Malin Residents Struggle to Get Town on Railroad

Happy over the recent announcement of immediate construction of the Modoc Northern railroad, yet determined, if possible, to bring the line through the town of Malin...

According to the present plans of the railroad, Malin will be missed several miles. The districts and the town seek to cooperate with the railroad in altering their survey to include the prosperous community...

(One) The agricultural section through which the railroad will run, is 14 miles in diameter, and by routing the line through Malin it will cut squarely through this section...

(Two) If the railroad misses Malin by over a mile, it will mean the decadence of that community...

(Three) By the Malin route, the railroad would be nearer to the Shaasta View and Malin Irrigation districts which are in need of railroad transportation to develop this fertile agricultural center...

(Four) The Malin route would obviate crossing a certain part of the Tule lake country, thus obstructing the drainage system of the section...

Active workers on behalf of Malin include A. Kalina, Harry Wilson, J. L. Jacob, A. M. Thomas and A. Dubrovsky.

The Southern Pacific railroad so far has decided to adhere to its original plans, of crossing Tule lake and missing Malin by several miles. The Malin route would mean the construction of several additional miles of railroad, it was said.

Thirty-three Hurt In Fuse Explosion

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 20, (UP)—Thirty-three girls were injured, several seriously, when a fuse exploded in the Duerler candy factory here late today.

More than 100 girls, at work in the factory at the time of the explosion, were thrown into a panic and rushed for the doors. Fire broke out and burned several of the girls before they could make their escape from the building.

An ice man played the part of a hero and saved five from the burning building, rescuing two from the stampede at an exit and three from a second story window after he put a ladder up.

Water Users Will Decide Question

Water users of the Klamath Irrigation district will decide August 15 whether or not a contract with the government providing for the construction of a $300,000 drainage project will be ratified.

Decision to submit the issue to the district followed a long and careful study by the board of directors of the Klamath Irrigation district. J. R. Iakisch, noted federal drainage engineer, conducted a careful survey of the situation and in a report to the district recommended new drains.

He pointed out that when the district was first laid out, an adequate drainage system was not provided before; that later $360,000 was expended for this purpose, but was not sufficient to accomplish its purpose.

Payments for the project would be made over a period of 25 years, beginning in 1932 and would total $12,000 annually. The construction program includes the cleaning of 30 miles of drains; the deepening or reconstruction of 24 miles of shallow drains; and the construction of 15 miles of new drains.

In a report to the district board Mr. Iakisch recommended that the projects should be undertaken in the following order: reconstruction of drains; cleaning and reconstruction of drains in the Merrill and upper Tule lake areas; construction of new drains which have the largest tributary areas of water logged land.

The project would extend over a four-year period. Cost of the project would be spread uniformly over all properties in the district, except in the Tule lake section where the cost of drains has already been included in the original construction charges.

Banquet Held in Honor of Railway Men at New Grille

About 15 members of the interstate commerce commission and prominent railroad men will be guests of the chamber of commerce this evening at a banquet at the Pelican Grille, when a large number of local business men will be present.

The party will arrive this evening in time for the dinner and will leave early Sunday morning for Crater Lake, where breakfast will be served, after which they will leave over the Sand Creek road and return to Portland via the McKenzie Pass.

Those who will be guests this evening are B. H. Meyer, member of the interstate commerce commission; Arthur R. Mackley and George J. Hall, examiners for the interstate commerce commission; J. J. Murphy, member of the state railroad commission of South Dakota and his wife; James Neal of the Washington department of public works; R. J. Hagman, St. Paul, Minn., attorney representing the Great Northern and Northern Pacific; A. B. Enoch, representative of the Rock Island railroad; W. R. Scott, Kansas City, representing the Kansas City board of trade;

Ropes Under Big Strain in Fight

SAN FRANCISCO, July 20, (UP)—Ropes of a new San Francisco arena were given a severe test tonight when Jackie Fields, Los Angeles welterweight, pounded Joe Vargas of Fresno against them repeatedly and the referee had to stop the bout in the ninth round.

Vargas really stood up as well as the strands of hemp, refusing to let the Los Angeles boxer send him to the canvas with his numerous rights and lefts. The fight was scheduled to go 10 rounds but the referee considered a beating in each of nine rounds was enough for Vargas. It was a technical knockout victory for Fields.

Fort Klamath Man Given Six Months

PORTLAND, July 20, (UP)—Robert Cable, Fort Klamath pool hall proprietor, was sentenced to serve four months in jail on a plea of guilty to charges of possessing beer and maintaining a nuisance, in federal court here today.

Cable is the first of 17 reputed liquor dispensers arrested by federal officers in the Klamath country early this month to plead guilty.

Richard Nails and Abe Done, also of Klamath county, were fined $500 and $250 respectively, on pleas of guilty to charges of possessing and transporting liquor.

ARMOUR WINS

WESTFIELD, N. J., July 20, (UP)—Tommy Armour of the Congressional Country club, Washington, D. C., won the Metropolitan open golf championship today with a total of 273 for the 72 holes.

Armour beat par 16 strokes for the four rounds to take the championship from Johnny Farrell, Quaker Ridge professional and national open champion, who finished in second place with 280. Leo Diegel, who finished third, scored 284.

Paul Bunyan to Arrive Shortly

lovelorn lumberjacks through the columns of the Lumberlogue, which will appear in both the Klamath News and Evening Herald around the middle of next week, and regularly every week thereafter.

It is rumored that Paul Bunyan is intending to run for president of the United States on a platform of free beer and Lindsey marriage, but the great logger, historian and orator would neither deny nor confirm this rumor by long distance telephone last night.

"I want to see how I stand with the jacks before I make any definite announcement," Paul boomed. It was impossible to understand Mr. Bunyan then for a time, as the phone began chattering off, but presently the mighty logger threw the phone out of the window and bellowed up unaided from the redwood district on the Del Norte coast.

"I'll tell you all about it when I get there. Tell the boys to kill a drove or two of fattened calves, because I'm sure going to be ready to eat when I get there. Jellilosee will be ready to partake of nourishment, too, and though the old girl's a perfect lady, she can sure stow away anything in the way of food."

Miss Joynes, in a perfumed, scented, ladylike note, assured the editor of the Lumberlogue that she would be here with Mr. Bunyan, and spill heart balm for the jacks in great soles.

"I'm looking forward with great pleasure to renewing my acquaintance with L. L. McBride of the state prohibition forces," Miss Joynes said. "When I was in Klamath before, Mr. McBride and I conducted a moral crusade, and, in fact, formed the Greater and Better Loggers' association. My association with him at that time was most agreeable."

"I also remember with pleasure the knotty problems of the heart which I untangled for Messrs. Joseph Bond, Joe Nixon, Micked Delaugherty, George Gannon, Bat Mullennax, Monty Montgomery, Jimmer Johnston, 'Little Rip' McCullom, and a dozen or more of those other innocent, hearted lads of the open spaces."
