Montgomery will be set in the near future.

Indictment of the governor and his associates was the climax of three special grand jury investigations into alleged political corruption in Indiana during the height of the power of the Ku Klux Klan...

The specific charge against Jackson is that when he was secretary of state, and McCray was governor in 1923, he and his associates offered $10,000 if McCray would appoint a county prosecutor favorable to Jackson's political faction.

At that time McCray was involved in state charges in connection with his financial operations. He was bankrupt, and was accused of illegal manipulation of securities to recoup.

At The Liberty

William Fairbanks' latest thrill-drama, "When Danger Calls," a melodrama of a gallant fire-fighter, now playing at the Liberty Theatre...

The big fire serves as a smashing climax to this thrilling stunt drama, and for several tense moments "Big Bill" Fairbanks is seen on the very threshold of death's door...

The trouble starts when Fairbanks, as a Fire Inspector, determines to condemn the Marsden buildings after a big tenement fire in a house that should have been condemned.

His athletic prowess saves his life, but his enemies frame him, and Bill is dismissed from the department. Misunderstanding between Bill and the welfare worker sets in and Bill decides to leave town.

With the league of nations council meeting two days off, Russia and German diplomats were indignant because of a statement made by Marshal Pilsudski, the Polish dictator, that he spent a whole night last week considering whether he should mobilize the Polish army against Lithuania.

The council will take up the Polish-Lithuanian seven-year-old squabble over Vilna, which Poland now occupies, but which Lithuania claims as her own.

The disarmament conference, it now appears, resolved itself into a battle of wits and diplomatic tactics.

Maxin Litvinoff, soviet assistant foreign commissar and head of his country's delegation, made his debut in international circles with a program of complete disarmament.

Need For Arms Told In Speech

last evening, "Rotary Around the World," telling of the number of Rotary clubs now existing in each of 43 nations and the number that will be organized in the next few months.

"Show me anything else except religion that has entered 43 different nations as Rotary has done," enthusiastically remarked the speaker, and then he told of the great bearing Rotary is having on the nations of the world today.

It is Rotary, the spreading of the great principle of friendship and square dealing with each other that will nullify the war clouds and make a better understanding throughout the brotherhood of man.

Reviews History He then reviewed the history of the civic club from the very day that Paul Harris of Chicago conceived the idea.

Fleet Honored President John Boyle presided at last evening's dinner announcing that it was the regular weekly luncheon of the civic club transferred from the noon hour to evening in honor of Governor Manning.

Ex-Grid Star Is Injured In Fight

The quarrel, according to Deputy District Attorney Judson, who issued the complaint, followed a party Saturday night.

Despite Nigh's objections, it was said, Miss Jarvis accompanied Usher to the home of friends in Laurel canyon.

As Usher and Miss Jarvis were leaving in the early morning hours, Nigh and his chauffeur jumped on the former football luminary, it was asserted. In the violent free-for-all that followed, Usher was struck over the head with the automobile crank.

Usher was a star on one of Michigan's "wonder teams" several years ago and was given a place on numerous All-American teams.

Nigh is well-known in motion picture circles and directed several large productions for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and others.

Miss Jarvis is said to have formerly been on Broadway and more recently playing small parts in pictures.

ILLINOIS SOLON LOOKS OVER SEAT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2. (AP)—Frank L. Smith of Illinois wandered leisurely into the senate chamber today, found the seat assigned to him was on the back row, gazed on it for a brief period and then sauntered out to await the contest to be waged over his right to occupy it.

Mr. Smith found his seat easily. Not only was it the last seat on the last row but it was nearest the rear door by which he entered the chamber.

Glancing over his prospective neighbors, the Illinois senator elect noticed that William S. Vard of Pennsylvania also facing a contest, was assigned immediately in front of him on the last seat on the next to the last row.

Rotarian and the applause was loud and long for Fleet. After assuring him of the appreciation of his constant attendance and active work in Rotary, President Boyle delivered a fine literary tribute to Fleet's personality.

Wilson Wiley acted as chairman of the evening, at the request of President Boyle. In introducing Governor Manning Wiley told of the high esteem and deep seated love held by every Rotarian for the Governor.

Set Dynamite To Maim Sweetheart

"I went to Peoria to buy the wedding ring Wednesday," he told Sheriff Floyd S. Clark. "I didn't get a ring but I did get two sticks of dynamite and a percussion cap.

"That night I went to see Lola and when I left her I went to the school house and put the dynamite in the back of the stove. I hid the cap in the coal below so it would explode and set off the dynamite when the fire was started."

Author Found In Ship's Steerage

HONOLULU, T. H., Dec. 2.—(U.P.)—Stephen McKenna, British novelist, was discovered in the steerage of the steamship Niagara, Sydney to Vancouver, here today.

When his identity was discovered McKenna was offered a first class cabin by the captain of the ship, but refused it.

"It is really not so bad, you know," he said, "and in order for a writer to learn life he must live it."
