YOUNG LIVES THROWN AWAY

Every year 7,000 children in the United States are mowed down to death in the streets by motor cars. It is like wiping out the entire population of a small city.

Reckless drivers are to be blamed. But there are other factors, too, and not the least of them is parental neglect. Children should be trained carefully to stop and look before dashing across a thoroughfare.

They should not be allowed to play in the streets which have become as dangerous these days as the railroad tracks. They should be taught politeness, too, toward drivers. Often we have seen impudent youngsters crossing streets in the middle of a block, and by their attitude or words defying drivers to hit them.

There seems to be a trait in all of us to "beat the car across the street." If we see a chance to make the opposite curb even though there be only one automobile moving along the street, we are tempted to hurry across ahead of it. Perhaps it is only human.

Drivers have a tremendous responsibility. Near schools, or wherever children are congregated, the utmost precaution must be taken to safeguard these little lives.

But it doesn't all rest upon the drivers.

A TALE OF PURE IVORY

Boneheads are alike the world over. But the prize story of ivory, ivory all the way through, comes from the important French port of Le Havre.

The French tennis players, who beat our boys not so long ago, in the big tournament, landed on their beloved French soil. With them they proudly bore the Davis cup, the famous trophy which they won and which is to be stored in Paris in the keeping of the French Lawn Tennis association until next year's play.

"M. Cochet," said Monsieur Ivory. "This is a cup. It is a silver cup. It is a valuable cup. It cannot pass the customs until the duty has been paid upon it."

M. Cochet and his fellow tennis players protested and explained. Two cabinet ministers explained. The vice president of the chamber of deputies explained. All to no purpose. Finally the chief of the customs service at Paris had to be communicated with.

Poor old Job had many trials. But he escaped one. He never had to wrestle with Monsieur Ivory at a customs port.

THE NAME MUSSOLINI CARRIES AFAR

In the ancient Rome the Caesars were not only rulers of their people. They were also gods. There is evidence that the fascisti of modern Rome are aping the ancient city. They have made of Mussolini their Caesar. They, too, want him to be sacrosanct.

Inside Italy, their job is easy. He who pokes fun at Benito the great, he who criticizes him, or speaks lightly of him, can be beaten up by fascisti bullies or sent to fascisti jails, or exiled to bare rocks in the Adriatic. But the Benito idolatry does not stop at the frontier. It goes into other lands. It takes umbrage at editorials. It shies at jokes. It is shocked by clowns.

The other day a little one-ring circus came to Sarajevo, the tragic town now included in Yugoslavia, where fanatics assassinated an Austrian archduke and thus started the World war. In the course of his job, the clown in this circus sang a funny song about Mussolini.

Everybody laughed except the Italian consul. He at once went to the perfect of Sarajevo and lodged vigorous protest. The poor old clown lost his job. Thus was fascist idolatry satisfied.

If you envy a man's righteousness, the only chance is to become a cynic and scorn him.

Some persons seem unable to have a skeleton in the closet without rattling the bones.

At this season you can't tell whether that feeling is appendicitis or mince pie.

How in the world does a weak tire know there isn't a windbreak within a mile?

CRUSHED BY OWN AUTO

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 12 (AP).—Pursued and crushed by his own automobile which he cranked while in gear, Ed Arnold was reported in a serious condition in a hospital here today. When the machine started from its garage at the top of a steep embankment, Arnold ran ahead of it and dived down the bank in an effort to escape it. The machine followed him, knocking him flat on his face and then rolling upon him.

SNOWS AT PE DLETON

PENDLETON, Ore., Oct. 12 (AP).—Bad weather in the Blue mountains has brought a halt to the road building program of the forest service and crews are now battling their way out of the hills through snow drifts and fallen timber. The season of building was the shortest yet and the Toll Gate-Dayton road will remain uncompleted for another year.

LETTER GOLF

THE RULES

- 1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW TO HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.
  - 2—You can change only one letter at a time.
  - 3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump, slang words and abbreviations don't count.
  - 4—The order of letters cannot be changed.
- The solution is printed on page 8.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE Shawnee, Oklahoma

That one of the best ways to bring business to a city is to increase the circulation of the local newspapers so they go into every home in nearby towns and through the country and draw trade through their advertisements.

That effective support for a city is organized support.

That the difference between success and failure in making better business for a city is the difference between organization on one hand and the lack of it on the other.

That the newspapers do more than their share in developing a city.

That often the business men do not understand and appreciate the value of the service that the newspapers render.

That if they want their city to keep its proper place in the world it's about time they woke up and joined hands with the newspapers.

