was organized in 1919. He was the first President of the Board of Directors of the District, resigning in November, 1922, to enter construction work. He has always been a leader in public and district affairs and untiring in his efforts to help secure the best for the community and the district at all times. His reputation is unquestioned and his loyalty in district and community affairs gives us the right to heartily endorse him as a Public Servant of Klamath County.

FOR County Assessor W. T. Lee familiarly known as Bill Lee Your servant for the past six years (Paid political adv.)

TOM WATTERS For Mayor of Klamath. "There are hundreds of homes in Klamath Falls in which thousands of people live, which are not now connected with the sewer system. The sewage that is collected is not destroyed but pollutes our streams and spreads the menace. This condition cannot be allowed to continue because it threatens us every day with epidemic diseases, worse than war, and undermines the health of every person in the city, even though he have his own home perfectly sewered. The new sewers and disposal plants must be built some time. They will cost no more now and will save health and lives if built immediately. There is no excuse for one day's delay in the construction of a complete sewer system. Sewers should be built before houses and not after. "We need many things and would like many more but we must have sewers. One year, or at most two, should see the system completed to meet our present needs, and extended beyond that to meet the future. This will cost money but it must be spent and will be well invested. "It is cheaper to build sewers than to bury children. "So you can put down as Number Two: Every Home Is Entitled to a Sewer WATTERS FOR MAYOR CLUB ARCHIE L. RICE Paid Advertisement
