TODAY'S MARKET

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 21 (AP)—Turkey prices are holding relatively firm on the wholesale market here although receipts have been unusually heavy and the eastern markets weak. A decided increase in local demand coupled with fairly heavy shipments to nearby points has kept the supply fairly well cleaned up so far and unless consignments increase it is expected that prices will remain around present levels until Christmas.

Most sales this morning were between 35c and 38c for best birds. Geese and ducks are moderately plentiful, the former moving at 25c and 30c white ducks are bringing 30c to 35c. Capon prices are weak, most sales bringing 32c. Other poultry is steady.

Egg prices took a drop of a cent on the dairy exchange yesterday afternoon, the cut affecting only extras and firsts. Prices today are: extras 34c; firsts 32c; fresh medium extras 32c; fresh medium firsts 30c; underized 27c. Association prices dropped today also, extras 2c a dozen to 35c and firsts a cent to 37c. Other grades are steady. No changes were listed in prices of butter or butterfat. Country dressed meats are likewise steady.
