STRONGER BANKS

Oregon banks set a new record in the financial history of the state when the banking superintendent's call of October 10 revealed more than 310 million dollars on deposit in the state's 252 banks.

This is the best news that has come out of the office of A. A. Schramm, superintendent, for many months, for in its figures may be seen the outline of an ever-strengthening financial foundation for this state.

The report indicates that the prosperity in general over the state and virtually that all sections are sharing in the success, which on every hand meets the efforts of those pioneering new enterprises here.

Of interest in the report is the revelation in the figures that the decline of values suffered in 1920, with a consequent demoralization of business, has been entirely overcome.

The News is happy to note that valley cities, too, are riding high financially. We expected Klamath to show up well. It has, and we are glad that others share our banking strength, for an increasingly prosperous state means firmer soil for our own foundations.

And now we read of an unused house in Coburg, Oregon, whose walls have been packed with honey by a colony of bees which moved into the vacant dwelling four or more years ago.

In South Dakota the state highway department is attaching magnets seven feet long, to the bottom of all its trucks, in an attempt to clear the roads of bits of metal which puncture tires.

Migrating geese and ducks, those that head southward for Klamath each year, often travel at a speed of from 45 to 48 miles an hour, an eastern scientist has said.

A Boston doctor stated in the news recently that in 50 years people will become too civilized to kiss.

mediate retreat by signing the Italo-Albanian alliance treaty.

Lithuania actually has been in a formal state of war with Poland for seven years, ever since seizure of her former capital, Vilna, by General Zeligowski.

Enduring As Its Namesake Is the Spacious "Harvard"

Spacious, sunny and comfortable are the bedrooms of "The Harvard." And lucky is the member of the family who gets the front one that lets onto the little balcony over the porch which makes a day sitting room with its flower boxes.
