

Sheepmen Protest Fee for Grazing

Sheepmen of Oregon, including a considerable number from the mid-state country, in conference at Pendleton at the annual meeting of the Oregon Woolgrowers' association, decided to send a delegation to Salt Lake City to meet with Secretary of Agriculture Jardine in protest against the proposed raising of grazing fees on federal domain. It was learned here from J. C. Wright, representative of the B. P. & S. in this territory, who has just returned from the Umatilla county city.

Among Central Oregon sheepmen attending the Pendleton meeting, the 30th annual conference of the woolgrowers, were Archie McPherson and Ben Taylor of Prineville, Ike Mills of Paulina and Ollie and Dan Hammond and M. R. Biggs of Prineville. Taylor, who has a large sheep ranch in the Bridge country near Mitchell, was elected one of the vice presidents of the association.

Wright also attended a woolgrowers' meeting in Yakima on Monday and Tuesday of last week. The Pendleton meeting was on Friday and Saturday.—Examiner.

UNCLE SAM HOLDS KEY TO TREASURY which the superior court directed be used to meet alimony obligations. The money is on deposit in Los Angeles and Hollywood banks.

The mandatory court order issued by Judge Guerin instructed the receivers to pay out $14,400, including support money for Mrs. Chaplin and the two Chaplin babies during the time the film comedian and his wife have been separated.

Embraced in the amount was $4,000 attorney fees and other incidentals.

Lita Grey Chaplin did not appear in court today when the order was issued. Speaking for his client, Attorney Lyndol Young told Judge Guerin that she had not received any of the funds assigned to her Monday, when the court granted her $4,000 alimony pending trial of her sensational suit for divorce.

Interests of the Chaplin studios were protected by Garvin McNabb, well known San Francisco attorney, who was in court during the hearing.

Attorneys for the Chaplin interests today served counsel for Mrs. Chaplin with a proposed bill of exceptions to the superior court order appointing receivers for the Chaplin properties.

It was contended that the court had exceeded its judicial functions in appointing receivers to take over corporate property and that the order appointing the receivers was not made for the purpose of enforcing payment of alimony or expense money previously ordered paid to the plaintiff.

If the proposed bill of exceptions is successful it was pointed out, the $1,000,000 bond required to protect Mrs. Chaplin's interests when the receivership is lifted may not be necessary.

Wife is Fighting Lita Grey Chaplin, estranged wife of Charlie Chaplin, movie comedian, was engaged tonight in an endeavor to wrest alimony fees from the United States government, which tied up personal accounts and other property of her husband because of his alleged failure to make correct income tax returns.

Almost at the same time Mrs. Chaplin, through her attorneys, telegraphed the commissioner of Internal Revenue, seeking to have his release Chaplin's personal accounts in Hollywood and Los Angeles banks, a new government suit was filed here against the Chaplin film corporation.

Lien Against Corporation Through the latest action a lien was placed against the corporation to collect $50,000 in income tax money, alleged to be due for the year 1925. The amount is in addition to the $1,073,000 in liens previously filed.

In his plea to Commissioner of Internal Revenue Blair at Washington to release the Chaplin bank deposits, Lyndol Young, attorney for Mrs. Chaplin, pointed out that liens against Chaplin's property, estimated to total approximately $2,000,000 already have been filed.

The attorney asked internal revenue department to release $14,400 of $17,000 at Chaplin's credit locally.

After Judge Guerin had issued his order for payment of alimony and attorneys' fees, counsel in the Chaplin receivership and divorce cases held a conference with the internal revenue department and the United States district attorney's office. Following the meeting S. W. McNabb, U. S. district attorney, declared the government would not lift its income tax liens which embraced Chaplin's accounts.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20. (U.N.)—Charlie Chaplin's troubles mounted by $1,550,000 Thursday, when liens aggregating that amount were filed in the district court against him and the Chaplin film corporation.

Allegedly unpaid income tax assessments were the basis for the move which was similar to federal liens filed in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

In taking the action, Frank Bowers, collector of internal revenue for this district revealed no details other than a list of years and the floor wounded but not unconscious.

The neighbor woman with whom Mrs. Cochran was staying rushed into the room and attempted to prevent Cochran from doing any more shooting, but at the point of his revolver he drove her back to her bedroom and locked the door. Then he stood over the prostrate form of his wife and again emptied his revolver into her body.

Cochran then ran to his own home a short distance away and after locking the door turned the gun upon himself and fired three shots, two taking effect in the abdomen and the third striking his arm. His recovery is questionable.

