TWO WANERS ARE HOLDOUTS

Dazzy Vance Refuses to Sign Unless He Gets $25,000 a Year

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Feb. 28. (UP)—The two most prominent major league holdouts are the Waner brothers, who are demanding a joint salary of $35,000 from the Pittsburgh Pirates before they sign their 1929 contracts.

All members of the Pirates' squad were ordered to report to Paso Robles, Calif., by today, but the Waners were far away at their homes in Oklahoma, waiting for Pittsburgh to make the next move.

Paul, the elder brother, who was named the most valuable player in the National League in 1927, is demanding $20,000 for his services and Lloyd is asking $15,000. Both must be satisfied before either will sign.

A recent rumor said that the New York Giants had offered $210,000 for the Waners, but it was subsequently denied by both parties.

Pirates or No Play

"The Waners will play with the Pirates or not at all," Sam Dreyfuss, treasurer, is quoted as saying.

Without the Waners the Pirates would be far from a championship contender, but with them they figure to fight it out with the Cubs, Giants and possibly the Cardinals for the pennant.

Vance Wants $25,000

With Mickey Cochrane in the Athletics' fold, the American Leagues' holdout appears to be Alvin Crowder, star right-hander of the St. Louis Browns, who has not reported at West Palm Beach. Crowder was the leading pitcher in the junior circuit last season, turning in 21 victories and losing only five games.

The Brooklyn Robins have a pair of stars, Dazzy Vance and Doug McQueeny, who are balking over the contracts offered them. Vance is asking for a new contract at $25,000 a season, and he is quite likely to get it.

Three Senators Unsigned

Four members of the Cincinnati Reds are labeled as holdouts. They are Val Picinich and Hugh McMullen, catchers; Charles Dressen, third baseman, and Jakie May, pitcher.

Addie Joss, the Senators' promising rookie pitcher, has signed his contract, leaving only three Washington players unsigned. They include Minter C. Hayes, Fred Marberry and Sam Jones. Clark Griffith has sent an ultimatum to Hayes, the Minneapolis youngster who is slated to take Bucky Harris' place at second base, that he will either sign at the terms offered him or not at all.

Among the Boston Braves' missing members are Joe Dugan, the veteran third baseman bought from the Yankees; Bruce Cunningham, brilliant pitching prospect from the Los Angeles Pacific Coast club, and George Harper, veteran outfielder obtained from the Cardinals.

Loughran, Walker Bout Undecided

CHICAGO, Feb. 28. (UP)—Promoter Paddy Harmon's plans to hold a light heavyweight championship bout between Champion Tommy Loughran and Mickey Walker here late next month still were up in the air tonight.

The Illinois boxing commission has demanded that Walker post a forfeit guaranteeing he will defend his middleweight championship after the bout with Loughran.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 28. (UP)—Many men have had their eyes on Jack Dempsey—not excepting that near-sighted early morning prowler with the celluloid collar and the happily bad air—since the former heavyweight champion took up the task of putting over the Sharkey-Stribling fight.

They have watched Jack, studying him from a little distance as he moved through the admiring throngs in the streets, as he sits in his office in the role of business man and as he balances tea cups and rakes in some of the rather more exclusive homes of Miami Beach.

Rush For Jack Now

And now the rush for Dempsey's services is on. Any doubt that may have been entertained regarding his making good in his first important venture as a promoter has been swept away.

Jack Dempsey, who went into this spectacle sporting affair with but one thought, to carry on for Tex Rickard, comes out of it a much sought after young man.

Fugazy Has Coin

There is Humbert J. Fugazy, who recently obtained new backing that has all the rustle of real U. S. currency, here with a certified check a foot long to bind the ex-champion to return to the ring and fight some time next September.

There is Floyd Fitzsimmons, who wants Dempsey in Detroit in the role of promoter. This proposition involves horse racing, prize fighting and other sports, designed to make Detroit the sporting center of the middle-west.

Offer From Coast

Then there is something doing on the far coast in a big way, if Jack cares to consider it, and the ex-champion is going out that way shortly to look into the proposition.

