

Unknown Bodies Buried in South

A telegram to Red Cross headquarters from Dr. A. T. Elde, Red Cross worker, carried the information that the negroes had rioted and that a call had been sent for military aid. Later word came from West Palm Beach that riots were feared but prompt dispatch of armed troops aided in calming a situation that appeared serious.

Island Deaths Rise

Porto Rican deaths grew in number as relief workers in army trucks made their way inland from the coast. Henry M. Baker, chairman of the relief party reported 174 known dead and 281 injured on the island. His figures were incomplete, representing a survey of 44 out of the 77 towns in Porto Rico.

It is believed a thorough survey of the island will show nearly 300 dead, although this report was an unofficial estimate.

600 Killed

From information reaching here the Guadalupe death list was now 660, as the result of the hurricane which hit here September 12 and proceeded on to Porto Rico and Florida. It was understood that the French government will be asked to appropriate $4,000,000 to care for the sufferers.

Sanitary conditions in Palm Beach county Florida, and in the interior of Porto Rico were reported as unsatisfactory with the danger of a serious epidemic.

Strong preventative measures are being taken in Porto Rico to combat disease. Chlorine, to purify the water, has been supplied the hospitals by the U. S. public health service. Emergency hospitals have been established wherever needed. Two are in operation in San Juan.

Bury Unidentified

A. L. Schafer, Red Cross relief director in Jacksonville, reported to headquarters that drastic steps were being taken in the western part of Palm Beach county to prevent an outbreak of disease.

"Sanitary conditions in western part of Palm Beach county are increasingly serious," Schafer telegraphed. "Bodies are coming to the surface of the lake. Necessary to bury bodies without identification. New negro cemetery established 16 miles west of Palm Beach."

He reported that the death list still estimated at 400 but with the strong possibility that it will increase.

Dr. Elde, at Haines City, notified headquarters that he had completed a survey of the east side of Lake Okechobee by boat and found 250 persons dead in that section. Forty-seven bodies were found in one place on a road, he said.

Out of 3,000 persons at Pahokee, 2,500 are homeless, Elde said.

The area south to Miami Loeks, including Kramers Island was devastated and the loss of life was considerable, but we cannot estimate it, although it probably will amount to several hundred," he added.

Property damage in Palm Beach county will be nearly $30,000,000 Director Schafer said.

Bly Country Is Developing Fast

That Bly, community center of Upper Sprague River valley, is enjoying the first real boom of its long existence, is the opinion of William Duncan, district attorney, who recently returned from a brief visit to that section of Klamath.

