STOCK MARKET HAS BIG DAY

Bulls and Bears Fight Virtual Draw After See-Saw

BY ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (UP)—Bulls and bears fought to a virtual draw in stock exchange dealings today in the greatest market that Wall street has ever seen. A total of 5,681,300 shares changed hands in the five-hour battle, so keen was the battle, and when the ticker printed the last quotation at 4:35 p. m., plus and minus signs in the stock table were about equal in number.

Even the curb market shared in the bull movement, which had its start following the overwhelming republican victory of last week. Trading on the curb ran to more than 1,500,000 shares and price movements were nearly as hectic as those on the big board.

A basis for the day's record-breaking dealings was afforded by the action of the stock market last Saturday. More than 3,000,000 shares changed hands then in the two-hour session and the dealings so fired the public imagination that this morning's opening saw a huge volume of buying orders that had accumulated over the week-end. Money conditions were also easier, demonstrating that the current market is not being financed with commercial funds and greatly aiding bullish sentiment.

Hoover to Leave On November 18

trade and political situations in the South American countries which he will visit, and desires expert advice on those matters at hand. He has personal knowledge of the trade situation from his long connection with it as secretary of commerce.

Friends of the president-elect expect a new turn in Latin-American policy in the Hoover administration as the result of his visit. Hoover, himself, is determined that nothing shall happen on his visit which might be misrepresented and thus endanger the purpose for which it is planned in every sense of the word.

Hoover is giving attention, as he formulates final plans, to suggestions that he stop in Florida on the way back, returning to Washington by easy stages through the south. This, it is pointed out, would please those many friends of his in the south whose numbers were manifested by the heavy vote he received there.

SUGAR IMPROVES FRUIT FLAVORS

Makes these healthful foods delightful to the taste

The human body needs fruits, to be well-fed and healthy, and each person should eat at least one raw and one cooked fruit each day. Here are the health-giving elements that fruits bring to us: needed roughage, fruit vitamines, mineral salts, and beneficial fruit acids.

And, thanks to sugar, fruits can all be beneficial in another way. The harsh or sour acids, by being sweetened to taste, can be turned into delightful flavors that add enjoyment to eating. As a famous food scientist states it, "The fruit acids are softened by sugar. The fruit flavors are developed by sugar. Sugar promotes and facilitates the ingestion of fruits."

There are few people in the world who do not relish the delicious flavors of orange and grapefruit salad, sweetened to taste. One of the most welcome beverages to any palate is hot lemonade.

And remember that stewed fresh apples or pears or stewed dried peaches, prunes or apricots are excellent for breakfast. For dinner, think of apple sauce with pork, and cranberry sauce with any kind of roast fowl or meat. Baked apples or pears and fruit pies are delicious, as well as healthful, for dessert.

Eating should be enjoyable as well as healthful. The use of sugar, on the table and in cooking, is the friend of food enjoyment. The Sugar Institute.

Daintiest Danish Dancer

Denmark made its mark in Broadway's world of beauty when Edith Jorgensen arrived from Copenhagen to join a New York musical show. Edith, it's said, was the most beautiful girl in her country until a 50-week contract for $20,000 lured her across the Atlantic. She went on the stage at 11 and gained such popularity as a solo dancer that American managers began bidding for her aid in glorifying their productions.

Campaign Started to 'De-Bunk' Movies by New York City Man

By SAM LOVE

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (UP) Fraudulent lethal weapons, crepe rubber Irish confetti and shipwrecks in less water than a man could shave are being displayed on Broadway in an exhibition devoted to debunking the movies.

Faint suspicions that the working hours of cinema stars must be very dull—else why should some of them cut such queer didoes on their nights off?—are more than verified for those who will believe an enterprising showman who has set up a "movie expose" museum.

Cork Revolver

Were you sorry for Lon Chaney when a bottle of 1897 port crashed over his head? The bottle was of very thin plaster which would not raise a bump on the bean of Baby Peggy, the "expose" would have it.

Were you frightened when Douglas Fairbanks was smacked in the phiz with a revolver? If so, you just made a sucker of yourself. The horsepistol was carved out of cork.

More Cork Used

The depths of deception to which the movies have stooped does not end there, by any means. It is not unreasonable to expect that Charlie Chaplin should demand that the mallet with which he is frequently socked should be made of Balsa wood (lighter than cork) and farther-more edged with crepe rubber. Or that Wallace Beery's pirate pistols should be carved of finest Carolina yellow pine, or even that George Bancroft should fight his way out of a den of Chicago gangsters with a cork monkey wrench.

