Tributes Paid War Dead By Nations

United States Leaders Advocate Steps to Avoid Predicted Conflict.

(By United Press)
The nations which nine years ago signed an armistice in the greatest war of all time observed its anniversary Friday with tributes to those who lost their lives in the conflict, the dedication of war memorials and sober consideration of the advantages of peace.

In the United States President Coolidge signified the spirit of his nation by laying a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington cemetery. In all the large cities traffic and commerce halted briefly at 11 a. m. in memory of the war and while in almost every community in the country the hour was recognized by the parading of veterans and speech making.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the President who guided this country through the war, was in Pittsburgh where she attended ceremonies in honor of her late husband at the New City-County building.

Wars Threatening
A warning that new wars are threatening was issued by Edward E. Spafford, national commander, at the annual convention in New York.

Explosion Sends Oil Tanker Home

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (U.P.)—The American oil tanker Beta, two of its crew of 35 missing and nearly a dozen suffering from severe burns, was slipping back to New York tonight.

The tanker was accompanied by a small power boat from the coast guard station at Barnegat, N. J., which went to its assistance this afternoon following an explosion which wrecked the Beta's bow.

The explosion, which caused Captain Kehoe, master of the vessel, to flash first an SOS and then an urgent request for medical supplies, was heard by several craft along the Jersey coast. They stood by until they were certain the Beta was out of danger and then went on their way.

YOUTH WILL GET $16,000 IF GIRL CAN BE LOCATED

LARAMIE, Wyo., Nov. 11. (U.P.)—When the uncle of George Vanderwater, Wyoming University sophomore, died in Los Angeles last week he left a will bequeathing $16,000 to young Vanderwater on condition that the student marry before November 23.

Vanderwater is trying desperately to get in touch with a young woman whose name he will not reveal but who is thought to be on the Pacific coast. Vanderwater has wired to a number of addresses in Los Angeles and San Francisco without success.

"If I can't find her I won't marry anyone," Vanderwater said, according to fellow students.

GETTING YOUR NEWS?

If not, just telephone 877. The Klamath News office, before 8 a. m., and your copy of the morning's issue will be delivered at once by special carrier.

The management prides itself upon the service accorded readers of southern Oregon's leading morning daily and it is with a view toward keeping this service 100 per cent that special delivery service has been inaugurated.

Stolen Kiss Sends Auto Into Train

Woman's Story Places Blame For Fatal Ride on Escort

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 11. (U.P.)—A "stolen kiss" caused the death here this morning of Tom Houston, 52, quartermaster of the Urban military academy, it was learned tonight.

Their lips clung in an embrace, Houston and Mrs. Genevieve Graves rode into a Pacific Electric freight train, Mrs. Graves wife of a prominent Hollywood druggist said in the county jail where she was held on a charge of suspicion of manslaughter.

Houston was killed instantly when his jugular vein was severed by the windshield through which he was thrown.

Mrs. Graves, who was driving the car, escaped with minor cuts. The woman told police she was driving Houston to his home when he suddenly grabbed her, turned her head sideways and kissed her. The next instant, she said, the crash occurred.

Bend Football Team Wins Tilt With Klamath

Unleashing an aerial attack which baffled their opponents from the south, the Bend high school football team shut out the Klamath gridirers yesterday with a score of 35 to 0, according to word here last night.

While the Klamath team made excellent yardage gains at intervals in the game, the local boys were unable to shove the pigskin across the Bend line for a counter. The Bend boys outclassed the visitors in virtually every department of the game, it was stated.

The second team of the Klamath county high school also took a drubbing at the hands of the Henley high team when the two squads clashed at the local fairgrounds. The score at the end of the game stood 12 to 6, favoring the visitors.

The Henley girls volleyball team also carried home a victory over the local high school girls.

Washington Is Favored To Win

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11. (U.P.)—The Golden Bear of California will battle the Huskies from Washington tomorrow in the only game which will affect the Pacific coast conference standings.

It is the Bear's last stand. After getting off to a fine start in the early season, something went wrong with Coach Nibs Price's eleven and the Bears played their worst game of the season last Saturday when the weak Montana team was actually leading at one time and the final score was 12 to 13.

Washington is the betting favorite here with odds 2 to 1, and even money to win by two touchdowns. The powerful Husky team, defeated by fumbles and bad headwork last Saturday by Stanford, are out for blood and should win.

If the Bear, however, can play the heads-up game he put up in the early season, and if the Husky plays the bison-like game he played last week, it still will be fairly even.

FLYER WON'T TAKE SUICIDAL HOP FOR FEW DAYS, REPORT

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11. (U.P.)—When the United States weather bureau here tonight said that an attempt to fly from San Francisco to Hawaii Saturday or Sunday would be suicidal, Captain Frederick A. Giles, Australian flyer, announced that he would abide by the bureau's advice and postpone his flight until conditions are favorable.

