

ED DUDLEY TAKES FIRST IN L. A. OPEN

Passes Leaders in World of Golf and Wins First Big Title

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

WILSHIRE COUNTY CLUB, Los Angeles, Jan. 12 (UP)—Ed Dudley, who had never seen Ed Dudley of Wilmington, Del., win a major championship until today when the husky, black-haired professional came blazing down the fairways in a whirlwind finish to win the sixth annual $10,000 Los Angeles open tournament with a 72 hole total of 285 strokes.

Never one of the leaders until he started the fourth round, Dudley played his final 18 holes in 48, one under par and one score of the three day tournament to capture first prize money of $3,000.

WORKED WAY UP
Almost unnoticed back in the field at the end of the first round, Dudley gradually worked his way up into a contending position at the end of the third round this morning by playing consistent golf.

At the end of the first 18 holes Saturday, Dudley was tied for 14 place with seven others, each with 72. He shot a 73 on his second round Sunday and reached the half way mark in a tie for eleventh place with Harry Cooper, George Von Elm and Al Watrous, each with 145.

IN FIFTH FRIDAY
The end of the third round this morning the big, swaggering Wilmington boy tied with Craig Wood, Walter Hagen and George Von Elm for fifth place, each with 217. Starting out on his final 18 holes, Dudley was five strokes behind Leo Diegel, who had forged into the lead at 54 holes with 212. No one even considered the possibility of Dudley challenging the leaders, much less winning the tournament. He was just big old, good-natured Ed who always lacked the final punch to sweep on to the golfing glory.

PASSES LEADERS
Imagining the embarrassment of Diegel, Eddie Looe, Al Espinosa, Frank Walsh and the other leaders, and the crowd of 6,000 who had never seen or heard of Dudley putting on a fighting finish, when he steadily crept up, hole after hole on the fore-runners.

On the first nine of his final round Dudley had two birdies and rounded the turn in 35. For the first five holes of his last nine, Dudley did the shooting that won him the tournament. He made birdie threes on each of them, and then finished the last two holes in par fours for a 27.

LEADS, ESPINOSA SECOND
All the while the other leaders were floundering all over the course, Looe and Espinosa, the Chicagoans, who were tied and took throughout the tournament, wound up with 74's for a 287 each to tie for second place. They received $1,512.50 each as prize money.

Diegel, who had a 70-70-72 on his first three rounds and worked his way into the lead at 54 holes with 212, went all to pieces on his last eighteen, and came home with a 77, eight over par. His 72 hole total was 289, which gave him a tie with Craig Wood, Bloomfield, N. J., for sixth place.

DUDLEY GETS $3,000.
Ahead of Diegel and Wood came Frank Walsh, Chicago and Tommy Armour, Detroit in a tie for fourth place, each with 288. Walsh and Armour each received $500 in prize money.

Harry Cooper, Chicago, who won the first Los Angeles open in 1926 with 279, finished in eighth place with 296 strokes.

Walter Hagen, Detroit, and Gene Sarazen, New York, tied for ninth place, each with 291. Roland MacKenzie, Washington, D. C., finished 12th with 295 strokes, and received the silver trophy for low amateur.

Dudley received $2,500. His last two rounds compared with par follow:

First round in morning:
Par 453-244-24 344-354-444-265
Dudley 553-344-445-37 244-263-446-35. Total 72

Afternoon round:
553-444-235-35 344-353-444-33. Total 68.

A new low score for nine holes in Los Angeles open play was made by Jack Rimmer, Jasper Park, Canada, professional, who shot a 31, on the par 35 second nine during the morning. The course which had been lengthened to a par 69 for the last day's play. In playing the second nine in four under par, Rimmer shot four birdies on the twelfth, thirteenth, sixteenth and seventeenth holes.

After shooting his brilliant 31, Rimmer could get only a 70 for the third round and 73 for the fourth round and finished in eleventh place with 292.

M. S. Underwood Passes in City At Advanced Age

Myron S. Underwood, father of Major C. H. Underwood, well known local business man and member of the school board of District No. 2, died here Sunday. The senior Underwood had been a resident of Klamath Falls since last March, at which date he was brought to this city from Seattle by the bereaved son.

Myron S. Underwood was born in Fort Edward, N. Y., June 29, 1849. He moved to Minneapolis, Minn., in 1871 and a year later was attracted to Nevada by gold strikes in that state. Since then he lived in various points in Washington, California, and Idaho. He also spent five years in British Columbia. He was married in San Francisco in 1887. At the time he moved to Vancouver, B. C., 1884, that town was known as Granville and had a population of only about 100 people.