Grandson Italian Liberator on Trial

PARIS, Jan. 20. (U.N.)—Colonel Riccardo Garibaldi, grandson of the famous Italian liberator, leaped to his seat in the courtroom where he was brought to trial Thursday on charges of international intrigue, and hurled defiance at the witness who had linked his name with plots against Mussolini.

"My pre-trial cross examination has been distorted by the press," he shouted, his face becoming red with indignation. "I have been morally and physically forced to confess."

The episode marked a theatrical climax in the first day of the colorful Italian's trial on a technical charge of carrying concealed weapons and manufacturing and distributing munitions of war.

ORATORIO TO SING ST. CECELIA MASS

invitation extended to the general public.

Exact date for the event has not been set, as it will first be necessary to determine the length of time needed for rehearsals. Tentative date is scheduled for late in March, according to Mrs. Holloway.

Membership in the society will be restricted to 50 voices and the first meeting will be at the Presbyterian church Monday evening at eight o'clock.

Written by Charles Gounod, the St. Cecilia mass is considered one of the most beautiful and impressive oratorios ever written and its presentation locally is being looked forward to with much interest and keen appreciation by the music lovers of the city. The inspiring mass is one of the most popular oratorios in America today and its initial appearance here is held to be a definite step forward in local musical work.

Eloise McPherson McIntyre, church organist and well known musician, will preside at the organ for the mass. Both Mrs. McIntyre and Mrs. Holloway have carried solo parts in four different presentations of the St. Cecilia mass at Eugene, Oregon, where, as in many other parts of the country, the annual spring appearance of a chorus in this fine oratorio is a much looked for event. Other local singers have also had experience in the work so that all connected with it feel highly confident of an excellent rendition in Klamath Falls in March.

Man and Wife Ask Thousand of Young

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 20. (U.N.)—The man and woman who helped make it possible for George Young, Toronto youth, to reach California, where he won the $25,000 prize given by William Wrigley, Jr., chewing gum magnate for swimming Catalina channel, want to collect the $1,000 they say Young promised them if he won the ocean marathon.

They are Mr. and Mrs. James Foster, a young couple from Quincy, Mass., picked up Young and his "pal" Bill Hastings and brought them by automobile from Little Rock, Ark., to Los Angeles, when the youths' motorcycle, on which they rode from Toronto, broke down.

Young, through his trainer, Frank O'Hara, denied tonight that he had agreed to give the Fosters $1,000. Their telegram said:

"Congratulations. We knew that you would win. Snapshot of you and Bill taken in Texas has been published in all eastern papers with story of trip. An enlargement of picture taken at Camp Grande to your mother. We are home and broke. Could use the thousand you promised if you won."

Another telegram received by the channel swim winner today, was from his mother in Toronto. It read:

"Dear George: Am feeling better. Long to see you. Be a good boy. Read your Bible and remember your prayers every night. Am sending letter today. Love."

A battery of motion picture men today took pictures of Young on the Famous Players-Lasky lot, preparatory to his career as a movie star.

LOCAL TERMINAL EXCEEDED MILLION

habilitation of the line south from this city to Grass Lake, with new and heavier track and ballasting, represents a good sized share of this high aggregate for construction.

The terminal at Crescent Lake, costing nearly a half million dollars, constitutes another item on the program.

The fact of high local expenditures is also held noteworthy when it is considered that railroad development on the part of the Southern Pacific is not finished here. This is according to a recent statement from J. A. Given, chief engineer for the Shasta division, who said that work of this nature is usually mapped out along the lines of a ten-year program.

Given stated that Shasta division officials have recommended additional expenditures here for the 1927 budget now under consideration. What these improvements will be if the rail executives see fit to grant the expenditures as recommended, the chief engineer did not divulge, but he declared that the work is not fully finished.

Forget Pruning In-Making Budget

SALEM, Jan. 20. (U.N.)—Very little pruning was resorted to by the legislative ways and means committee at its session Wednesday night.

The request for the eastern Oregon hospital for insane was trimmed down $10,000 to $446,400, while the estimate submitted by the girls' school was reduced from $86,227 to $46,347.

(By United Press) War craft from many countries of the world were steaming toward Shanghai today. Others were fueled, ready to augment the fleets.

The governmental board of trade in London chartered the White Star liner Megantic for use as a troopship to China.

The British admiralty stated that the gunboats Aphis and Ladybird and the destroyers Wanderer and Wolverine would sail for China about January 30, accompanied by the hospital ship Maine.
