

Fan Is Arrested Razzing Player

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16. (A. P.)—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, today sought to legally restrain a fan, whose alleged "razzing" and abuse from the stands, he said, threw up the morale of the team and resulted in one valuable player being traded away.

The fan, Harry Donnelly, 24, arrested while the Chicago White Sox-Athletics game was in progress yesterday, at the request of Mack, today was held in $500 bail to keep the peace.

"There are several persons," Mack said at the hearing, "who come out to the park just to 'ride' the players and the umpires and get their 'goats' one day last week the umpires stopped the game for ten minutes and the fans slapped their children."

The manager referred to Wednesday in particular when he said that Donnelly rode Sammy Hale, third baseman, until he had him so nervous he would have missed the ball had one been hit to him. The player Mack referred to that had to be traded, is Bill Lamar.

"Lamar was one of the finest outfielders I ever had," he said, "but a group of fans, of which Donnelly seems to be the leader, kept 'razzing' him until he wasn't any good to me, and I had to trade him."

Donnelly denied Mack's charges and said he was rooting for the team as he wanted it to win.

ENGINEER KILLED

ST. HELENS, Ore., Sept. 16. (A. P.)—Lee C. Rogers, city engineer of Seaside, Oregon, was killed today when an automobile he was driving left the road near here at a turn. W. A. Hattram of Portland who was riding with him, was seriously injured.

TRAVEL BY "WAVE"

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 15. (A. P.)—Two Georgia girls are traveling to California by the route of the "manned wave."

Christine Jackson and Selma White, of Cornelia, plan to conduct itinerant beauty parlors to help defray expenses on the way from home to Hollywood.

Robbers Lock Two Ladies In Vault

jewelry, and locked them in a vault with the dead.

Police described the suspects, Benjamin Roeder as a former convict.

Patrolman Meyer was off duty and driving past the Beth Elahin cemetery with his wife in his automobile when they were halted by screams. The policeman leaped out of the car and ran into the cemetery.

Both Collapse

The shrieks were coming from a vault. Then Meyer saw two women beating against the gridded door from the inside. In some manner he managed to open the vault door. The women ran out on the lawn, collapsing in each other's arms.

They told the story of being robbed by two men, and pointed out which way they had gone. Meyer overtook the two men and started to question when one opened fire. Meyer turned his right side to the flashing revolver muzzle, a shot pierced his back and came out through his chest.

LIFE LESS COLORFUL

TODAY, SAYS AUTHOR

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17. (A. P.)—Life today with all its complexities and "sophistication" is less colorful than that of the period of 1849 to 1878 declares Constantine Mayfield Bourke who is doing research work on the Pacific coast.

The author of "Trumpets of Jubilee," encompassing in a single volume mid-century portraits of personages ranging from Henry Ward and the other Beecher to P. T. Barnum says America reached a high peak in the Civil war period. If then climbed in men and deeds, she came to a position not overshadowed by the present era despite the World war and other history-making events.

The lasting achievements of that era she believes is illustrated by the hold that "Uncle Tom's Cabin" still has on readers old and young.

At the Pine Tree

The garter—though passes in these days of rolled hostery and no hostery at all—has once more come into its own! For "Getting Gertie's Garter," has found its way into the films with Marie Prevost in the star role. It will be shown at the Pine Tree theatre on Saturday.

The garter in this case is unique in that it is of gold and costs a man's picture in a miniature frame which is part of its make-up. It is around this unusual hostery accessory, and the frantic efforts of Charles Ray, featured leading man to obtain possession of the trinket, that the plot of the piece hinges. It is a screen version of Avery Hopwood's screamingly funny stage play. Prominent in the cast as Del Henderson, Harry Myers, Sally Rand, Fritz Ridgeway, Lila Leslie, Franklin Pangborn and William Orlamond.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

CHICAGO, Sept. 17. (A. P.)—Chicago has taken to the old fashioned sport of horseshoe pitching. Horseshoe "courts" have sprung up in many neighborhoods and men, women and children vie with each other at trying to throw-ringers, leaners and what-ever else there is in the pitching repertory.

SHEEP MARKET HIGH

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Sept. 17. (A. P.)—Prices on sheep and goats in West Texas are the highest they have been since the days just after the war, and ranchers report a good demand for their products. About 75 per cent of the lambs, ranchmen estimate, have been contracted, but few are under contract to northern feeders.

TILDEN IS WINNER

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 16. (A. P.)—William T. Tilden won from Francis T. Hunter, his Davis cup doubles partner today in the semi-finals of the national turf court tennis championship 14-12, 6-1, 9-7.

FOOTBALL PLAY FATAL
McCOMB, Miss., Sept. 16. (A. P.)—Clay Helley, 17, died today of injuries received in high school football practice Tuesday.
