

Dear Old Santa Claus Working Two Shifts Reading Pleasing Letters He Receives from Kiddies of This City

Do you know kids, Santa Claus has had to buy an extra pair of glasses to read all those letters that have come his way during the past two weeks.

But below we are giving just a few of the several hundred addressed to the Santa Claus editor, in hoping to win one of the 10 wonderful prizes offered by Klamath's merchants.

In case you are forgetting, here they are in order: Wrist watch from Glover's Jewelry store; beautiful doll from Golden Rule Corp.; a jade green pen and pencil set from Shaw-McKee; Flexible Flyer from the Davis Furniture company; a smart blazer from Brownsville Woolen Mills; scooter from Roberts & Harvey Hardware company; candy enough for many glorious feasts from Harry Cash grocery; a Packard roadster of long, sleek lines from the Variety store; a $5.00 savings account started for a boy or girl in the American National bank; a baby doll that sleeps from Underwood's Pharmacy.

And remember the surprise we promised you yesterday? Well here it is.

Christmas day, at one o'clock, in the News office, the prizes for the best 10 letters will be given. But that is not all. If you aren't one of the 10 lucky boys and girls, there is something for you after all. Harry Poole of the Pine Tree and Liberty theatres, is giving as his Christmas gift to every boy and girl that wrote a Santa Claus letter and is here at the News office at 1:00 o'clock, a pass to his Christmas matinee. And he has gone to all sorts of trouble to get a picture that will put just the right kind of thrill and spirit into Christmas day.

Along with the theatre passes to the Liberty, there will be a bar of candy to everyone. The candy is the gift of Everett Hardenbrook and Ernest Nitschelm of the Blue Bird, and of Harold Redden of Mason-Ehrman.

And kids, by the way, Harry Poole is playing a role of Santa Claus all his own, unsolicited. And after all, that's going to make a difference, even if you didn't get one of the 10 prizes. But Mr. Poole is going to give each boy and girl at the Klamath News office Christmas Day at 1 o'clock, a pass to his special Christmas matinee at the Liberty theatre.

And, what's more, Mason-Ehrman, through the courtesy of Harold Redden, and the Blue Bird, through Everett Hardenbrook and Ernest Nitschelm, have given huge quantities of candy, luscious Christmas hard candies that will be especially palatable while watching the show that Harry Poole has lined up for you on Christmas Day.

COL. GREEN CASE READY FOR JURY (Continued from Page One) accounts of freshly flowing liquor were erroneous. "It took a bottle of Scotch to the danger and that was the only liquor there until Ivan Johnson arrived with two bottles of champagne," he said. Johnson, a young newspaper man, previously testified that Green had asked him to bring the champagne and that Green himself had supplied a large amount of Scotch whiskey. "I know positively that Green didn't drink any of the Scotch I brought," said Dodge. "He might have taken some champagne. I didn't notice."

Darling, told of how Green had obtained some government liquor for Colonel McCaskey, dying of cancer at the San Francisco Presidist. "McCaskey sent a message to Green," Major Darling said, "telling him 'for God's sake open up your heart and get me some liquor.' Green furnished fifty cents for a bottle and then had it filled and sent out."

McCaskey died shortly afterwards. General Smedley Butler is expected to testify in Green's behalf Thursday and the jury probably will get the case during the day.
