BIBLE SELECTION AND PRAYER

March 1, 1929
GOD'S PLEDGE—Therefore now amend your ways and your doings, and obey the voice of the Lord your God; and the Lord will repent him of the evil that he hath pronounced against you.—Jeremiah 26:13.
PRAYER—God be merciful unto me and to all the people of our land.

"NOBODY SHOT ME"

One of the seven men executed by a gangster's firing squad in Chicago the other day did not die instantly. While life was still in him, the police questioned him in the hope of identifying the murderers.

"Who shot you?" asked an officer, bending over the dying man.
"Shot me?" he repeated.
"Why—nobody shot me."

There were ten bullets in his body at the time.
Right there you have the explanation for the power of the gangs. Their victims fear them too much to talk. Their power is greater than the police power. That is why known criminals walk the streets without being arrested. The police may know that they are guilty of a score of crimes; but they cannot get witnesses to convict them.

FREEDOM OF THE SEAS

There is a great deal of sound sense in Senator Borah's proposal that the United States and England make a sincere effort to get together on the much-discussed "freedom of the seas" issue.

Throughout all their history the two nations have held differing views on the subject. Once—during the American Civil war—they reversed themselves, the English adopting the traditional American attitude, and the Americans taking the time-honored British attitude. But always they have looked at the thing from opposing viewpoints.

There is a good deal to be said for the senator's suggestion that if this question can be disposed of by diplomatic agreement, we have small need of any more cruisers, while if it cannot we shall need many more than a mere 15. The thing is worth looking into, at any rate.

Why does the Senate consider an appointment in secret session?

"Men love darkness rather than light because their deeds are evil."

March of Events

Copyright, 1929, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

TROTZKY, telling Mr. Ochs at considerable length just what happened to him, describes his downfall and exile as "a marche des evenements." "The march of events."

TROTZKY couldn't hold his place because he lacked strength to hold it. Had power-fun Lenin lived, he would have held power, and Trotsky in Lenin's shadow would have continued to direct the Russian army, which he did admirably.

TROTZKY's statement that Stalin and other Russian leaders that exiled him and his friends are leaning "to the right," that is, toward conservatism and capitalism, will interest America's conservative government.

Stalin, intelligent Russian, knows that power without money is a shadow, so he leans in the direction of money.

REVELATION of a war agreement between France and Belgium disturbs the innocent British, but it doesn't disturb this country.

We are willing to put our fingers in the crack of any door, trusting to providence to prevent the door suddenly closing.

THE Germans are excited about the French-Belgian war pact, that, according to Rumor, would compel either of the two nations to join the other in any fight against Germany.

This interesting revelation should convince our government that George Washington knew what he was talking about when he advised the United States to keep out of Europe's affairs.

THE French have discovered an oil trust, with Britain and the United States combining to control oil producing fields all over the world, to the detriment of France.

American oil stock and oil well owners would like to know where that trust, and why it doesn't do something to prevent the squandering of oil.

DEATHS

PAUL WAYNE TAYLOR
Friends are respectfully invited to attend the funeral services for Paul Wayne, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Taylor, to be held Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Bohemian hall at Main, with Rev. Joseph Mikovsky officiating. Interment will be made in the family plot in the Main cemetery.

The remains are in the Pink room of the Earl Whitlock Funeral Home, Pine avenue at Sixth, where friends may call until Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.

JERRY SIECK
Jerry Sieck, a resident of Klamath Falls for the past twenty years, was called to rest on Sunday morning, February 24, 1929, at the age of 77 years.

