

Enormous Quantity Turkey Necessary To Feed Prisoners

LEAVENWORTH, Kans., Nov. 29.—(United News)—The convicts of three institutions here are to celebrate Thanksgiving with a good old fashioned eating bout, the kind that would have delighted Gargantua himself.

The social outcasts who are to sit at the mammoth feast number 6,160. Some of them are confined in the federal penitentiary, others in the United States disciplinary barracks and still others in the Kansas state prison.

In defiance of the old adage about too many cooks spoiling the broth every cook who wears the prison garb has been called upon to do his stuff and several hundred of them were working tonight preparing the feast.

At the federal prison 3,400 pounds of chicken will be required to feed 3,265 convicts. In addition the following will be placed on the table, according to the acting warden, T. E. White: three hundred quarts of cranberries; 175 gallons of fresh oysters; 1,500 bunches of celery and 1,300 pounds of mince-meat.

And after the feast is over the federal prisoners will attend the prison movie.

The military prisoners in the disciplinary barracks will be entertained by a football game in the afternoon, played by fellow convicts. In the evening a boxing show will regale them.

At the Kansas state prison the feature of the menu will be roast pork, but cranberry sauce and pie will be called into play as trimmings.

These inmates also will see a movie in the evening and a boxing show in the evening.

DAMAGING TESTIMONY AT TRIAL OF DOHENY

officials and obtained a tentative proposal from Doheny before $100,000 advance, although Doheny counsel had insisted previously that this project was not brought up until some time after the money transaction.

The defense placed great reliance on a letter from Doheny to Fall, instructing him to go ahead with the Hawaiian contracts, but the prosecutors showed by the letters that this followed months after Fall had raised the subject and that Doheny's letter actually was dated the day before Doheny advanced the $100,000 to Fall.

Meanwhile, the defense subpoenaed Secretary of the Navy Wilbur to produce secret documents supporting its contention that the Hawaiian naval base project was the result of a Japanese war scare.

Wilbur is gathering data, but may seek to present it secretly in court.

The issue now pending is whether the prosecutors can lay before the jury the original Doheny "confession" regarding the $100,000 advance, or whether the defense will be allowed to build up the story in its own way.

Further arguments will be heard Friday before Justice Hoehling decides.

These Cincinnatians Have Lived 675 Years

Romance is seated at the table as seven oldest residents of Cincinnati have an Old Folks' party to celebrate the centennial anniversary of vaudeville. They were approaching maturity when the Mexican war was fought; they lived through the days of the Civil war; they had reached, or were close to, the allotted three score and ten when the Spanish-American conflict took place; and were within hailing distance of the century mark at the outbreak of the World war. From left to right they are, E. P. Bradstreet, 96; Mrs. Sophia Maul, 100; Michael Detsel, 94; Mrs. Barbara Rauch, 101; Mrs. Margaret Porter, 94; William Frankhaus, 96; and Harry Ebert, Sr., 94.

Eloping Couple Made Defendants in Criminal Case

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24.—(United News)—Mrs. Isabel Keys Burch, New York society woman, has been made co-defendant with Captain Arnaldo Marson, former Italian war ace, and arraigned with him on a charge of violating the Mann act.

Mrs. Burch was released after the hearing on her own recognizance and Marson was liberated on $1,000 bail, furnished by his attorney after the United States Commissioner Francis Krull had exacted promises from both that they would not see or communicate with each other pending disposition of the charges.

Visibly shaken, Mrs. Burch sat with downcast eyes while Commissioner Krull scored her for deserting two children in New York and cloping to this city with the former Italian officer.

Captain Marson, second husband of Mrs. Burch's mother-in-law, also was denounced by Krull for his part in the love affair.

When asked for a pledge that she would not seek to see Marson, Mrs. Burch hesitated, finally concurring in a trembling voice.

Marson readily gave his consent.