That the object the newspapers have in view is making a better, bigger, brighter and busier city. Newspapers are always on the job.

If newspapers had the support they should have from their citizenry, there would be no question about a city growing. The only question would be how fast would it grow.

Pair Defiant As Trial Nears

The state has offered to allow the young widow and her alleged lover a chance to plead guilty to second degree murder, provided they confess, and that the two had refused.

Edison Hedges, Beach's lawyer, said his client would stand trial on the first degree murder charges. Hedges said Beach produce witnesses to prove that he was in his South Vineland home at the time Dr. Lillendahl was shot to death nearly 26 miles away. Mrs. Lillendahl continued to insist her husband was shot by two men, presumably negroes.

Financial Chief Jim Reed Flays Cal Coolidge Regime in Fiery Talk Before Democrats; Given Big Ovation

Sidney L. Schwartz is the new president of the San Francisco stock and bond exchange, second only in the United States to the New York exchange.

At the Orpheus

"There You Are," Conrad Nagel's most hilarious incursion into the realm of comedy, continues to attract packed houses at the Orpheus theater, where it pursues its lifting way. The new story, in which Nagel goes his comedy bit in "Dance Madness" one better, is a side-splitting imitation of F. Hugh Herbert's novel of the same name, relating the trials and tribulations that beset a pair of lovers (played by Nagel and Edith Roberts), in their attempt to escape an angry father and battery of traffic policemen, in the face of such obstacles as misplaced identity, a lost baby squaddied upon them, and a collie dog that proves a Nemesis.

The new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature is essentially a whimsical comedy—but it is staged in a setting of thrills, such as a wild race of the slopers with a small army of motorcycle policemen through city traffic, a desperate leap from an apartment window to a "caring taxi" in which Nagel shows his skill as an athlete, and other swift-moving incidents.

SEATTLE, Mo., Oct. 12 (AP).—The Coolidge administration was charged with "protecting money and monopoly" in a speech by Senator James A. Reed to 11,000 Democrats at their annual political barbecue today.

He was greeted with an uproarious demonstration lasting five minutes. The State Democratic Central committee yesterday endorsed Reed for the Democratic presidential nomination and he was presented to the convention of Democrats today as "the most outstanding Democrat in the United States and the logical candidate for president."

Reed passed over prohibition lightly and emphasized the anti-monopoly issue. It was thought by many that this was in response to the suggestions of dry Democrats who would like to support Reed but objected to his wet views.

Great Avocation There were no reservations in the audience which threw hats in the air and cheered him till afternoon. It was a great demonstration for the man who eight years ago was thrown out of the Democratic National convention by Wisconsin who disliked his fight on the league of nations, and without alluding to the suggestion regarding the presidency he plunged into an attack on the Coolidge administration.

Need Change "Times are ripe," "times ripe," for a change in Washington," Reed said. He called Mellon "the arch protector of the moneyed interests."

Albert H. Fall he called a "traitor." Daugherty was called a "vile insect."

Mellon stands astride the government, whilst the President sows Yellowstone trout with worms or studies the psychological effect or not choosing to run," Reed said.

He recalled some of the principal events of the Coolidge administration.

"How stands the case?" he asked. "Trusts multiply, and the President does not choose to interfere. Monopoly grows fat, and the President does not choose to act."

Expert On Light

Dr. Albert A. Michelson, world famed scientist of the University of Chicago, is at Pasadena, Calif., to spend two months, completing experiments in measuring the velocity of light and testing the "ether drift" phase of the Michelson theory. He will throw a light 52 miles between Mt. San Jacinto and Mt. Wilson to obtain an accurate check on his present light speed estimate of 186,284 miles a second.

Mayor Of City Gets Jail Jolt

led them to enter an exception and appeal to the state high court.

The appeal automatically results in a stay of execution of the sentence.

It was believed certain, however, that at least one of several possible moves will be made to oust Davall before the supreme court decision is made.

Prosecutor William H. Bemy and special prosecutors who handled the case claimed that Davall was automatically removed from office by the proceeding this afternoon.

When both sides of the controversy had been presented to Judge Shirley, he declined to interfere, saying: "Judgment has been rendered."

Bartered Public Office Davall was specifically charged with bartering public office before his election as mayor in return for cash contributions to his campaign fund and political support. He denied the charge, and while he admitted he accepted $10,000 from an Indianapolis politician before the campaign, he asserted he returned it because he could not accept the obligation it entailed.

Other witnesses testified that Davall promised 25 per cent of his appointments to the Klamath Klan before he was elected, and that he solicited money for making the appointments. Many of the state witnesses were men who said they had been promised jobs and did not get them.
