TOM WORD

As we go along life's pathway there are some friends we meet not often, but at all times we just know they are all right.

Today we met Tom Word—the same Tom Word you know—the old ex-sheriff of Multnomah county; the big he-democrat of Oregon, and one of the best fellows in all the world.

Tom is now seventy years of age, but the youngest 70-year-old you ever laid your eyes on. It is only the last two months that his hair shows much gray and that is because fate decreed that Tom should undergo that deep sorrow of losing his helpmeet.

Mrs. Word was always his sweetheart and now he walks life's pathway alone. His friends feel the deepest sympathy possible for him.

THE POWER OF ADVERTISING

For those doubting merchants who "can't see that advertising can do us any good," The News gladly and proudly calls attention to what was accomplished in the sale of the Lakeshore Gardens home-site tracts a couple of weeks ago.

With a well-planned advertising campaign the agents for this property sold practically all of the available tracts in less than one week.

In the first place, the advertiser must have honest merchandise. He must give the people value received for their money.

provided he places it before the people in a proper manner.

In the case of Lakeshore Gardens, honest merchandise was being offered for sale. It was being offered at an honest price.

The public showed instant interest. They flocked out to these tracts to see for themselves just what was being offered for sale.

The same holds true in any line of business activity. The man who has the right merchandise at the right price can rest assured that it will be purchased if he will only place it before the people in a well-planned and consistent advertising message.

NEW LAWS TODAY

Today's the day—Friday—when the work of the last legislature bears fruit, if such can be said of it.

Anyway, there are 370 new laws added to what we already have on the statute books, that go into effect, and every citizen has that many more strings around him to prevent him falling in this slippery pathway of life.

All of which reminds us of the days when a man's word was his bond and the smoke-house door never had a lock. We look back upon those "lawless" days with some concern now, for they were "lawless" for lack of law—not for the breaking of the law.

Civilization has worked wonderful changes and now every "sap" who slips on a banana peel immediately starts out to have a law passed to punish someone for his own negligence and carelessness.

How often you hear, "there should be a law to prevent this and that." No, there should be no more, but there should be some common sense among people and there would be no need for a lot of fool laws.

Law, law, law—every time you turn around it is an infraction of a law.

The last legislature added a basketful more for the overburdened citizen to dodge and juggle with. Thankful we are that some of the laws going into effect today are repairs on existing laws, but there are sufficient new ones to drive anyone to strong drink—and then there is a law to prevent you from drinking that strong drink.

Some day we will all get tired of the vicious law circle and the fool-killer will get loose and do his stuff, after which peace will reign and everyone will again leave their smoke-house doors open with safety, probably.

CANBERRA, Australia.—The Duke of York and 500 other subjects of his royal father toasted the king in orangeade and lemonade at the official luncheon at the formal dedication of Australia's new federal capital here today.

PHILADELPHIA.—Rather than undergo the "monotony" of crossing the ocean on board a luxurious liner, Miss Elly Carey, English scientist, made the trip on a freighter, spending most of the time in the stokehole oiling the engines.

"I really do think that a woman should do something rather than simply look pretty," she said, after explaining that she was on her way to visit a sister in New Mexico and embarked on the freighter to avoid the "stupid orthodoxy" of a voyage aboard a palatial steamship.

Church Looks for Cure for Unrest

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26, (AP)—Members of the special peace commission appointed in 1925 to find a cure for the unrest in the Presbyterian church in the United States today were completing their report in executive session for presentation to the Presbyterian general assembly at the meeting next Friday.

Members of the peace commission stated, however, that they were united in the belief that no doctrinal dispute whatever is involved. They added that the report would concern itself with an attempt to interpret explicitly the constitution of the church as relating to the disputed rights of Presbyterians to be the final judges for their own candidates for the ministry.

Convention headquarters announced that Dr. Clarence Edward Macartney of Pittsburgh, Pa., former moderator, would attend the assembly to push his plan for restricting recognition of divorce in the Presbyterian church to divorces obtained for only one cause, adultery, eliminating wilful desertion.

PROBABILITY JOINT RAIL USE WIPED OUT

Laborers arriving here during the past few days have vanished in thin air only to reappear in the huge camp established at the end of the logging line. Speculation over possible use of the Shevlin-Hixon railroad had been prevalent here since the visit of A. J. Wittich, chief engineer for the O. T. and J. R. W. Davis, chief engineer for the Great Northern, who immediately went into conference with Shevlin-Hixon officials.

Feel like a Million every morning

If your breakfast cup sends you forth "feeling like a million"—what a workaday difference it makes! This can happen every morning when your coffee-choice is M-J-B.

All because of a flavor—a rich, full-bodied flavor that spells contentment from first sip to last. What's more, this flavor is constant. It's on the job every day—just as you are. Drink it as you like [strong, medium or mild] the same "million dollar" flavor of M-J-B is always there to greet you at breakfast and "see you through" the day.