Earlier in the day he had announced that he might hop off Saturday morning.

The weather bureau reports a sharp disturbance, accompanied by fresh winds, rain and clouds 900 miles off the Oregon coast and recommended against the flight for at least two days.

Wales Is Caught In Stampede At Fete

Armistice Celebration Mobs Endanger Life of England's Future King.

LONDON, Nov. 77. (U.P.)—Stampeding mobs innocently imperilled the Prince of Wales tonight when more than 100,000 wildly enthusiastic celebrants of Armistice day got out of control at the end of the famous torch light parade of war veterans at the cenotaph.

Scotland Yard police fought desperately with crowds of half-drunken men and women who had worked themselves into unruly frenzies of excitement over the spectacular ceremonies at the base of Great Britain's war memorial.

Police Clubs Used

The Prince of Wales remained calm when he suddenly found himself the vortex of the surging, shouting crowd of torchlight bearers. He aided the police, who were forced to beat many of the celebrants into insensibility before they succeeded in extricating him to the British throne.

Eight persons were seriously injured.

Long Terms Face Two Inyo Bankers

INDEPENDENCE, Calif., Nov. 11. (U.P.)—Maximum sentences of 135 years imprisonment each may be meted out to W. W. and Mark Q. Watterston, Inyo county capitalists, found guilty on 35 counts of embezzlement and falsification of bank records, when they appear for sentence here Monday.

Conviction on all counts followed less than six hours deliberation by a jury considering evidence which tended to show that the watterstons embezzled $463,000 through manipulation of funds deposited in banks controlled by them.

MUSSOLINI LAUNCHES NEW REVOLUTION BY LIMITING SUFFRAGE

(EDITOR'S NOTE—The decree of the fascist grand council, abolishing the Italian chamber of deputies and parties opposed to fascism, and suppressing universal suffrage, is a radically new departure in government. Basically different from the magna charta, its importance is considered almost as great.)

Italy calls the new experiment "another revolution." The following interpretative story tells how the fascist government expects to rule Italy and what voice the people will have in the government.

By Thomas B. Morgan
United Press Staff Correspondent
ROME, Nov. 11.—Italy experienced another revolution when the fascist grand council, headed by Premier Mussolini, at 3 p. m. today suppressed universal suffrage and ordered abolition of the national chamber of deputies and political parties opposed to the government.

The politically modified representative system which the council created is, unlike any modern form of government.

Since the magna charta political and geographic considerations have been the basis of national

Lindy And Ruth Will Meet Today

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—(U.P.)—The king and queen of trans-Atlantic air lanes—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and Ruth Elder—will meet here Monday over the white house luncheon table.

Both Lindbergh and Miss Elder were invited as the guests of President and Mrs. Coolidge, together with all aviators who have attempted the trans-Atlantic flight and some of the Pacific fliers. Of the latter group, Arthur Goebel is expected to attend.

The luncheon is incidental to a public ceremony Monday night at which the president will present Lindbergh with the National Geographic society's Hubbard medal for pioneering achievement.

LOSES SIGHT, SUICIDES
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 11. (U.P.)—Because her eyesight was rapidly failing, Alice Baltho, 19, high school graduate, committed suicide here tonight.

Oregon Is Defeated By O.A.C. Beavers

Webfeet Lose Homecoming Tilt 21-7; Maple Is Big Star of Game.

EUGENE, Ore., Nov. 11. (U.P.)—Outstanding in the 21 to 7 victory of the Oregon Agricultural college over the University of Oregon on the gridiron here this afternoon was Howard Maple, small Aggie quarterback, who led his team to success in a sensational manner.

Maple's passes and line smashes gave O. A. C. two touchdowns in the first quarter and then to climax the brilliant work he ran 75 yards through the entire Oregon team in the final period to score the third touchdown.

Oregon's lone touchdown came in the final period two minutes before the game ended when Woodie, substitute back, threw a pass from midfield which Burnell, Webfoot halfback, caught and Burnell crossed the line after shaking off four O. A. C. tacklers.

Klamath Citizens In Session Today

"Klamath Citizens, Incorporated" will stage what promises to be its biggest meeting so far, this afternoon at the chamber of commerce, Bob Coyle stated last night.

Purpose of today's meeting will be to close up final details of organization, and attention will also be given to any opponents of the Klamath land selling scheme who accept Coyle's invitation to attend today's session and voice their views.

Reports from outlying communities of the county yesterday, according to Coyle, indicated a large attendance of those interested in the movement. This is to be the last meeting of the organization until Coyle returns from Los Angeles, where he will go soon in the interests of the new plan.

Armistice Shots Startle Sleepers

Klamath Falls celebrated Armistice day, but at no time did exuberance of the holiday crowds get out of bounds. Chief of Police Keith Ambrose, following a relatively quiet evening, stated:

By midnight, most celebrants had left the streets, and the business district assumed its normal week-night appearance. No arrests were made, the police chief stated.

