

Sinclair Gets Three Months' Sentence

WASHINGTON, May 20, (A.P.)—A sentence of three months in jail was imposed today upon Harry P. Sinclair, millionaire oil operator, for contempt of the United States senate.

In addition, Justice Hitz in the District of Columbia supreme court fixed his fine at $500, both a jail sentence and fine being mandatory under the law.

WHEN, if ever, the holder of the Teapot dome naval oil reserve lease will begin his jail term will depend upon the outcome of appeals through the district court of appeals to the United States supreme court. Sinclair was convicted March 16 by a jury.

Specifically, the oil operator and sportsman was found guilty of refusing in March 1924 to answer four questions propounded to him in the senate oil investigation which led to the naval lease criminal conspiracy case involving Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, Sinclair and Edward L. Doheny, California oil man.

Today's court action marked only one phase of the several court battles precipitated by the teapot dome investigation. The civil suit involving the legality of the lease of the naval oil reserve in Wyoming to Sinclair now is before the supreme court.

In addition, Sinclair is to be called on trial with Fall next October on a charge of criminal conspiracy in connection with the lease.

A charge of bribery is pending against Doheny, his son, Edward L. Doheny, Jr., and Fall, but the former secretary and the elder Doheny have been acquitted of a conspiracy charge, while the courts have cancelled the Doheny lease to the Elk Hills naval oil reserve in California.

Plumbers Meet At State Capital

SALEM, Ore., May 20, (A.P.)—Seventy delegates from all parts of Oregon opened the twenty seventh annual convention of the Oregon state association of master plumbers at the Salem chamber of commerce this morning. T. A. Livesley, mayor of Salem, welcomed the master plumbers and their wives to the city and said that he hoped they would, while considering matters peculiar to their craft, work out something that would help make Oregon a better and bigger state, and make their skill of greater benefit to other people.

Al G. Wilson, national president, greeted the Oregon association and in his speech advocated that the campaign to get running water in every home in America be pushed to a successful conclusion. Mrs. Wilson said the national plumbers trade extension bureau had marked out an intensive program of advertising, and was helping plumbers operate their business in a modern way by supplying them with bookkeeping systems and cost systems.

SERGEANT ESTEP TO ASSIST IN RECRUITING HERE

Sergeant Willis S. Estep, United States army recruiting service, has been assigned to recruiting duty here, and will arrive in Klamath Falls early next week.

According to Sergeant Lowman, who is in charge of the local station, and familiar with Sergeant Estep's army record, he entered the service in 1911 at the age of 15, spending this enlistment with the 12th infantry in the Philippine islands, and the 15th infantry in China. He returned to the United States in 1914, immediately re-enlisting with the 6th infantry, and was with that organization with the expedition into Mexico in 1915. Going overseas with the 6th infantry, he saw service in the St. Mihiel offensive, after which he was commissioned 2nd lieutenant of infantry in the battle of the Meuse-Argonne, in which he served as a private with the expedition into Mexico. Resigning his commission in 1920, he has served with various organizations since that time, and is at the present time a member of the 7th infantry at Vancouver barracks, Wash.

LINDBERGH'S PLANE IN FLIGHT

View of Charles A. Lindbergh's plane "Spirit of St. Louis" taking off from Curtiss Field, Long Island, N. Y., in a test prior to heading for Paris, across the Atlantic.

Lindbergh Starts Long Sea Voyage

uncertainty Lindbergh rode at a speed of more than 100 miles an hour.

As the gasoline in his plane diminished he was able to fly faster, ever faster, towards the goal a continent away. It was the short route across the ocean, so far as distance between land was concerned. But in choosing the great circle, Lindbergh signed away any of his chance of aid from his fellow man. For in the north Atlantic there are few ships to sight him in case the hum of the plane should cease, the wings crumple, and Lindbergh fall victim to the restless waves.

MAY ARRIVE SATURDAY

PARIS, May 20.—U.P.—As a conquering hero of the air, Captain Charles Lindbergh, American trans-Atlantic flier, may enter France Saturday night, escorted by a fleet of French military planes.

From Cherbourg, where it is hoped he will first sight France, a brilliantly lighted airplane will guide him to Paris. As a double precaution, the government has ordered that both the London-Paris and the Seine route be illuminated as soon as darkness falls. Early in the evening the fleet of military planes will be sent out. It is hoped they may bring the daring American to Lebourget field, outside Paris, in triumph at or near 9 p. m.

FLYING LOW

ST. JOHNS, Newfoundland, May 20.—U.P.—Captain Charles Lindbergh took his departure from the American continent, enroute to the open sea and Paris, in a spectacular manner that thrilled the hundreds of persons who saw him pass over St. Johns at 8:45 p. m. Atlantic coast daylight saving time.

Exhibits Daring

As he passed through the narrow gap of St. Johns, which is only 200 feet wide, with towering hills on both sides, his plane was 100 feet lower than the summit of Signal hill, and it seemed as if the daring aviator, instead of rising above to safety, had purposely chosen to dive through the narrow gap in the most sensational manner.

CORK, Ireland, May 21, (U.P.)

—Hundreds of fisher boats, coast guards and peasants, gathered on the coast of County Cork, Claire and Galway in Saturday's dawn straining their eyes seaward hoping to get a glimpse of Charles Lindbergh when he should pass over on his epochal flight from New York to Paris. Despite announcements from authorities that the aviator was not expected until after midday, crowds lined the cliffs and hill-tops to be certain of seeing the birdman.

C. M. & St. P. R. R. Again in Court

CHICAGO, May 20, (A.P.)—What may be the final court onslaught of the Jameson committee of minority holders of bonds of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway on the reorganization plan of the majority bond holders, was begun today in the United States circuit court of appeals with former Governor Nathan Miller of New York attacking the receivership and reorganization program as "precipitated by the officers and directors of the railroad for the purpose of financial reorganization." This culminated, he said, in the foreclosure suit and sale of the road.

The minority bond holders, after losing previous skirmishes in District Judge Wilkerson's court and the circuit court of appeals, again is before the appellate tribunal fighting "the final order of Judge Wilkerson approving the sale and denying objections of the Jameson committee."

Government Prohibits Appointments Made

WASHINGTON, May 20, (A.P.)—Lincoln C. Andrews, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement has resigned, effective August 1 and Seymour Lowman, former lieutenant governor of New York will succeed him. His shift was announced late today by the treasury, together with announcement that James A. Dorain, prohibition bureau chemist had been designated prohibition commissioner. He succeeds Roy A. Haynes, who has been acting commissioner for several months.
