

Coolidge Boom Is Started Enroute To Kansas City

Aboard President Coolidge's Special Train En Route to Kansas City, Nov. 10.—(United News)—A boom for President Coolidge in 1928 was sent echoing through the Pennsylvania railroad station in Indianapolis, when the executive's special train halted there for ten minutes tonight.

A huge throng cheered the President and Mrs. Coolidge for several minutes when they appeared on the rear platform of their train at the insistence of one leather lunged citizen. The cheers concluded, the same citizen proclaimed: "Coolidge in 1928." The crowd took up the boom and echoed ten or twelve more hurrahs and the president acknowledged their demonstration with a broad smile.

The demonstration at Indianapolis was evenly divided between the executive and the first lady. Included in the crowd were more than 25 young lady members of the Pi Beta Phi sorority, of which Mrs. Coolidge is a member. They serenaded Mrs. Coolidge with sorority songs.

"I know who you girls are," Mrs. Coolidge said. "You are Pi Phi girls. Your songs take me back thirty-five years." One man in the crowd of girls outstretched his hand and Mrs. Coolidge shook it, asking: "Are you a Pi Phi, too?" The man's face flushed with embarrassment and he ducked back into the crowd. After singing one song the girls presented Mrs. Coolidge with a bouquet of flowers. Another cheer was sent out when the train departed.

President and Mrs. Coolidge tonight enjoyed the latest moving picture productions. The president's car was converted into a miniature motion picture theatre, and the executive couple, Secretary of War Davis, Secretary to the President Sanders, and the military aides enjoyed the showing of several reels.

The president spent most of the day reading newspapers and appearing on the rear platform with Mrs. Coolidge during the few stops that were made. The largest gathering to meet the party was at Columbus, Ohio, where Senator Willis and Congressman Speaks of Ohio, boarded the train during its ten minute stop, and talked with President and Mrs. Coolidge.

A rousing reception was given the president at Richmond, Ind. Several hundred people gathered around the train and sent up a deafening cheer when he appeared on the rear platform.

Coolidge To Help Dedicate Memorial For Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 10.—(United News)—The president of the United States is coming to Kansas City Thursday. The city is all ready to show him that the people are in the heart of America in fact as well as geographically. Enough reception committees to crowd a ball park will be at the station to greet President Coolidge when his party arrives at 8 o'clock in the morning.

The booming salutes will beat off the tympanic membrane of his ears when he steps off the train, and when he walks through the station to the sidewalk where the taxicabs hold forth the president will see a city rolled up in bunting and streamers and thousands of flags. At 10 o'clock President Coolidge will leave his hotel to be escorted to Kansas City's new war memorial, a colossal structure that cost two million dollars and precipitated an argument as to whether it was worth it or not that hasn't yet been settled.

The last time President Coolidge was here this spectacular structure that stretches high over the billboards and the electric signs was only a cornerstone. He was vice-president then and he laid that cornerstone. Now he is president and he is to dedicate it. After the dedication ceremonies, which are to be impressive, the president will return to a hotel for luncheon, only it will not be the same hotel at which he stopped a few hours before. Both the leading hotels insisted on entertaining the president and a compromise had to be effected.

After the luncheon, to which everybody in town, incidentally, has been fighting for an invitation, President Coolidge will be taken for an automobile trip across the Missouri river into Kansas City, Kas. At 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon President Coolidge and his party will entrain for Washington.

European Royalty Witnesses Wedding of Prince Leopold

BRUSSELS, Nov. 10.—(United News)—One of the most brilliant wedding fetes in the recent history of European royalty ended Wednesday night when Crown Prince Leopold and Princess Astrid, future rulers of Belgium, prepared for a secret honeymoon, following their religious marriage at noon. After giving themselves over to pre-nuptial ceremonies in Stockholm and Brussels, in which kings, queens, princesses and the people had all a part, Leopold and Astrid allowed conflicting reports to be circulated as to the place of their honeymoon.

First it was said that they would go deep into the Belgian forests, to the chalet de Clergen in the Ardennes district to spend their first night, away from the fanfare which has surrounded them. Visits to France and Switzerland might be made later, it was said. Another story had them going to Cairo to spend their honeymoon near the pyramids and the ancient temples of Egypt.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 10.—Flourished in a dramatic gesture to indicate how a woman's throat might have been cut, the razor which the state contends was used to mutilate the body of Mrs. Eleanor Mills was introduced Wednesday into the trial of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her brothers.

The bullets which ended the lives of the choir singer and the Rev. Dr. Edward Wheeler Hall four years ago, rattled on the witness stand like dice cast for the defendants' fate. A master showman, Senator Simpson, the sprightly, diminutive prosecutor, produced his gruesome exhibits, glancing repeatedly towards the accused widow and her brothers, Henry and "Willie" Stevens, to see what effect his maneuver had upon them.

Mrs. Hall Indifferent The staid calm, almost indifference, which has characterized the attitude of Mrs. Hall from the start, was unmovable. The witness, Arthur Smith, smiled as he drew the open razor across his throat, at Simpson's request, to demonstrate how it might have been handled to inflict the gaping wound upon Mrs. Mills. Spectators gasped uneasily in the still, crowded little courtroom.