Mrs. Roy Hatcher, a former school mate of Mrs. Burch in Yonkers, N. Y., went to the latter's side during the hearing, volunteering her aid. She departed when Mrs. Burch refused the offer.

Marson and Mrs. Burch have admitted the trip from New York, where Mrs. Burch abandoned her husband and children. She is the granddaughter of the late Bishop Charles Sumner Burch of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York.

FIVE MEN HELD TO ACTION GRAND JURY

in a small shack back of the brickyard, waived examination before Justice Emmitt when they were charged with larceny from a dwelling.

The four, John McKeever, Robert McKeever, W. Murray and Russell Murray, are charged with taking tools valued at $150 from F. S. Arnold, a guest at the Central hotel. According to the complaint signed by Arnold, one tool case, six hand saws, one coping saw, one compass saw, three planes, two boring braces, sundry bits, one steel square, two tri-squares, one level, sundry chisels as well as one carpenter's tools.

The charge of larceny was filed against them by L. M. Julian, traveling man from whom it is alleged they stole a sample case and a quantity of chewing and smoking tobacco valued at $15.

It is thought that the four men, apparently related, are from Seattle.

Following is the personnel of the grand jury which will convene Monday at the court house: C. H. Underwood, Harry Telford, J. W. Turner, T. F. Boggs, J. S. McCallan, E. D. Truelove and J. T. Edsall.

STOCKTON IS PROVIDING FOR LARGE AIRFIELD

U. S. AMBASSADOR TO HOLD CONFERENCE

had trouble with diplomatically for so many years.

While British interests own property in Mexico it is not so valuable in total as that owned by persons in the United States. Therefore, many observers maintain Great Britain will not necessarily follow the American course if Washington severs relations.

Some senators took issue with Secretary of State Kellogg's stand as revealed in the notes made public Wednesday, believing that his position is too insistent in view of the circumstances. One senator even went so far as to say he thought Mexico justified in her stand. It was predicted also that Mexico probably would recede somewhat from her position and an adjustment be reached.

What Mexico is attempting to do it was said in one quarter, is to squeeze out certain foreign interests she regards as undesirable, while she will take care of those she regards as desirable.

Senator Borah made the most comprehensive comment on the situation and his view is significant as he has been in touch with the state department through the recent negotiations and had been informed by Kellogg as to what was transpiring.

"I do not think there is going to be any break with Mexico," he said. "I hope not."

"A break would not help matters in the least. Mexico is seeking to work out certain property problems, to change the nature of property, as it were, in Mexico, and the state department is seeking, while this process is going on, to protect the property rights of American business."

"Undoubtedly emphatic language has been used. An important matter of this kind naturally gives rise to definite and specific contentions. But it does not necessarily follow that we are going to break with Mexico."

Senator Norris, Nebraska republican, said the state department was not justified in the stand it took.

Senator Fess, Ohio republican, said if the rights of Americans are jeopardized this government ought to act with severity.

Senator Wheeler, Montana, democrat, has announced his intention of introducing a resolution for an investigation of the foreign relations committee, of the whole trend of affairs between the United States and Mexico recently.

Several other senators have indicated they would support such a resolution.

CHEVROLET ROADSTER STOLEN AT TENTH AND MAIN STREETS

R. E. Hoeye, connected with the advertising department of The News, filled his Chevrolet roadster with gas last night and at 10 o'clock parked it at Tenth and Main streets. He returned 30 minutes later and found the auto was missing.

The car is a Chevrolet roadster and bears the California license No. 790-926. The matter was reported to the police, the sheriff and State Traffic Officer Walter Foster.

Charges are reasonable considering Valley Hospital.

Trial of Woman On Murder Charge Gives Sensations

TILLAMOOK, Nov. 24.—(United News)—New sensations were on record in the murder trial of Mrs. Eva N. McGee, with the testimony of one witness that she saw Dr. McGee sign the papers asking for an insurance policy to be transferred from his children to his wife's name, and the testimony of two more witnesses that Dr. McGee poisoned his wife.

