

SPLIT SEASON IS ABOLISHED

Managers of Clubs Fail to Elect President at Meeting

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 12 (U P)—Harry A. Williams, president of the Pacific Coast League for the past five years, probably will continue as chief executive of the circuit until such a time as the league directors can get together and break a deadlock which completely disrupted Monday's session.

After 14 ballots failed to elect a successor to Williams' position, the directors decided to adjourn until Tuesday morning, when the balloting will be resumed.

Many Nominated
During the morning session 19 ballots were taken and it was found that the choice for president lay evenly distributed between W. W. McCredie and W. H. McFarby. In addition to these two candidates, Harry A. Williams, incumbent, and John J. Sullivan, Seattle, and Allan T. Hahn of San Francisco were nominated for the position.

Before the morning session was adjourned, William H. Klepper was seated as director representing Seattle, and Wade Kilfer was seated as director for the Mission club.

Abolish Split Session
By a vote of 5 to 2, the directors decided to open the season on March 26, 1929. Voting against the proposal were the Mission, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The schedule for the first four weeks of the season is expected to be made at the night session Tuesday. The schedule will be drawn for 23 straight weeks, the split season proposal being defeated by a vote of 5 to 2, with one director abstaining from voting. Los Angeles and Sacramento were the two clubs which voted in favor of the split season.

The directors also voted the same player limit for next season, with 20 veterans and five players of a year or less than class A experience.

Broadcasting of baseball games was left to the discretion of individual club owners.

Universal Draft Falls

The league voted down the universal draft proposition, which usually manages to crop up annually, at the suggestion of the big leaguers. The vote against the draft was unanimous. The National League scheme of providing competition in spring training camps for teams was also adopted by the magnates.

No Pacific Coast League team will be able to play exhibition games in Tacoma in the future unless it first gains the consent of the Seattle club, the directors decided.

Cub Manager Signs Contract

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (UP)—Ray Schalk, deposed as manager of the Chicago White Sox during the 1928 baseball season, will succeed Roger Bresnahan as first assistant manager of the New York Giants, John J. McGraw announced today.

Schalk will manage the Giants when McGraw is absent from the team and he may catch a few games if the necessity arises.

Henry (Honolulu) Hughes is by way of being a big football figure at Oregon State College this year—in fact, the Hawaiian is counted one of the Aggies' mainstays, after his great showing as a freshman. He's a triple threat and then some as he receives, carries the ball, is good interference and a fine defensive back. In addition, he punts, too, around 40 yards, now that he's getting more used to playing with shoes on. Photo shows him doing a bit of barefoot work.

SPORTSMATTER

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (UP)—One of the primary purposes of inter-collegiate football is gate receipts.

The development of health and a spirit of sportsmanship among those who take part, the promotion of interest in education through the lure of athletics—these also fit into the general scheme of the modern game. But when it comes to the promulgation of health, morals and love of learning in adolescence, gate receipts are of great assistance.

Football pays all the expenses for all the other sports at any given school. Indirectly, it pays professors and bricklayers and other things which improve a college curriculum or campus. Its returns this season will be approximately $25,000,000.

Such popularity is not to be found in every carload within a walk of a mile or so. Football unquestionably has what the cash customers crave.

The old throats that come up in the throat of the average college alumnus when his team sprouts out onto the freshly chalk-marked gridiron for the first kickoff against the traditional rival is the primary factor in football's popularity. For, after all, your college alumnus helps make up a majority of the attendance at any given game. The outsiders, for all their cash, are still in the minority.

Take the case of the Yale-Princeton game at Palmer stadium next Saturday. No one would rate these two teams with the best in the country. There will be better football on many gridirons. But Princeton's stadium will be crowded from the

GONZAGA WINS FROM ST. MARYS

Swamp California Team With Fast Attack; Win 20-7

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 12. (UP)—The Gonzaga Bulldogs outsmarted the Galloping Gaius from St. Marys here today, scoring three touchdowns with a dazzling offensive and holding the visitors to a lone touchdown. The score was 20 to 7.

Gonzaga scored first in the opening period but the Gaius came right back with a touchdown and a goal kick which placed them in the lead at the end of the first quarter.

The Gaius marched 70 yards down the field in the second quarter only to be stopped when a pass was grounded. A pass that was good for 20 yards put the Bulldogs in position again, hunting crashing over on a line play. The try for point was good.

The third quarter saw plenty of action but no scores. In the final period Gonzaga pushed over another score and kicked goal.

