

Those Dempsey Blows as the Movie Camera Saw Them

Motion picture camera photos of the blows by which Jack Dempsey knocked out Jack Sharkey in their heavyweight boxing match at the Yankee stadium are shown below. Included are the swats to Sharkey's stomach, about which dispute as to whether they were fair or foul quickly arose, and the left hook to Sharkey's chin which ended it all. Charles Penser and Henry Sonnenshine, official movie photographers for the match, supplied the pictures to NEA Service for The Klamath News. New York experts can't agree as to whether the pictures decide anything.

Dempsey lands to the stomach. Sharkey (left) apparently cries to the referee, who starts forward.

"Sisters in Scandal"

WHEN Foster Dale broke his engagement to the beautiful Helen Bradford, the whispering tongues began to wag. But the real shock came when he suddenly married Helen's sister Margery.

Helen departed quietly for New York. During the months that followed, Margery's life with Foster was supremely happy. They were very much in love.

Then Helen returned—more beautiful, more attractive than ever. Had Margery not been so completely absorbed in her own lazy, care-free existence, she would have noticed the sudden new interest her husband took in her beautiful sister. Little did she realize that it was largely her own fault.

So Margery permitted herself to remain fully unaware of the growing intimacy that menaced her happiness. But when she saw to the truth, there began an amazing drama that was to end in chaos, wreckage and bitter remorse for them all.

This wife's startling story, entitled "Sisters in Scandal," is one of the most heart-grIPPING most powerfully moving narratives of real ever printed. It appears complete with other big features in September True Story.

The Most Gripping Stories Are Those of Real Life

There is so much of real romance, real adventure, real comedy and tragedy in life that the imaginary characters and events of fiction seem tame in comparison.

The stories illustrated on this page are typical of the fascinating, dramatic narratives of real life that appear every month in True Story Magazine.

In the pages of this great publication, human experience is seen at its best and its worst. Its writers have scaled the heights of happiness and have plumbed the depths of despair.

In burrowing the innermost secrets of their souls, the great lessons of life are taught more convincingly, more interestingly, more dramatically, than would be possible in any other way.

If you are not a regular reader of True Story, the September issue will show you what you have been missing. It contains 16 thrilling, heart-grIPPING features. The price is only a quarter. Your newsdealer has it.