Besides his many friends he leaves to mourn his passing a widow, Frances Sieck.
Mr. Sieck was born in Germany, April 4, 1851. He came to the United States before his eighteenth birthday and settled in South Dakota near the town of Chamberlain. He resided there on a farm for more than 40 years, sold his farm and went to southern California, where he remained only one winter. He then went to Seattle where he met an old acquaintance from South Dakota. The two went into the hardware business in Seattle. Dissolving of his interest to his partner, he returned to California. His next move was to Klamath Falls where he purchased a number of lots, built homes on them, one of which he made his own. Thirteen years ago he went to California and was married, returning to Klamath Falls. The family home was at 1529 Sargent avenue. Funeral services were held from the Earl Whitlock funeral home under the direction of the First Church of Christ, Scientists. Services were read by Mrs. L. Jacobs. Interment followed in the family plot in Mainville cemetery.

If a prohibitionist will invent some method by which the modern girl can drink water in the same condition of nakedness as the bathos in it, perhaps prohibition will make great gains.

A widespread outbreak of smallpox adds to China's other troubles. The Chinese, more intelligent than some Americans, appreciate the importance of vaccination, and have designated March 1, as "national vaccination day." Ignorance still opposes vaccination in spite of the fact that what was once the most dreaded disease has ceased to be important in civilized countries.

WHEN Voltaire's friend, Catherine of Russia was inoculated with vaccine from the arm of a little boy and created that boy "duke of smallpox" every other face was afflicted by smallpox marks. If smallpox deaths were now what they were then, a city like Chicago would be fortunate if it escaped with 50,000 deaths from smallpox a year.

M. N. Nichols, Kansas City real estate man, said he would be willing to buy a picture by Leonardo Da Vinci, if certain of its genuineness, or do anything else in reason to help the city, of which he is so proud.

Kansas City almost bought a Leonardo Da Vinci, that, according to Sir Joseph Duveen, Leonardo himself never saw.

FORTUNATELY, Kansas City can struggle along without the help of Leonardo as long as factories develop, real estate goes up in value and tuckers houses operate.

OLD Colonel Coates who built a first-class hotel in Kansas City more than half a century ago, the Dickey brothers that drove their big bunches of steers to the Kansas City stockyards, and the boats that stopped at Kansas City's landing on the way to St. Louis and New Orleans, did more for Kansas City than could be done by all the painters that ever lived.

First wealth, then at your leisure, and no hurry about it, art.

THE Tampa Daily Times, cheerful about big Florida state, announces already 35,000 solid carloads of fruits and vegetables have been shipped north, and that is less than half the season's crop.

The shipments include more than 31,000 carloads of citrus fruits.

CARL FISHER, who has done a great deal for Florida, arrives from Miami that crowds there at hotels, in private homes and on houseboats, have never been so great in Florida's history. The stream of automobiles flowing south compares with the flocks of carrier pigeons that once darkened the sky.

Lindy May Marry Anne Soon, Word

smiled confidently as Lindbergh assisted her from the craft.

One-Arm Pilot
Lindbergh and his fiancée may make another flight tomorrow, if the weather is successful. The pilot was said to make good use of only one arm in piloting. Officials said Lindbergh's handling of the plane this morning when his right arm was in a sling was "extraordinary," especially as he taxied along the ground twice and took off before finally landing.

"Any Time Now"
Friends of the Morrow family said they would not be surprised if the ambassador's daughter and Lindbergh were "married any time now," although it has been announced that proper announcement of the wedding will be made. Both Ambassador Morrow and Lindbergh are well known for their sudden decisions and, their friends say, the real delay in divulging plans for the ceremony is due to a discussion of whether the wedding should be held in the capital or at the Morrow home at Chermavaca.

Lindbergh, it is understood, has expressed his willingness to leave the plans entirely to his fiancée and her family.

Lindy Shows Gallantry
No trace of the right wheel of the plane in which the couple crashed yesterday had been found today, although a few more details of the mishap were learned. Lindbergh, it was said, told Miss Morrow to sit in the rear of the car, surrounding her with pillows, as he attempted to land the plane on one wheel. His action probably saved her from injury, officials said, although his great skill in handling the plane probably prevented greater damage when it turned over after running about 30 yards on the landing field.

The March Wind
Oh! March is so full of curious days,
And the wind is so full of play,
That our hearts are gladdened upon the coming
Of each approaching day.