These offers, and half a dozen more of consequence, are based on what Dempsey accomplished here at Miami Beach.

There is one corporation which has been quietly studying Jack Dempsey which has not yet put in its bid. In the final analysis it would not be surprising if that corporation won out. For when it talks money, it talks its own and in no mean terms.

Jack Undecided

W. F. Carey, vice president of Madison Square Garden, and its next head, has been observing the ex-champion at close range, and "Bill" is completely "sold" on Jack.

Dempsey himself is uncertain as to what he will do. He may decide to fight, even if that one more battle would not do him any good.

Olympic Star in Trouble After Alleged Words

NEW YORK, Feb. 28. (UP)—Ray Barbuti, former Syracuse football star and outstanding hero of the United States Olympic team at the Amsterdam games, was suspended from competition in amateur circles by the registration committee of the A. A. U. today until he proves or retracts statements attributed to him in today's newspapers.

Leaving the offices of the A. A. U. last night after being cleared of charges of failing to appear for the New York A. C. games, Barbuti told a group of newspapermen that he was tired of running for nothing and allowing track officials to line their pockets with money.

Nurmi Wants to Race in America

NEW YORK, Feb. 28. (UP)—Paavo Nurmi is anxious to get back in the good graces of the A. A. U. and continue his track career in this country, he announced today through his adviser, Hugo Quist.

Quist said that Nurmi would be glad to run an exhibition race in the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. meet here Saturday night if the A. A. U. reinstated him. There is no indication, however, that Nurmi's suspension will be lifted until thorough investigation of his case has been made.

Nurmi claims he was too ill to run in the national championships last Saturday.

HORSBY SWATS BALL

AVALON, Catalina Island, Cal., Feb. 28. (UP)—Two hard workouts today produced stiffness and sore muscles among the Chicago Cubs' baseball team, training here.

The sessions were confined to batting and fielding, some of the late arrivals displaying excellent condition. Woody English did some fast work in the infield. Hornsby continued to swat the ball to far corners and looked peppy around second base.

LISKA COMPLIMENTED

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 28. (UP)—One hour under the hot Florida sun was enough for the advance squad of the Washington Senators here today. Al Liska, 22-year-old recruit pitcher from Minneapolis, drew favorable comment from Manager Walter Johnson in his initial workout.

LINDSTROM JOINS GIANTS

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 28. (UP)—Freddy Lindstrom joined the ranks of the Giants here today, but did not indulge in a strenuous workout, playing but one inning in the practice game in which the regulars defeated the scrubs, 10 to 5.

Johnny C. Toole, League President, Dies of Influenza

NEW YORK, Feb. 28. (UP)—Johnny Conway Toole, president of the International League and the center of innumerable baseball controversies, died of influenza at his home here today after an illness of 10 days.

Toole had been connected with baseball nearly all his life. As a youth he worked as an umpire but later deserted the mask and protector to study law.

He again became connected with the game as attorney for the Boston Braves and later for the National League. In the latter capacity he was closely associated with the activities of the major leagues and took part in several historic baseball transactions. He represented the league in its fight against the old Federal League.

His election as president of the International League came in 1926, shortly after the organization of that circuit, and although his regime was a storm one, he kept his chair for nine years.

Toole was an opponent of the draft and led many battles against the major league's program of selection of minor league stars.

Tiger Purchase Wants Part of Pay

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 28. (UP)—Word was received at the Detroit Tigers' camp today that Roy Johnson, young outfielder purchased from the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast League, was dickering with the coast team for a part of his $70,000 purchase price, threatening not to report to the Tigers for training.

Manager Harris refused to comment on the matter tonight, although he intimated he believed Johnson would arrive ready to participate here Sunday with the rest of the Tiger squad.

TELEPHONE CO. ISSUES BOOKS

New Directory Is Largest Ever Used in City: 2,975 Names

With the largest issue in the history of the Klamath office, the semi-annual telephone directory of this city will be mailed today to every telephone patron in the city and suburbs, it was announced yesterday by F. L. Crittenden, manager.

