

Red Shirts Win Over Pelicans By Score of 20 to 0

Grants Pass, due to an epidemic of smallpox in the Rogue River valley city, will not meet Klamath Falls on their gridiron November 25, as officially scheduled, according to announcement made yesterday afternoon by Principal Paul T. Jackson of Klamath county high school.

The contest between the Red Shirts and the White Pelicans, both local teams from the high school, completed as far as is known at present, the football schedule for this winter. It also ends the pigskin history in "prep" school for Frank Hall, Zed Barnes, Joe Bliss, George Connors, and Pat Lucas.

The Red Shirts, captained by Frank Hall, trimmed the White Pelicans, 20 to 0, before a record crowd for a purely local football contest yesterday. Funds derived from gate receipts will go into the student body treasury.

The Red Shirts include the regular first string men, while the White Pelicans had on their line a number of second string men, and Bill Hessler, Roland Cofer, Carl Yancey and a few other post grads and boys too old to play during pennant games. "Dutch" French, coach, was referee.

With the conclusion of the football season, the next athletic series will be county basketball. Klamath county high school won the silver loving cup last winter for the championship team and are out to win again. The four senior boys who will be lost to next year's gridiron, are turning out for basketball enthusiastically. Hall and Barnes made their letters last year and are looked upon as whirlwinds this season. Pat Lucas will also be on the floor and vie for hoop tossing honors.

A meeting of all principals and athletic coaches of Klamath county high school, Hentley, Malin, Merrill, Bonanza and Chiloquin high schools will be held in the office of County School Superintendent Fred Peterson Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock to outline a basketball schedule for the winter.

It is not yet known whether Klamath high will travel to the valley for basketball honors or not.

Stribbling Bout With Levinsky Is Unusually Tame

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 11.—(United News)—Young Stribbling, Atlanta, Ga., and Battling Levinsky, Philadelphia, fought ten slow, uninteresting rounds here tonight.

It was Stribbling's bout, but neither man displayed any inclination to land a blow worth writing about. Levinsky was badly punished in the early rounds, but the bout resolved itself into a wrestling match in the final stages.

By far the best fight of the evening was the semi-windup between Glen Lage, Des Moines welterweight and Emil Morrow, Cuban of Sioux City. Morrow taking the first two rounds, with Lage taking six of the eight rounds by a good margin. Both men absorbed plenty punishment and the bout was full of action from the opening gong.

Princeton Sends Box of Cigars to Boston Policemen

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 11.—(United News)—Princeton's students have sent a box of cigars to each Boston policeman engaged in the rampus which resulted in the seizure of the Harvard goalposts after the victories of the Tigers over the Crimson last Saturday and there is a general tendency on the Princeton campus to deplore, but not to apologize for severance of athletic relations between the two universities.

The sole topic of conversation on the campus here Thursday was the break with Harvard. Princeton's board of athletic control has the unanimous support of the student body, which realizes that Harvard was on the verge of dropping the Tigers from the football schedule.

When word spread throughout the student body that Harvard had been notified that Princeton would no longer continue athletic relations with the Crimson the first tendency was to cheer; the second to regret the fracture in the structure of the big three.

A telegram of apology from the editorial board of the Harvard Lampoon in part mollified and eased the bitter feelings of the Princetonians. But it was realized it was too late to restore the breach in athletic relations, the fourth which has occurred between the two institutions of learning in 50 years.

The editors of the Lampoon telegraphed as follows:

"The Lampoon in its latest issue was guilty of a breach of good taste which has not the support of Harvard authorities and graduates and which gave a very unfavorable impression of Harvard manners. We apologize to you for having shown such lack of tact.

"At the same time we continue to believe, as we stated in our editorial, that the feeling last Saturday was not that of friendly rivalry and that nothing but an open discussion and eradication of the causes will heal the breach.

"That this undeniably exists we regret, and apologize for having presented it in an offensive manner."