March winds that toss their laughter through
The hills and o'er the sea,
Carve our cheeks and lead into our hearts
Sweet songs of this.

Tell us your secrets 'er we must live in vain,
Blow gently past, and whisper in our ears
Your own refrain.

The children dance when 'er you pass
Their hats on high,
And sing with glee when you but soar
Their kites up to the sky.

We know when March is here,
It's all because of you,
And because of the wonderful sunsets,
With a glorious golden hue.

You sing your songs to everyone
If he but cares to hear;
You tell us many wondrous things
And one is—spring is near!

It's a good plan to hope for the best,
But it's a better plan to work for it.

"Abe," said Mrs. Cohen, "I was looking at the nicest bedroom suite today, and would you believe it, it only cost ten hundred and ninety-five dollars!"

"Vat!" exclaimed Cohen, "a hundred and ninety-five dollars for a bedroom suit. Don't buy it. I can vary my old pajamas."

To Keep You Guessing
Read these riddles aloud to the family, withholding the answer, and see how many can guess them.

What is well handled? The pump.

What is a cultivated ear? An ear of corn.

How can you grow fat? Breed hogs.

What is the worst kind of sleep? Gossiping.

What is a trimming store? The barber shop.

Where do you go to recover yourself? To the tailor shop.

Do you know how to make a dollar sick? Grease it.

If an ice wagon weighs 450 pounds, what will the ice man weigh? Ice.

What ship hardly ever sails out of sight? Hardship.

Hardy's Trial in Senate March 18

sented by the assembly board of managers was the inference that Judge Hardy helped make a "circum" of the trial of William Edward Hickman, hanged several months ago for the murder of Marion Parker, by passing out tickets for admission to the court room.

This was contrary to a constitutional provision, bringing "disrepute, obliquity and dishonor to the superior court of California," the managers said.

Intimidation Charged
Another article contended that the judge attempted to influence Los Angeles county grand jurors who were investigating the alleged kidnapping and reappearance of the revivalist in 1926. He attempted to create public opinion favorable to the evangelist. It continued, through the radio and public platform.

Intimidation of a newspaperman who had claimed he particularly identified a woman in an automobile with Kenneth G. Ormiston as Mrs. McPherson after she disappeared from Ocean Park was charged in another clause. The managers asserted the judge told the jury that a "mistake in identification might make you liable for damages at any time during the rest of your life."

Blame for Advice
The first clause blamed the judge for furnishing legal advice to Mrs. McPherson, his mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, and their intermarriage, Angeles Temple, from February, 1923, until April, 1927.

That he received a check from Mrs. McPherson and her mother for $2500 for legal advice during the grand jury investigation, and acted as counsel for attorneys and witnesses for Mrs. McPherson, was the other paragraph of the impeachment papers.

It was always darkest before the dawn, as he attempted to land the plane on one wheel. His action probably saved her from injury, officials said, although his great skill in handling the plane probably prevented greater damage when it turned over after running about 30 yards on the landing field.

Just Ramblin' Around

The question is are there angels in the city of angels? Has Los Angeles lost the "pep" which made her famous?

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21. (By Mail)—Bucky is the city of angels. Ha, angels did I say? Take a look at the people on the streets and in the cafes and you still see more misfits than you can count. Nothing angelic about them. The herd is wearing clothes of last year's model. They are eating at cafeterias, and they are showing no prosperity.

Los Angeles has lost her lark. The "bell-roaring playground" is still here but the people are not playing. The night-seeing horses have few passengers; the town lot barker's voice is stifled; the path to quick and easy riches has been closed, to all appearances.

Of course this is the biggest thing in the shape of a town in the west and it probably will be the second largest city in the nation eventually. Some no doubt are prospering heavily, but the great masses do not show it. Los Angeles is rapidly becoming a work city, where, like old John Smith "the who does not work shall not eat."