But why should Richard Dix, in the cotton gloves and garb of an honest toiler, toss about iron bolts made of Balsa wood? And great, big muscular Milton Sills—why should he, in his men-of-ironish pictures, wave a Balsa wood sledgehammer that weighs less than the honest tire tape wrapping its handle?

Six Pound Tie

And Thomas Meighan—ever see his eyes pop out while he tossed a railroad tie at a whole raft of villains? Such a railroad tie hangs suspended from a spring scale in the disillusioning museum. It weighs six pounds, or somewhat less than the average day-old baby.

Other disheartening frauds are offered. There is a movie stained glass window, through which a beam of light might play on the upturned face of Lillian Gish while she prays for the preservation of her good name. This window is nothing more nor less than a fly screen of low quality, daubed with a little plaster, gelatin and varnish.

Much Veneer

The materials of John Gilbert's imposing movie mansions, in which he is wont to beguile the susceptible Greta Garbo, are offered as painted beaver board, and the movie marble such as Gloria Swanson sweeps across to receive her week-end guests at the chateau are thin blocks of painted veneer. One misstep on Miss Swanson's part and the whole floor would scatter like a deck of cards.

Some of the other deceptions are miniature sets of great ingenuity. In one street scene, three blocks of a downtown section apparently located in Newark, N. J., the traffic changes as the lights blink red and green although the whole set is only three feet across and as many deep. It is used for such perilous acts as the hero's teetering on a skyscraper girder, and has the obvious advantage of allowing the girder to be swung less than six feet above a studio floor.

Another of the same size depicts a liner floundering in a storm at sea while its wireless crackles an SOS and flashes of lightning illuminate a storm-swept sky. Anyone sticking his hand into the sea will get it wet also, to the wrist before touching bottom.

Hordes of Geese Invade Tule Lake

Impelled by heavy storms in the north during the past few days, great armies of speckled breast and Brant geese have waged their way from northern climes into the Klamath basin.

Vanguard of the main flight arrived early Saturday evening, their clarion cries bringing word of the huge invasion of migratory birds to come.

Throughout Saturday night the flight continued and continued Sunday morning.

Late Sunday afternoon, the flight resumed and continued during Sunday evening.

For the most part, the birds stopped off in Tule lake where, already, there were thousands of birds there.

Dean Arrested on Serious Charge

Charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated, L. G. Dean was lodged in the city jail Saturday night. His trial has been set for Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Dean was arrested by Keith Ambrose, chief of police on South Sixth street.

Dean's arrest was the second one made by Ambrose on Saturday on the same charge. Earlier in the day Sam Chambers was arrested. He was fined $100 or 50 days in jail. Unable to pay the fine Chambers is serving out a sentence of 50 days in the city jail. His license was suspended for one year.

Keyes Will Plead "Not Guilty" to All Charges Preferred

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12. (UP) District Attorney Asa Keyes and seven others indicted for asserted bribery, will plead not guilty when they appear before Superior Judge Douglas Edmonds to have trial date set, they said today.

Keyes is accused of permitting defendants in various trials to buy dismissals and acquittals.

It was expected that trial would be put over into December, as District Attorney-Elect Buron Fitts, named to prosecute the cases, does not take office until that time.

It was intimated today that Fitts would recommend that the grand jury dismiss the accusation against Keyes charging him with "wilful corruption in office."

The accusation was returned before the indictment and a dismissal would not interfere with prosecution on the indictment. The accusation, it was explained, was brought merely to prevent Keyes from handling the prosecution of his own case and became needless when Attorney General Webb named Fitts to conduct the prosecution.

Those who will appear with Keyes are E. H. Rosenberg, Julian defendant; Jack Rosenberg, his brother; A. I. Lasker, fraud case defendant; Jacob Berman, Julian defendant; Charles Reimer, district attorney's investigator, and Ben and Dave Getzoff, asserted go-betweens in soliciting bribes.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 12. (UP)—Parliament was dissolved by royal decree today and the dates for new elections were announced as Dec. 12 to 19. The new parliament will convene Dec. 22. The order for new elections was one of the demands of Premier Julius Maniu, who formed a new government last week.