At the night session Mrs. Edna Kiehm, Burns, Oregon, was called and told the jury of arriving at the Netherlands hotel, operated by Mrs. McGee. She declared that Dr. McGee was coming out of a convulsion and gasping out: "I took — too much."

Mrs. Ethel Bates was then summoned and testified that she was with Mrs. Kiehm and that she overheard the same remark by the ill physician.

Mrs. Florence Ahop testified that she saw Dr. McGee sign the papers which asked that the beneficiary of a life insurance policy be changed to his wife, Mrs. McGee. She said he signed the paper, placed it in an envelope and asked her to air mail it.

This testimony was the most favorable brought out by the defense, tending to disprove the state charge that Mrs. McGee gave her husband strychnine and that his insurance was the motive.

Dr. McGee died August 17, while under his wife's care following a slight automobile accident, from which he had practically recovered when he became ill as the result of alleged strychnine poisoning.

money. The judge asked him, and he replied: "Eat off it."

"Have you any money in the bank?"

"Yes."

"Where?"

"Almost any bank."

Further questions developed that Jackson liked to go fishing.

"Why?" asked the judge.

"To catch fish," confided Jackson.

"Do you know this is a court, Jackson?"

"No."

"Do you know that I am a judge?"

"No."

"Do you know why I am questioning you?"

"No."

"Would you like to give some of your money to Indian children?"

"Yes, when I am dead, but I am not dead yet."

The $550,000 given the Baptists was for the Bacone Indian school in Oklahoma, and it already had been turned over with the approval of the department of the interior, although Jackson told the judge that he had no desire to make any gifts to school until after his death. He said he signed no paper to authorize anyone to make such gifts of his money, although his thumbprint appears on a document of authorization which was filed away in Washington.

Perfect Love Ends With Death Butler and Annie Oakley

ROYAL OAK, Mich., Nov. 21.—(United News)—The death here last night of Frank Butler, husband of the late "Annie Oakley," the most famous markswoman and exhibition shot of all time, ended one of the most perfect love stories ever lived in America.

His death came only three weeks after that of his wife, and relatives believe a broken heart hastened the end. For more than fifty years Butler was his wife's manager. She was one of the pioneers in the field of "careers for women." Before he met Annie Oakley, Butler was a well known shot, but he often admitted his wife was better than he. Annie's greatest fame never marred their happiness.

"Little Annie Oakley," according to the story of her romance, as she herself tells it in her diary, now being published, met Frank Butler when she was a little backwoods girl of 15. He was born in a log cabin at a cross roads in the woods of Ohio, in a place later called Woodville, about 30 miles from Greenville.

Annie hunted with a gun as big as herself from her childhood to provide food for nine brothers and sisters. The keeper of the cross roads hotel who brought "Little Annie's" game, arranged a shooting match for her when she was 16. It was to be with Frank Butler, who had a wide state wide reputation as a fine shot.

Annie and her brother scored together the forfeit money of $59. She won the match and the heart of her opponent. They were married in 1876 and never spent an hour apart until shortly before Mrs. Butler's death in Greenville, three weeks ago.

After his marriage to Annie Oakley, Butler went on the road with her. He expected her to take the place of his partner who had held the reins and cards and balls as they were shot out of his hand. But Annie insisted that she fire every other shot. At their first performance, she took the show away from her husband. Butler never appeared publicly with her again in other than the role of manager and assistant. He never rebelled at his job and the eclipse of his fame.

RADIO FANS INCREASE AT TRIMMENDOUS RATE

Thirty-seven thousand radio receivers were in use in America in 1926. In 1926 the number is 5,000,000, according to estimate. In 1922 sales of sets, parts and accessories totaled $16,000,000; this year the total is expected to reach $520,000,000. One family in every 20 in this country now has a radio set.