Forty-six hundred copies have been printed by the W. O. Smith Printing company, Fifth and Klamath avenue, as against 4400 for the last issue of August 1. Not only will the books be distributed in this city and environs, but also to many business houses up and down the coast which have sent inquiries for them.

Mr. Crittenden said that because of the rapid increase in population in Klamath Falls and because of the necessary revising and rearranging necessarily attendant on such growth, that a number of telephone numbers had to be changed. Purposely most changes had been withheld until the new directory was ready for publication.

The telephone manager requested that all subscribers who do not receive their telephone book before Monday, should call the telephone office.

The last issue of phone directories revealed that there were 2705 telephone patrons. Today's issue shows 2975.

The two soloists of the production were Mrs. Homstad, who sang a Spanish number during the Spanish dance, and Miss Margaret Bowness, who sang "Jeanline" as the old-fashioned maids danced.

The high school band played a number of selections during the evening. The comedy was given by the Lions' club to raise money to furnish the boys with uniforms. The presence of the band at the show was one of its few appearances in public this year, but many were the compliments which were heard throughout the audience as the boys fulfilled their part of the program under the direction of their leader, Mr. Derry.

The Klamath Furniture company loaned the furniture used in the production, and Mrs. L. L. Hendricks made the artificial flowers used for stage decorations.

Between the first and second acts, Madame Rosalie Zura of Chicago, to whose credit must go the skill and patience of producing the comedy and handling the large cast, was introduced to the audience.

The final appearances of the comedy will be this evening at the high school, with the curtain rising at 8:15.

Answer This One, Will You? Sam Love Tells All About New International Language Idea

BY SAM LOVE

NEW YORK, Feb. 28. (UP)—"Ag wela rudse ur rufse?"

If someone should stop you and ask you that, it isn't a hangover from Dr. H. Mansfield Robinson's recent unfortunate attempts to communicate with his sweetheart, Miss Oomarum of Mars, but merely a polite family question in Ro, the newest "international language."

The party would be inquiring, "and is it a boy or a girl?"

Through a thoughtful bequest of $500 by the late Frederic Spencer, president of the National Flax company of Cincinnati, Ohio, Ro has been put on its feet as a language and can now compete with Esperanto and Volapuek.

Its originator, the Rev. Edward Powell Foster, A. M., of Waverly, W. Va., has sunk the bequest into a dictionary of Ro, offering for the first time in a reasonably complete form the new language to the world. Unfortunately, however, the Rev. Mr. Foster's dictionary is a Ro-English dictionary instead of being an English-Ro dictionary, and while it is being hailed with delight by Rosians all over the country as just what they were waiting for, it has one slight drawback for English speakers who wish to translate their thoughts into Ro.

Unless they know their Ro words first, it is just a matter of pure luck ever finding the English equivalents in the new Ro dictionary. It is, however, a veritable mpal (compendium) of information for any Rosian who wants to learn English.

In case a Rosian gets to thinking about dukar, and wondering what on earth English-speaking peoples say when they want to say "dukar," he has only to turn to page 56, under the "D" and find out. He will find that dukar means "abode," a very useful bit of knowledge, especially in the building trade in Arizona.

Or suppose a Rosian has a pain in his pemsa and his doctor speaks only English. Equipped with the new dictionary, the physician could ascertain in a moment that the pain was in the stomach. If it had been in his appendix, the Rosian would have moaned, not "pemsa" but "posak."

Foster has done a lot of compromising in inventing Ro words and some of them, with widely different meanings, are perilously close together in sound and spelling. A Ro translator, for instance, might buy a refle in ordering potlax (lemonade) and find himself popshed, or pickled, on popdap (champagne) before he noticed the mistake. Also with a bad phone connection, a Rosian might order a pilsab (permanent) and find himself billed for plorem tumbulmus or a phrase reckon chairs for which he had no earthly use.

But the fun Mr. Foster fears none of these things for his language, which he hopes will eventually spread all over the world and usher in an era of universal peace, the Ro word for which eludes the supreme linguists at the moment. The originator has been working on the words and grammatical scheme for nearly a quarter of a century. He was recently encouraged by an unsolicited contribution of $100 from Vice President Charles G. Dawes, who smokes a Ro pipe.
