

SANDWICH MYSTERY SOLVED, DOG HOME

Scotty's Pup Wanders Back. Proprietor of Pelican Lunch Exonerated. News to Aid Public Causes.

By Zeke Squeak
CHILOQUIN, May 20. (Special)—Thanks to the quick results obtained through advertising most anything in the Daily News, coupled with the astute work of George B. McNabb, of the I-Got-Me-Eye-On-'Em detective agency here, the big sandwich mystery has been solved with the satisfaction of residents on both sides of Chocktoot street, including T. H. and Markwardt, brothers, of the Chiloquin garage.

THE fact that Scotty Cruickshank's pet dog Moses returned home Sunday morning under its own power was also a big factor in unscrambling the mystery.

THIS happy ending exonerates Riley Nicewarmer of the Pelican Lunch from all blame in the matter. Riley says he is in hopes that in the future, Chiloquin people will not be so quick to jump to conclusions every time a black dog wanders away from home in search of a good meal. In a statement to a group of News reporters, Riley had the following to say yesterday:

"Boys," he says, "as owner and chef in charge of the morning shift of the Pelican Lunch, I have been maliciously persecuted ever since I first started peeling potatoes in Chiloquin.

"This evil propaganda has been freely spread around by both white and Chinese cooks who are evidently jealous because I handle a better grade of hot cakes than is dished out over the general run of eating house counters up and down the valley.

"ONE of the most cruel and untruthful lies that has yet been told about me is to the effect that I do not eat my own cooking, but board at the Greek's, two doors down.

"Now, this is genuine slander and harmful to my spotless, snow-white reputation. However, it is but a sample of the many things which men like me, who keep constantly in the public eye, must continue to suffer."

WITH the big Chiloquin sandwich mystery solved to the satisfaction of all our customers, the Daily News hereafter is going to assume a different policy.

THIS paper is going to do a good turn for one of the neighbors one day and brag about it liberally for three days afterward.

THE method has been tried out for years by the big Hearst papers, the Cleveland Plain Dealer, the Philadelphia Inquirer and a few others of the 22 straggleing dailies mentioned in each paragraph of the Literary Digest, and found to work fine.

The boys have outdistanced the girls so far in the contest, but with five days left and with Maxine Carson in seventh place some of the boys may get real competition for the eight cash prizes which are to be awarded next Monday at the theater party. The winner's name is slated for Wednesday night at 7:30, place to be posted at contest headquarters.

Spokane Officers Arrest Goodrich

Charge of Polygamy Faces Former Klamath Falls Business Man Now Held.

Deputy Sheriff Ross H. Brown left last night for Spokane, Washington, to return D. J. Good, alias E. J. Goodrich, to Klamath county to face a charge of polygamy filed May 7, but kept secret until yesterday, when Goodrich was apprehended in Spokane.

The complaint, signed by D. V. Haight and Frank L. Wemet, charges that D. J. Good, alias E. J. Goodrich, unlawfully lived with a Klamath Falls woman as her husband when he already had one wife living in Montana. Haight is pastor of the First Presbyterian church here and Wemet is pastor of the First Methodist church.

It is stated that Goodrich married the Klamath Falls woman giving the impression that he was unmarried when he had not yet secured a divorce from Mrs. D. J. Good, who lives in Montana. Goodrich is said to have secured a divorce from Mrs. Good under the name of Goodrich and that because of the assumed name, the divorce is not legal.

Goodrich came to Klamath Falls late last summer. He directed a drive for charitable organization and secured a large amount of funds. He was engaged in the real estate business. (Continued on Page Two)

Poisoning for Gophers Is Urged

The orderly poisoning of pocket gophers in fall is always urged by the biological survey of the United States department of agriculture, but there is need also for supplementary work in spring, especially in alfalfa fields and grass lands. Conditions in many regions infested by pocket gophers are favorable for poisoning operations in April and May. It is not so easy to find the runways in spring as in fall, because there may be little or no evidence of new mounds in many of the systems. One thorough systematic treatment of all systems, old and new, in spring, should result in killing 95 to 100 per cent of all pocket gophers in any particular field. It is especially worth while to go to the trouble of spring poisoning in cases where nothing was done the previous fall.

SHANGHAI, May 20 (UP)—The capture of the important city of Canton by the Kwangsi rebel army and the concentration of troops by Marshal Feng Yih Siang at Chengchow marked the rapid development of the Chinese military struggle today.

BOY SHOTS ANOTHER FOR LOVE OF GIRL

PORTLAND, Ore., May 20. (U. P.)—Jealousy over attentions of a high school girl caused Walter Finke, 19, to shoot and kill Herbert Beem, 17, at Jefferson high school here today and then turn the gun on himself and inflict what may be a fatal wound.

Finke, who dropped out of Benson Polytechnic school following asserted scholastic difficulties, shot Beem three times in a hallway of the school in the presence of Mildred Knott, 16. It was believed Finke whipped out his revolver when he became convinced that Beem was the youth who had supplanted him in the girl's affections.

Finke had been told by Mildred's mother many months ago to remain away from the girl unless he "straightened out and went to school."

President Hoover is expected to call the commission together here soon to discuss its work, which it is expected will take a year or more. An appropriation of $250,000 was made by congress at its last session to cover expenses of the inquiry. Members will get no salaries, but will receive per diem expenses. The commission, itself, is not provided for by law, and has no legal standing. It will make its report to the president upon completion of its survey. The president is expected to transmit the report to congress.

WEATHER FORECAST

Oregon: Cloudy on the coast, and generally fair and warm over the interior Tuesday and Wednesday. Northerly winds on the coast.

While admittedly weak, the general market up to the middle of last week was not enough out of balance but that a move such as the mills are now taking should very quickly bring about a transformation. Inquiry department. (Continued on Page Two)
