hautauqua Brings Big Comedy Success

The old saying that "Everybody ives a lover" might well be rear-inged to read that "Everybody ives an 'Applesaticer.'" Anyhow ves an 'Applesaticer.' Anyhow ils is true for everybody except the bung lady of the 'Applesaucer's' eart and her family in the play hich is to appear here during hautauqua week. No play in recent years has prob-bly been met with a greater gale I laughter and more hillarlous comoly been met with a greater gale i laughter and more hilarious commendation than "Applesance."

It is one of those familiar home medies, in which the characters re familiar to everybody. There "Pa Robinson" and "Ma Robinm" and Hazel, the popular young aughter, whose numerous suitors irnish a never ending source of mily interest and difference.

At the start of the play, the leading suitor is Bill McAlester, the Applesancer." Bill, however, meets lith hard luck and his rival, Rollomkins is accepted. This continues irough two acts of hilariously funy situations, in which there is also try much of sound philosophy and pod family advice. Finally, Bill's fialling good nature and his genine love for the girl overcome the pderhanded machinations of Rollowskins Rollo de dismissed and nderhanded machinations of Rolle nkins. Rollo is dismissed and Applesaucing" wins. Like all Chautauqua plays, "Apissauce" is thoroughly clean from art to finish. It carries out the hautaugua tradition of presenting othing but what is worth while and the same time splendid enter-inment.

The cast is headed by Earl Scott ad Marion Gallagher Scott, whose leatrical and literary work have seatrical and literary work have ade them great favorites and given tem an enviable reputation troughout the country. Mabelle falsh plays the part of "Hazel Rob-ison", George Callahan. "Bill Me-lester" and Holt Mayberry. "Rollo enkins." It is a wonderful play iven by a splendid cast and brings Chautauqua patrons one of the west and most successful comedies a cost of one-third what would paid to see it anywhere but on hautaugua

NATIONS PAY TRIBUTE TO SOLDIER DEAD .

Decoration Day, when the hatreds of war are forgotten and friend and foe join to do homage to the subdier dead, finds few of the men who were the blue and the gray in '61 left to pay tribute to their fallen courades. Left, a white-bearded G. A. R. veteran stands when at the grave of a soldier friend. Above, a section of Bony Cemetery, France, where the whole crosses, "rew on row" mark the graves of American boys who fell in a major engagement of the Stile Divisor. Right, below, a sixter kneels, weeping, at the grave of her brother buried on France on M. Since few Americans who have lost their boys in the Great War are able to go to France in Memorial Day, the French themselves are observing the day and the graves of the Americans, as well as poduc, are decorated with American.

Oil Makes Poor Boys Rich Men

Sewell was able to borrow enough to save his boys' property from the firm for which he worked, however, The discovery of oil and sudden wealth followed.

The father of the lucky youths has decided they will not be "spoiled" by their money.

"I won't permit them to live it up if I can help it," he said. "They will have the finest education the world has to offer, but they will have to learn to work and appreciate their money.

have to learn to work and appreciate their money.

"I've thought a lot about sending them to Africa when they grow up. I think intelligent colored men could do a lot of good there for themselves and other members of the race."

Sewell has made no effort to extablish title to a portion of the farm on his own account.

"It belongs to the kids," he explained, "and I won't take any of it by going into court about it."

Arthur Sewell, father of the young millionaires, came to Chicago after their mother's death, and later married again. He worked in a factory. Debts accumulated faster than he could meet them.

As a result he negotiated a loan of $460 on the Cameron farm. The mortgage came due and he had nothing with which to pay it. The "gold mine" almost slipped away for want of a sum which the wells are now producing in a few hours. Sewell was able to borrow enough to save his boys' property from the
