Society Debutante Is Cast on Island

Imagine a fortune-hunting society debutante and her snobbish mother, reared to be useless if ornamental fungi growing on the trunk of the social tree; imagine a spoiled, pampered son of a strong millionaire who made his money in the Northland wastes; imagine a beautiful, sincere and courageous girl who acts as secretary to the rich father;—and then imagine these people all cast away on a barren Alaskan island after their vessel has split on an ice-berg in the sullen northern seas! Add to this the picture of a terrific brute, sours on the world by his experiences in the salt mines of Siberia and as infernally cruel as he is powerful, and you will have a few inadequate flashes of what you may expect from "The Isle of Retribution," which is playing its last engagements today at the Liberty Theatre.

This rugged melodrama of the frozen wastelands is replete with punch and as vivid as a Turner sunset. It has been splendidly directed, and a superlative cast is headed by Lilian Rich, with Robert Frazer, David

Heralded Special Proves a Classic

The long heralded photoplay, "Men of Steel," opened last night at the Pine Tree Theatre. It was worth waiting for.

Milton Sills, who is credited with the authorship of the story, is seen in the starring role, and incidentally in what this writer considers his greatest screen performance.

Sills is magnificent. He starts out an ignorant laborer in an iron mine. He finishes as boss of a steel mill owner. And what a course he runs in getting there!

Here you have everything that a motion picture fan's heart could possibly desire. There is beautiful romance, wonderful love story, spectacles in the steel mills that make your heart leap up, action and then more action, laughs, settings that simply hold you spell-bound and thrills that most motion picture producers dream of but seldom put on the screen. What more could you ask?

Sills has one of the finest casts that one could hope to see assembled. Doris Kenyon in the leading woman's role does the best work we have seen from her on the screen.

Mae Allison, lovely Mae, is superb, and George Fawcett, Frank Currier, Victor McLaglen and John Kolb do much to make the picture a success.

But after all Sills is the picture. George Archibald, who directed this picture, should be proud of his work. He has reason to be very happy, as should Earl Hudson who produced it.

EXECUTIONS FOR FRAUD INCREASE IN RUSSIA

MOSCOW, Dec. 30, (U.N.)—Executions for embezzlement, fraud and speculation in the conduct of government-owned banks and commercial enterprises seem to be increasingly frequent, according to reports in the Soviet newspapers. The severe penalty of death, reserved under the law for crimes judged dangerous to the security of the state, have been reported from small towns and communities. None have been recorded recently in the larger cities such as Moscow, Leningrad or Odessa.

The East Side Civic Club meets every Wednesday evening at 7:30 in Newby's Hardware Store, 345 East Main St.
