

U. S. Prohi Whip In New Hand Now

WASHINGTON, June 17. (U.P.)—Federal prohibition enforcement virtually has passed into new hands. Although General Lincoln C. Andrews does not leave office until August 1, he is on an indefinite leave of absence and Seymour Lowman, former lieutenant governor of New York, newly appointed assistant secretary of the treasury, in charge of prohibition enforcement, is occupying the dry czar's chair.

At the treasury department it was stated today that it is not known if Andrews will return before the time set for resignation to take place. Quietly and unobtrusively he left Washington Thursday night for a vacation in Vermont, a departure quite in contrast to the blare of publicity which greeted him when he assumed office two years ago.

It also was stated at the treasury that Lowman was not here in an official capacity, but he is occupying Andrews' office looking over the official communications and planning to remain here until August 1.

No spectacular changes in prohibition can be expected from Lowman. So far he has refused to state his policies, saying it would be immature and too far in advance. But it can be seen that he plans to operate on a business basis and as inoffensively as possible.

FATHER CONVICTED OF KILLING WOMAN

bench with unseeing eyes. A few feet away sat the father of the slain young woman. A arm's length from the vehement special prosecutor sat the aged defendant with sphinx-like countenance. Now and then a juror dabbed his eyes with a bit of cambric. The son sat with his face in his hands listening to the words which were destined to send his father to the penitentiary. Furtive tears trickled down the cheeks of spectators here and there about the drowning courtroom.

A vivid picture of unrestrained temper and livid hatred were pictured by Prosecutor Manning as he sketched the sordid story of a turbulent home life which found a tragic end in the slaying of Albert's wife. He went back to nearly seven years ago when the son of the aged defendant took the happy farmer girl home as his bride.

Harsh Treatment Only two weeks later, he reviewed from the testimony, the father-in-law slapped the face of the bride. Then, year after year, he brought the jurors down to that fateful night last March when a bullet fired by the aged man crashed into her body, bringing death a few days later. Her entire married life, he charged, had been punctuated with abuse and with threats from the lips of the accused father-in-law.

Asks Conviction It made no difference, he told the jury, whether or not the bullet had been meant for her. There was murder in the old man's heart that night in Malin, he declared, and the state, he declared, would not be satisfied with anything less than a murder conviction.

W. A. West, and Fay King, defense counsel, argued that the gun had been discharged by accident during a scuffle between the defendant and his son, Albert, and Jack Sullivan, the father-in-law, they pleaded, had not wanted to kill or maim the young woman, and they urged, vainly, for his acquittal.

inally objected to because the government withheld the right to shut off water in the main canal when water users became delinquent with their repayments, this clause has virtually lost its effectiveness through the willingness of the government to accept the payments semi-annually instead of annually at the first of the year.

The amended contract will give the water users 40 instead of 20 years in which to repay construction charges on the project, and will thus greatly relieve the burden of heavy construction and maintenance payments now borne by the water users, it was pointed out Friday.

Child's Endowment Given to Charity

NEW YORK, June 17.—A check for $100,000 has been given to the Lenox Hill Neighborhood association by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Penn Smith of East Williston, L. I., whose eight-year-old daughter Carol died three weeks ago. Public announcement of the gift was made the other day. The money will go to the association's general fund, but a substantial part of it will be used to maintain the United Community house at 316 East Sixty-Third street as a recreation center for the children of the crowded district east of Third avenue.

When Carol was born in 1919 she received the $100,000 as an endowment from her parents and her grandmother, Mrs. E. H. Harriman. In a letter accompanying the gift, Mr. and Mrs. Smith asked the Neighborhood association to regard it not as a memorial or gift from them, but from Carol herself, in whose name the money had been placed originally.

Redwood Marathon Duel Between Two

COOLIDGE GROVE, Calif., June 17.—(U.P.)—The Redwood highway Indian marathon has developed for the time being into a duel between Mad Bull of the Kayruk tribe, and Melika, 53-year-old Zuni entrant.

The two racers were loping along northward tonight toward Garberville, 213 miles from the point on San Francisco bay from which the 480-mile race started Tuesday. Mad Bull was in the lead, determined to wear out his older rival before stopping for rest. Melika has shown unexpected speed and endurance and during the day cut consistently into Mad Bull's lead. Chochee, another Zuni, is keeping close to Melika, with Jamon, the favorite, far behind and suffering from blistered feet. Jamon is not yet considered out of the race and his trainer, Mike Kirk, declared the Zuni all will finish ahead of the Kayruks, several of whom weakened perceptibly Friday.
