Suit For Half Million Result Of Allegations

CINCINNATI, Dec. 13. (AP)—John S. Berger, reputed Los Angeles, California, exposition promoter today filed suit for $500,000 damages against Charles P. Taft, II, Hamilton county prosecutor, for allegations in an indictment charging Berger perjured himself as a witness for George Remus on trial for murder.

The suit was also based upon Berger's allegation that in an interview to some newspapermen Taft repeated the allegations of the indictment which included the statement that Berger had been convicted of a felony in Minnesota.

Berger acted for himself in filing the suit in common pleas court, but said he would employ a half dozen prominent attorneys from all over the country.

At The Liberty

Being the smallest star of the screen is a distinction of which Shirley Mason, graceful little feminine lead of "Rich Men's Sons," now at the Liberty theater is proud.

She has no wish, as have so many small women, to be a tall and willowy blonde—but is entirely content to remain as she is—a petite brunette, four feet eleven and one-quarter inches in height and about ninety-six pounds in weight.

Miss Mason points to the fact that most of the women of history noted for their charm were small. Mary, Queen of Scots, who according to Miss Mason, would have been the greatest screen star of all time, had she lived in the days of motion pictures and not been born a queen, was of the same height and weight as the Columbia star, according to historical records.

In "Rich Men's Sons," Miss Mason plays opposite Ralph Graves, who is six foot one. The contrast is further enhanced in that Miss Mason plays a young society girl who assumes the management of her father's steel mill, while Graves is a young waster disinherited by his railroad magnate father because he won't work.

Other members of the cast include Robert Cain, George Fawcett, Frances Raymond, Scott Seaton, Walter James and Johnny Fox. Ralph Graves directed.

A downward revision in Germany's prune tariff, which will cut the duty on American prunes from $1.08 top, is reported by cable from Berlin by American agricultural commissioner L. V. Steere. Whether prices in local markets will be affected is problematical but an increase is looked for as export business increases.