St. Marys threatened again in the second half when they worked the ball to Gonzaga's two-yard line, but lacked the punch to put it over, and lost the ball.

Hornsby to Sign Contract Today

CHICAGO, Nov. 12. (UP)—Rogers Hornsby, former manager of the Boston Braves, will arrive in Chicago Tuesday to sign his contract with the Chicago Cubs. The great slugger of the national league will receive $22,000 for his 1929 services according to reports here today.

This is the same figure he was receiving at Boston, from which club he was obtained recently in a deal involving a reported figure of $125,000 and five cub players. The terms are said to have been agreed upon by both Hornsby and President Veck of the Cubs.

Rissos seem to be taken for granted nowadays. At least they're taken—and usually granted.

BOSTON BEATS FORDHAM TEAM

With Carnegie Tech Is Only Unbeaten Eleven in East

BOSTON, Nov. 12. (UP)—An intercepted pass in the second quarter enabled Boston college to come from behind and defeat Fordham university, 19 to 7, today and retain its place, along with Carnegie Tech, as the only unbeaten and untied eleven in the east. A crowd of 25,000 saw the game.

With Fordham leading 7 to 6, Johnny Dixon, 6 feet 3 inches in height, spotted a pass thrown by Dallaire, Fordham quarterback, and raced 47 yards for the deciding touchdown.

Boston college added another touchdown in the final period when Murphy, Herman and McGark broke through the line to block an attempted punt by Tracy. Bronnan, subbing for Wilczewski at left guard, covered the ball behind Fordham's goal line for the touchdown.

A fumble paved the way for Boston college's first touchdown in the opening period. Pleschewicz, Fordham fullback, fumbled and Smith, Boston college fullback, covered the ball on Fordham's 20-yard line. A forward pass, Weston to Murphy, gained 26 yards, placing the ball Cur yards for the goal line. After two line thrusts by Weston, Creighton went around Fordham's left end for a touchdown. The try for goal was blocked.

DUNDEE TAKES CHARLES BOUT

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Nov. 12. (UP)—Johnny Dundee, former featherweight champion, returned to the ring tonight and defeated Gaston Charles of France in a ten-round bout at the new Broadway arena. Dundee weighed 125 1/2, Charles 130 1/2.

Dundee, who is 28, and has been fighting for 15 years, made a strong finish which baffled his young opponent. Dundee's boxing ability was largely responsible for his victory.

Oregon-Oregon State Game Tickets Sell Fast, Few Left, Two Teams Evenly Matched

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis, Nov. 12.—In order to take care of the last-minute demand for tickets to the Oregon-Oregon State football battle at Corvallis November 17, Carl Ledell, general manager here, placed on sale Monday morning 2,900 general admission tickets. These tickets, which are selling at $2 each, will entitle the holder to a seat in the lower section of the south grand stand. All these seats are covered. Applications should be made to A. G. Spaulding, Bron, Meier & Frank, in Stadium ticket office in Portland, or direct to Carl Ledell at Corvallis.

1,500 Bleachers
In addition to these general admission seats, 1,500 bleacher seats will be set up on the north end of Bell field to take care of the general admission crowd on the day of the game. A few reserved seats in both the upper part of the south grand stand and the side line section are still available. Carl Ledell expects these to be picked up in a day or so.

The game between the two state institutions is causing more interest this year than at any other time since the two teams have met on the gridiron. Both teams are about on a par, with University of Oregon having the edge, if any. Critics throughout the state predict a win for Oregon if the game is played on a wet field and the other way around if the field is dry and fast.

teams will be played at Corvallis Saturday before the largest crowd ever to see the teams in a battle against each other. Pre-season showing of the teams gives the Aggies the edge in backfield play, with Oregon holding the advantage in the line.

Although Oregon expects to start its entire first-string line against the Aggies, two cripples will be in the Webfoot lineup—George Stadelman, center, and George Christenson, 225-pound tackle. Both were injured in the Washington game a month ago and in the contest against the California Bears last week Christenson was carried off the field in both games with a sprained ankle, while Stadelman has a bum knee.

BELANGER KEEPS TITLE
CHICAGO, Nov. 12. (UP)—Charley Belanger, holder of the Canadian light-heavyweight title, defeated his chief Canadian rival, Harry Dillon, in a closely fought 10-round bout here tonight. Belanger weighed in at 178 1/4 and Dillon at 175 1/4.

Renegade Zepko, Paris, knocked out "One Pound" Hogan, Los Angeles, heavyweight.