RECENTLY the city completed a fine bridge over the Los Angeles "river." As one of the lights for us "books" from the country we are now shown this magnificent bridge. It is a good piece of engineering, but when you look down from the center of the bridge and ask where the river might be, you are told that the river wouldn't water one band of sheep. It is a little streamy stream (flowing in a way through sand and gravel; and yet these people call it a river. Such ignorance is excusable, however, when one thinks of their living in this desert for so many years and never knowing what an invoice of heavenly dew really means. The Klamath river would explain this Los Angeles river and never know it except for the endeavor the Klamath river would exert in getting rid of the muddy globules which no self-respecting mountain stream would tolerate.

YES, our season is very good—it is really delightful, said one old sardine who evidently had been taught like a parrot to ever make such remarks. At the same time he uttered those words he stood shivering worse than a coyote crossing the Fort Klamath meadows when two feet of snow is on the ground. He was shivering—"I'll say he was, for the nights are cold, the air is filled with dust. People go around barking and sniffling like a district school hit square in the face by the influenza epidemic. Yet they are taught to say it is fine and they say it."

A LADY from the middle states is out here trying to sell a tract of land she bought ten years ago. She has paid taxes all of this time. The neighboring land has been improved. She cannot get an offer that will let her out even.

I AM going over to Yuma and Phoenix soon with Joe Richardson and Bob Coyne just to see what brand of sunshine they have in Arizona.

WANT a minute, I am looking out the corner window of the tenth floor in Harvard hotel. The air is thick, resembling a dust storm off of Lake Lake, but down on the street a newsboy is screaming, "The sun will shine brightly in another hour." Can you beat that for boosting?

SEE CAROL WINS
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 28. (UPI)—Sue Carol, film actress, can work for any company she wants to. Superior Judge Rums decided today in the suit brought against her by Douglas MacLean Production, MacLean held that four years of a five-year contract remained. Miss Carol said she failed to give her the required notification of continuance at the end of the last six month period.

LYN LARY SHORTEST
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 28. (UPI)—Miller Huggins devoted most of his attention to the left side of the Yankee infield today with Mark Koenig at third base and Lyn Lary, the young Coast leaguer, at shortstop. Huggins made clear, however, he was not certain this combination would start in the training games.

It's always darkest before the dawn.

TODAY IN KLAMATH'S THEATRES

At the Liberty

The question that probably came to the mind of every person who saw Tom Mix's latest thriller "Sky High," at the Liberty theatre last night was "If he's still alive, why and how come?" Mix must have more lives than the time-honored cat to do the stunts he does and come up smiling and handsome every time for a new picture.

"Sky High" is billed as a thrilling story of the Grand Canyon of Arizona. It certainly is that. What is more, it is blessed with an eminently satisfactory cast.

At the Pine Tree

An unequal duel in which Ricardo Cortez, the hero of "The Gun Runner," has only a broom with which to parry an army of officer's sharp blades, furnishes one of the exciting scenes which all but bring cheers from the audience at the Pine Tree theatre during the present bill. The duel remains a duel for only a few moments, for the officer is joined by several fellow officers and Cortez has to use his feet and the furniture to help fight them off.

At the Pelican

Discovered—something new in screen villains.

In "The Wind," Lillian Gish's new picture, which is playing at the Pelican theatre today, there is a human villain—but he is really an assistant villain, for the real menace is a natural element—the incessant windstorms of the southwest desert country.

The entire plot hinges on the wind. It's steady menace breaks down the soul of the heroine of the play, gradually wrecks her morale, as it destroys her beauty, and almost drives her mad. How its steady moan reduces everything within it, men and women, even animals, to the most primitive passions, is the central theme of the strange story, adapted to the screen from "Dorothy Scarborough's" famous novel, and directed by Victor Sjöström.

The company filmed the story on the Mojave desert, where the heat sometimes reached the intolerable intensity of 135 degrees, and worked in the face of sandstorms created by artificial means with huge fans.
