IT COULDN'T BE OTHERWISE

We are happy and a bit relieved to know that the directors of the Southern Oregon baseball league have dropped their plan to oust the Klamath Falls baseball club from the league and replace Klamath with some team which they might be able to defeat.

We agree that they have just cause for wanting to give the Pelicans the gate, the axe, the air, or any other demise as might suit their fancy. For the Pelicans, it seems, are a bit too rude. They are a cold-hearted lot, it would appear, for they have failed thus far during the baseball season to permit the Medford, Ashland or Grants Pass teams to win a single game against them.

This is rank treason from the valley point of view—perhaps. Around the stoves all last winter they recounted the tales of last season and promised themselves how they would trim the wings of the arrogant Pelicans when another baseball year rolled 'round.

But the Pelicans—drat them—upset the appellation. With a brand of baseball seldom seen in these parts, they stepped out and winged their way to the uppermost rung of the league ladder. And there they are perched today, and there they will remain perched, we predict, until fluttering leaves of autumn signal the close of the baseball season.

Klamath, however, will remain in the league, and the boys will be out there on the diamond fighting all the harder because of this attempt to ostracize them. And Klamath fans should start now to pull for the team more than they ever did before. The team deserves united support. Let's give it to them.

A NEW DAY IS HERE

There hangs over the desk of the manager of a Klamath industry a little frame in which is the following legend:

"Another day is here. Help us to meet the rugged requirements with cheerful faces. Give us the patience to serve faithfully and well; and at night loan to us sound and undisturbed sleep, that we may serve better tomorrow.

It sounds like a prayer, and it is. But not to the good God alone; it strikes the eye of the beholder. It touches a new note in his being. It gives him a new angle on the manager and the establishment over which he has charge. It puts the man on the outside of the desk rail into a mood to do business quickly, generously and fairly. It is, also, a constant reminder to the manager himself that he sits there not so much to be served, as to serve. It is a text that both customer and employe can take to heart. It is in the last analysis the platform upon which that firm does business.

And it is a good prayer and a good platform, for SERVICE is the keynote of modern business.

"He profits most who serves best," wrote Paul Harris, of Chicago, some seventeen years ago and men in every country the world over are at this time aligned by the thousand under the banner which bears that legend.

To be sure, every business man strives to make a profit. Profit is the badge of service. Dollars are the insignia of success. They, in this day and generation, are garnered by those who give to the public the best service. "Caveat emptor," the one-time slogan of the trade world, has become so obsolete that millions do not even know what it means. Everywhere industries have come to the understanding that fair play means better business, and as a general rule they are living up to the text.

The man who sits behind the manager's desk has these things constantly before him. He knows that between men, as between classes of men, anger works madness in the brain and puts poison on the tongue. He knows that bitterness of thought and action are a weak man's argument. The weapon of the avenger has no place in his life. He strives to be a constructive force in the community. He must be a doer as well as a thinker. A mere desire to serve gets him nowhere. He actually must serve. Carnegie, Schwab, Edison, Wanamaker—all their names suggest action. The deman of business is to keep ahead of competition—to do something and do it first and profitably. After all, this is only another form of service—giving the public something better than the other fellow is offering and at a smaller price, where possible.

KID CUPID LOSING GROUND IN SOUTH

LOS ANGELES, June 15. (UP)—"Kid Cupid" is groggy from the blows of "Battling Divorce" in the local matrimonial arena.

Statistics compiled by County Clerk L. E. Lampton reveal that divorce complaints filed in Los Angeles county average thirty a day. Divorce decrees are granted in all but about two per cent of the cases, the records disclose.

Since March, 1919, 55,548 cases have been filed and the last eleven months has witnessed legal attempts to dissolve 5,863 marriages.

Superior Judge J. W. Summerfield's court is the "one-man Reno" where 29 cases form an average day's grist. Larry Doyle, court secretary, said that three of four cases daily are continued for lack of evidence.

Acts recited as constituting mental cruelty ranged from cold breakfasts to colder affections. One husband recently testified that his wife allowed him but seven kisses annually.

RANCHER PREFERS LIVESTOCK TO OIL

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., June 15. (UP)—D. M. Halbert, homesteader, doesn't believe in oil development at the expense of "good grazing land."

His holdings in the path of a proposed road to the Mt. Poso and Round Mountain fields are routes that must be traversed to carry heavy timbers and supplies into the area.

Recently Halbert granted a right-of-way to the Southern California Edison company to construct a power line across his place. When the work was completed the homesteader signed an agreement whereby the power company pays a bonus of from $25 to $50 every time gates are unlocked.

Exploiters of the new oil fields are attempting to solve the problem of detouring their supplies at almost prohibitive prices.

Tariff Commission Calls Cherry Meet

WASHINGTON, June 15. (UP)—A United States tariff commission has given notice of public hearing June 28 on the cherry tariff which has long been a matter of concern to cherry growers of the Pacific coast, because of rulings by customs officials and court reducing the protection on maraschino cherries far below what they had expected to receive under the Fordney-McCumber act.

The commission notified all those interested that they may present evidence as to difference in cost of production in this and other countries and all facts pertinent under the law with respect to cherries in their natural state, sulphured or in brine.

Chamberlin, Levine Get New Reception

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, June 15. (A.P.)—Motoring from Baden-Baden to Karlsruhe, the American trans-Atlantic aviators, Clarence Chamberlin and Charles Levine, made the trip to Friedrichshafen this morning in a German passenger plane, arriving at 9:15 a. m.

They found the city gaily decorated; and were cheered by thousands of enthusiastic Swabians as they alighted at the Loewenthal air dome. A reception committee including Dr. Hugo Eckener, zeppelin builder, escorted them to the Dornier airplane factory and later to the zeppelin works.

At the zeppelin works they were especially interested in the LZ-137, now under construction, which Dr. Eckener yesterday announced would attempt a flight around the world in 1928.

SEATTLE, June 12. (UP)—Imports and exports between the United States and China for the first quarter of 1927 amounted to $59,143,000, according to figures compiled by the Seattle office of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce.
