DON'T BE IMPATIENT

Following the suggestion of the News, about ninety per cent of our citizens got busy last week and gathered up the refuse about their homes and were ready for the "clean-up man" bright and early on Monday morning. It seems we were forcing his hand a little, for the piles of garbage ready to be hauled off still remain in front of many residences. But don't blame anyone, for the city has about twenty trucks working on the hauling end of the proposition now, and your street may be the next one visited.

And say, old man, let us put you onto something! One husband we know of was scouting around this morning before starting for his daily toil, and found about a dozen millinery creations of various vintage, and smuggled them out to the heap in front of the place. In all probability the articles never would have been used for anything, and were kept merely on the chance that they might be. But one thing he is sure of is that they never will be used if the garbage truck arrives before the good wife discovers the loot. And who knows but what the good wife may be playing a similar trick on the old man?

TOO MUCH SYMPATHY

The death of a juror serving on the trial of Hugh d'Autremont for first degree murder has caused the postponement of the trial until next September, and already expressions of sympathy are being heard for the man on trial. He is confined in the jail at Jacksonville, and will be detained there or confined in some other place more secure until the next trial comes up, and much regret is expressed by some that the poor fellow cannot prove his innocence right now, and not be compelled to wait until next September.

We know that a man is held innocent by the law until his guilt is established, but at the same time we cannot help but realize that Hugh d'Autremont could have proven his innocence, if he is innocent, several years ago, and under those circumstances would have been enjoying his freedom for some time. His innocence of guilt remains to be decided, but there is no one more to blame than himself that this was not done some time ago. If there is any surplus sympathy 'round about, we suggest that the overflow be directed toward the families of the men who lost their lives in the Tunnel 13 tragedy in 1923. So far as we have been able to discover no move in that direction ever assumed proportions to cause a call for the reserves.

"GET OUT YOUR HORN"

Next Sunday afternoon there will be approximately a thousand Lane county visitors in Klamath Falls, paying purely a neighborly call. The train bearing the visitors will arrive about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and is scheduled to leave about 5 o'clock the same evening. Not a lengthy visit, to be sure, but one that will tend to strengthen the neighborly spirit already showing quite a growth since the completion of the main line.

A committee called by the directors of the chamber of commerce will have charge of providing transportation about the city, and if you can furnish a car for this purpose, so notify the chamber of commerce and aid the committee in this matter.

Put on your one-day suit and your best Sunday manner, and meet the train; show the people of Lane county that we are neighbors in every sense of the word, and glad of it; that we want them to visit us and that we will visit them, and in every way that we are glad to forward any community interests that may arise.

"Throw away your hammer, and get out your horn," not only for next Sunday, but for all time.

Short Quips

Count Felix von Luckner is to bring his German peace ship into the Portland harbor next month. He must have been hearing about the Longview bridge controversy.—Eugene Register.

The year 1927 promises to be another hard one for those people around Crane who think they can get something for nothing.—Crane American.

Babe Ruth need not feel so "chesty." The president of the United States gets $75,000 a year under a four-year contract.—Amity Standard.

When a woman's life is devoted to keeping up with her neighbors and keeping down her weight, she finds little time for anything else.—Silverton Tribune.

A Turkish woman has been discovered who is 160 years old and still living. Who says they don't take good care of their ladies in Turkey?—Bandon Western World.

A seat on the New York stock exchange has just sold for $200,000. That's even more than the speculators ask for a seat in the theaters of the metropolis.—Eugene Register.

The police raids in Portland the last few days at least keep the criminal element on the jump and leaves little time for planning crime.—Hillsboro Argus.

Mussolini is quoted as saying that he wants Americans to understand that in Italy great liberty is allowed the people, but there must be no nonsense about liberty. Which appears to be much the same kind of liberty which we give to prisoners in allowing them to move about freely within the restraint of their cells.—Eugene Guard.

"400" Bootlegger In Portland Jail

PORTLAND, Ore., May 12. (A. P.)—Walter E. Brown, known to the police as "society bootlegger," was arrested today by United States officers charged with being involved with W. H. Pelton in smuggling 200 cases of bonded liquor from Canada. Pelton was arrested three weeks ago on an indictment returned by the federal grand jury at Seattle.

Pelton yesterday failed to obtain a writ of habeas corpus, by which he sought to escape removal to Seattle. Brown decided to go to Seattle without a fight.

The men are charged with having shipped from a point near Vancouver, B. C., a box car of bonded liquor labeled "Wheat screenings." It was seized December 17 at Auburn, near Seattle.

CICUS MAN PLANS HUGE HOTEL HERE

may permanently locate in this town.

Mrs. Barnes Native
"Mrs. Barnes has influenced me in this respect. She is a native daughter of the city of Klamath Falls.

"Show people throughout the United States are getting to like Oregon and this vicinity especially. They come here on tours and when they get back east they want to come again for a vacation. Many of them have spoken to me about this. Even some of our own folks with the Barnes' circus have made a request that something be done about it. By that, I mean that they stated that were someone, or myself, to build a sort of resort hotel where things would be fairly reasonable, they would patronize it enthusiastically.

"This was the embryo of the plan. I thought it would be best to withhold an announcement to the effect that we would positively build here until now.

Barnes Will Finance
"I will finance the entire project. All local materials and labor are to be used, and the hotel will be for the general public.

"We plan to make it not only the finest in the state, but the best. This can be done. Before the hotel is finally finished it will cost, according to my estimator's figures, about $750,000.

"That is a lot of money and all I look for is willing 'good will' co-operation of local business men."

To Take Interest Here
Mr. Barnes will bring to Klamath Falls other enterprises in which he is interested as a financier. This also became known today from information given by Charles Cook, general manager of the Barnes' circus. However, the ultimate activities along this scale will depend on the showing of good will by the citizenry of Klamath Falls. Mr. Barnes thinks it can be done.

WOOL CLIP SOLD

PENDLETON, Ore., May 12. (A. P.)—The W. M. Marston company, through its Portland buyer, Charles Green, today purchased the Mary Pedro wool clip of 60,000 pounds. No price figure was given for the clip which was said to be the finest fleece sold this year.

To facilitate the proper handling of broken bones Klamath Valley Hospital has installed an X-ray department.