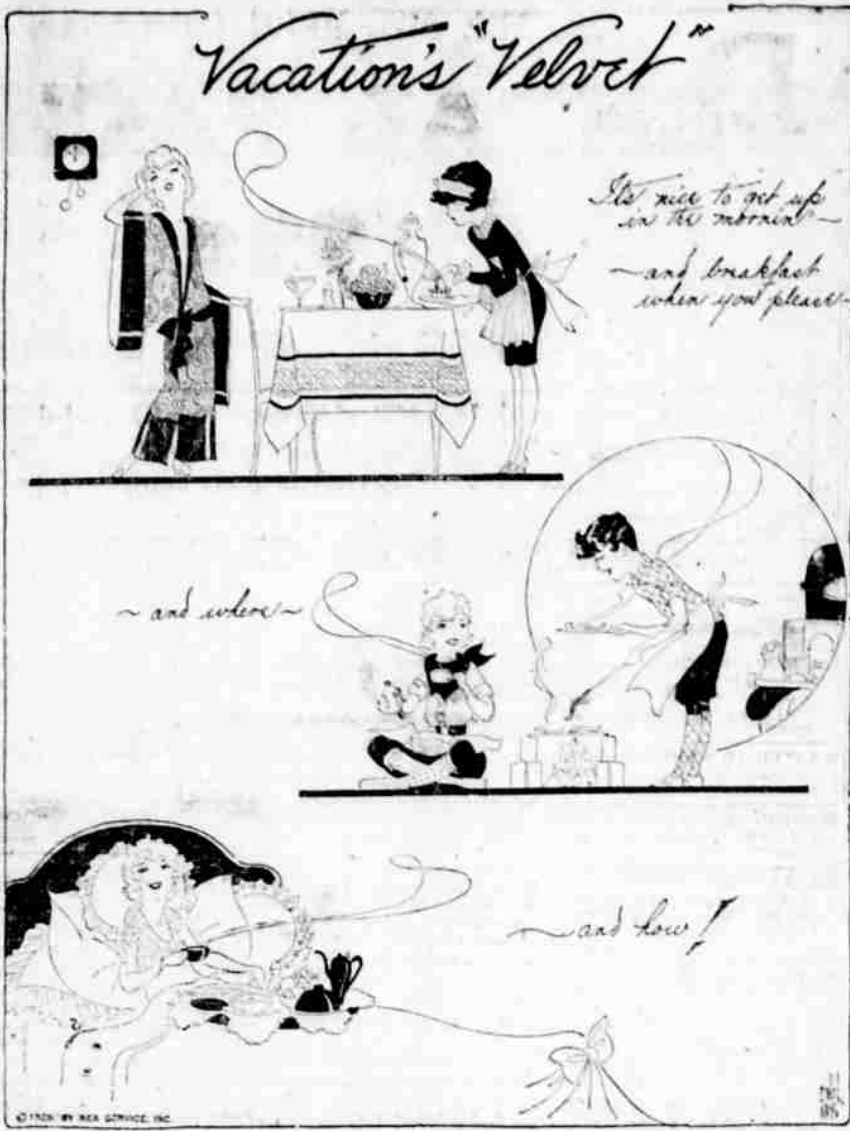

"Heretofore Bly has been a small livestock and agricultural center," said Mr. Duncan. "Although there was considerable timber in the locality, absence of railroad transportation has prevented timber cutting. Now, however, the O. C. & E. railroad is being extended from Sprague 26 miles to Bly, and from Bly, I understand, the Ewauna Box company and the Pelican Bay Lumber company are planning each to build a road east into their respective timber holdings. There should be quite a community out there soon."

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 20. (UP)—Gordon S. Northcott, wanted in Los Angeles, Calif., in connection with the deaths of four boys on his farm near Riverside, was taken from a Canadian Pacific railway train two miles east of Vancouver tonight and rushed to Oakalla prison under heavy guard.

Northcott, who was being brought to Vancouver from Vernon to await extradition to California, was surrounded by a number of provincial police when he stepped from the train. Newspaper men and photographers were kept back while the prisoner was escorted to a waiting automobile.

Crowds Eluded

Later it was learned that he had been transferred to a police machine a half mile from the station.

A crowd of several hundred persons met the train at the C. P. R. depot, but were unable to get a good view of the youthful suspect because of the heavy guard.

Determined to make short work of the man who held him to a battling draw last meeting, Jack Crilly, San Francisco heavyweight, has arrived in Klamath Falls to round out his training for the ten-round main event bout with Nails Gorman, Hood River behemoth, in Klamath Falls Friday evening, September 28.

Crilly is already looking ahead of this bout. He confided in "Tex" Bickerstaff, fight promoter, that if he got over Gorman, he would like to meet Chet Shantell, sensational San Francisco heavyweight who has not been defeated in his ten professional fights.

Crilly has been working for the past week at Moose Tausig's gymnasium and says he's in excellent condition for the bout.

In the meantime "Tex" is getting things lined up for the preliminaries.

Groesbeck Talks At Kiwanis Meet

"Law itself is to safeguard the minority as well as the majority. It is over the effort of Americans to raise the level from the lowest to the minimum." Kollo G. Groesbeck, prominent attorney of this city told members of the Kiwanis club at the noon luncheon yesterday. Groesbeck spoke to the members on "Constitutional Privileges" in observance of National Constitution week which is being observed by civic clubs throughout the United States.

The part each individual takes in the development of the United States, brought about by financial awards and other sources was cleverly brought to the attention of the members in Mr. Groesbeck's address.

To create an incentive and encourage leadership, each individual must be given an opportunity, Mr. Groesbeck declared.
