

Football Game Is To Be Probed by Army Officials

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 28.—(United News)—Official investigation of the recent Army-Syracuse football game in which five players were seriously injured is to be opened at West Point next Monday.

Brigadier General M. B. Stewart, superintendent of the military academy, and Chancellor Flint of Syracuse university, will question witnesses regarding alleged unnecessary roughness during the game, which was the first between football teams of the two institutions for several years, and which eventually was won by the Army, 27 to 21.

Trappel of the Army was carried from the field with blood streaming from his face, which had been raked by cleats. He and Elias of the Army, who sustained a badly wrenched knee, were taken to the hospital after the game.

Carr of Syracuse was so badly hurt that he may not play again this season, while Goldman and Friedman of the Orange squad also were severely injured.

Quarterback Baysinger of Syracuse, who lost his head and assaulted Referee Victor Schwartz, was banished from the game and afterwards resigned from the Orange football squad.

Future athletic contests between the Army and Syracuse are understood to hinge on the investigation.

Hudgins left by way of a rear fire escape about six months ago upon learning of the serious illness of a brother in Fort Worth. He was re-arrested later and the privilege of serving his sentence in the county jail rather than at San Quentin penitentiary was granted on his promise.

Phantom Clubber Still at Large In Toledo, Ohio

TOLEDO, Ohio, Oct. 28.—(United News)—A demented white man and a negro are under arrest in connection with the "phantom clubber" mystery which has enveloped the whole city, especially the women, with a sensation of vague fear.

The two women who were clubbed to death this week brought the total number of the clubber's victims to five. Last November three women were killed and two others severely beaten in the same manner as Miss Lily Crox, 28-year-old school teacher, and Mrs. Mary Ann Alden, 47, met their deaths on Monday and Tuesday of this week.

Women have been warned to remain off the streets at night unescorted, and to bolt the doors of their homes. Police leaves have been canceled and patrolmen and detectives are ready for 24-hour duty.

Ann Arbor Hurries to Baltimore for Clash With Navy

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 28.—(United News)—Coach "Hurricane" Yost and 24 Michigan football players, six managers and the varsity band are hurrying to Baltimore, hopeful, but not too confident, that they will beat the Navy.

"Last year's game is only a memory; it doesn't mean anything," said Captain Bennie Friedman as he swung on to the Pullman step. "We know we've got a battle ahead and we aren't going down there with our illusions."

Coach Yost was singing the blues, although he admitted that not a single injury marred the battlefront which he will present to the middies in Saturday's game.

"Your team is not the great machine it was a year ago," he told the fans in a farewell speech from the rear of the train. "Navy is a much stronger team. I do not expect to see any team perform so perfectly as Michigan did against Navy a year ago. This is going to be a real fight."

Among the five or six hundred Michigan students who have bought tickets on the special trains that start to Baltimore Friday night, not a reflection of Yost's gloom could be found. They were all pretty confident that the Navy wouldn't win.

Yost said probably the same lineup would be used against the middies as was used last week against Illinois. Flora and Custer, ends; Gabel and Baer, tackles; Rich and Gilbert, halves; and Molenda at fullback.

The train bearing the team was to stop Friday in Washington to give President Coolidge a chance to shake hands with all the players. The squad will stay over night Friday at Annapolis at the invitation of the United States naval academy, journeying to Baltimore for the game.

Merchant Prince, John C. Shedd, Leaves Millions

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—(United News)—A merchant prince's philosophy of wealth was revealed posthumously here when the will of John G. Shedd, late head of Marshall Field and company, disposing of $15,215,000, was filed for probate.

During his life time, while he was still young enough to enjoy the fruits of good work, Shedd gave millions of dollars to charity, but of the vast fortune that he left at his death not a cent goes to charitable objects.

One of the gifts that made Shedd a nationally known philanthropist was the $3,000,000 which he gave to Chicago for the construction of a large aquarium in Grant Park.

"During my life I have made what I regarded as appropriate gifts to charity," Shedd wrote in his will, apparently explaining why all of his estate was being left to friends and relatives.