Shortly after midnight residents along lower Pine street and Payne alley were startled by pistol shots from a gun in the hands of some over-zealous patriot in a speeding car. The firing was brief, however, and casualties nil.

REBELS WOUNDED IN CLASH WITH MARINE FORCES

MANAGUA, Nov. 11. (U.P.)—Fourteen rebels were wounded, several of them fatally, in a clash between United States marines and rebels at Teplaneca, according to reports published in local newspapers tonight.

The press also reported an engagement between marines and liberal forces at Santa Rita, near the Honduran border.

Big Pageant At Alturas Rail Fete

Over 4,000 Visit Town To Celebrate Opening Of New Line

ALTURAS, Calif., Nov. 11. (U.P.)—A pageant depicting the evolution of transportation marked the formal opening of the Nevada-California-Oregon's new broad gauge line between Wendell and Alturas.

More than 4,000 persons, many of whom came from San Francisco, Reno, Sacramento and Oakland attended the pageant and the barbecue which was held following the parade of odd vehicles which terminated at the depot where giant locomotives which will tap this vast trade territory, were standing.

In the parade there were Indian pole drags, ox-carts, stage coaches, prairie schooners, pack trains, buckboards, bicycles, motorcycles and automobiles; each a symbol of one period of the evolution of transportation.

Railroad officials stated at a banquet tonight that the new line opens up one of the richest virgin trade territories remaining in the great northwest.

The new line connects with the main line of the Southern Pacific at Wendell.

Prisoner Got Booze But Pal Went To Jail

Ray Steel, an occupant of the county jail, decided to celebrate Armistice Day in what he thought a fitting manner so he arranged to have a "bottle" brought in to him.

A friend, employed by a large lumber company of the city, called to see Steele yesterday afternoon, bringing another man with him. Steele was brought down to see another occupant of the jail. While the jailer was gone to get the man asked for, the bottle changed hands.

However, the sheriff's office had heard a rumor that such a transaction was to take place, so before the visitors departed two officers were on the scene. They searched Steele, found the whiskey, and arrested John Coers, who had brought it.

Coers is being held in the county jail, pending his hearing (Continued on Page Six)

Boys Think Plea Will Save Necks

DURBUQUE, Ia., Nov. 11. (U.P.)—The plea that "no one would want to kill his own grandmother" will be used by Leonard Cota 18, and Howard Kramer, 19, to save them from hanging for the murder of Mrs. Elizabeth McKittrick, 73.

Cota and Kramer attacked the aged, half blind woman last week when she found them ransacking her house in search of $40,000 cash and bonds she kept there. They left her unconscious after obtaining the money. She was Cota's maternal grandmother.

"We didn't mean to kill her and they can't hang us for it," Cota said when he was placed in a cell here after the two were returned from St. Louis, Mo., where they were arrested.

"When we tell our story we will be turned loose."

U.S. MOST MORAL NATION IN WORLD, SPANISH DECIDE

MADRID, Nov. 11. (U.P.)—The United States is one of the most moral countries in the world, speakers said today at the closing session of the national assembly against immorality.

But the delegates decided Spain needed a good morality crusade and the assembly decided to launch one which would touch the most accessible hamlet in the nation.

Lakeview Case May Hit Jury Saturday

Must Decide Whether Cowgirl Stabbed in Self Defense; Story Talked.

LAKEVIEW, Ore., Nov. 11. (U.P.)—Scales of justice are evenly balanced and tomorrow, it is likely, the fate of Lorena Trickey, equestrienne extraordinary, who is accused of slaying her happy-go-lucky cowboy partner, J. P. "Slim" Harris, will be in the hands of a jury.

Only one question confronts the 12 men who are sitting in judgment over the little rodeo queen.

"Was she justified in killing Harris?" is the single mystery of this sensational trial on the "last frontier" on which the jury must rule.

Still echoing through the little Western town tonight was the story of the killing as told by the cowgirl in her own defense.

"God knows I loved him, drunkenness and all," Miss Trickey cried out from the witness stand as she finished the (Continued on Page Five)

Cold Wave Hits Whole Southwest

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 11. (U.P.)—Blistering cold winds swept down from the north today while all sections of the southwest shivered in the sudden change of temperatures. Even colder weather was predicted for Saturday.

At Kansas City the mercury was expected to drop to 21 degrees during the night and garages reported heavy sales of alcohol for automobiles and clothing stores were rushed in selling heavier clothing.

At Oklahoma City the mercury dropped to below 38 and colder weather was predicted. Winds were reported throughout Oklahoma and Kansas as blustery and cold.

Oddities in the Day's News

(United Press)

BERLIN, Nov. 11. (U.P.)—I have 26 dependents," said Feodor Chalapin, the grand opera star, protesting against the proposal to limit the tax on opera stars to $250 a performance.

Regarding her recent divorce in Moscow, he said: "My wife and I still are on the most friendly terms."