Fight Results

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 12 (UP)—Kara Pascha, 183, Turkish wrestler, defeated Able Coleman, 195, of Portland, two falls out of three here tonight. Coleman was stabbed in the arm by a canvas stretcher when the two fell out of the ring during the first fall and was unable to function thereafter.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (UP)—Jim McMillen and Gino Garibaldi—just a couple of chiropractors who missed their calling—waged a mighty battle tonight for the honor of meeting Jim London a fortnight later for the advertised heavyweight wrestling championship of the world.

McMillen won the mighty battle. The bout tonight was one of the roughest on record, despite the fact that both contestants are college men.

The end came after some 45 minutes of what was scheduled to be a fight to the finish when McMillen discarded what few legitimate wrestling tactics he knew, and resorted to plain and fancy football.

Sharkey Gradually Dempsey Battle, Hurls Charges

BOSTON, Jan. 12 (UP)—An offer to match Jack Sharkey, heavyweight contender, with Jack Dempsey, erstwhile heavyweight champion of the world, was made here tonight by Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager.

In a statement that might be regarded as a challenge, Buckley said:

"Sharkey is ready to fight Dempsey any place within 60 days. Dempsey, in an effort to help his theatrical work, is always telling the world he still can fight."

Buckley declared that the former champion had entered the Schmelzing-Stribling-Carey "hook-up" and was "trying to help sell this hand-picked match (Schmelzing-Stribling) which has been tagged for Chicago."

Only last week, Sharkey announced he was ready to meet Stribling or Schmelzing, and that he would "welcome a meeting" with Primo Carnera if the latter were re-released with the New York State Boxing commission.

ROGERS SEES IMPROVEMENT

Cashier of Klamath Bank Expects Full Recovery By July First

That the gradual relief of the present economic situation is now in progress is the opinion of Leslie Rogers, Klamath Falls banker, who in a special interview with a News reporter said that the financial recovery of the nation is impeded by the mere fact that people hesitate to buy on a falling market.

"People wait for prices to become lower, even though they have decreased enormously," stated Mr. Rogers. "Then when prices rise to the heights, there is a great scramble to buy."

CHANGE GRADUAL
Rogers, a genial man in the early forties, smiled as he seated himself at his desk in an outer office of the main hall of the First National bank. "Then he grew thoughtful. "In my belief," he said, carefully weighing his words, "this community will be definitely on the feet around July of this year. The conditions are beginning to be favorable, and the intelligent cooperation of buyer and seller will, in the not far-distant future, result in an era of prosperity."

"Of course," continued the bank cashier, "a man who has successively weathered many such depressions, 'the change will necessarily be gradual for the simple reason that people are afraid to spend what money they have. On the other hand savings are steadily increasing, and these deposits come from people of moderate means, rather than from the wealthy. The banks have more money than ever before."

HITTERS KLAMATH
Asked if he thought there was cause for any alarm of bank failure, Rogers smiled. "No, indeed," he said. "The recent bank failures have been almost entirely situated in agricultural sections of the Middle West, Iowa, Kansas, and Indiana. Most of these failing banks have been unstable, 10,000 dollar capital affairs, and the bursting of such bubbles has no bearing on the condition of banks in the west, which are now very prosperous."

At the conclusion of the interview Mr. Rogers expressed his belief in the betterment of general conditions in Klamath Falls, which, he said, with its rich resources would lift itself more readily from the depression than most communities of its size.

Saturday Was Coldest Day Of All Season

According to report received yesterday from the government reclamation bureau, the coldest day in Klamath Falls during this month to date was the 16th, when the thermometer registered 7 degrees below zero. January 4 was the warmest day, with 44 degrees registered. December was slightly warmer, with a maximum temperature of 49 degrees and a minimum of 11 degrees. The total precipitation for last month was .927 inches and snowfall was 1.0 of an inch.

During 1930 the maximum temperature of 59 degrees occurred on July 15, while on January 19 the residents of Klamath Falls shivered as the thermometer registered 7 degrees below. The total precipitation for the entire year was only 5.44 inches, and the snowfall totaled 41 inches. The year 1929 was comparatively warmer, the maximum temperature being 53 degrees, with the minimum at zero. Precipitation was 8.56 inches and snowfall was 23 inches, exactly 21 inches less than last year.

Big Valley Nimrods Stage Banquet at Lookout; Elect Officers

LOOKOUT, Calif., Jan. 12—About 150 nimrods of both sexes attended the annual duck banquet at Big Valley branch of the Intermountain Sportsman's association held at the new Bieher hotel at that place Saturday night. In spite of the avowed scarcity of wild ducks in the northern part of the state this season, more than sufficient birds grazed the tables to satisfy the appetites of the assembled guests.

SEVERAL ATTEND
Several representatives from the Fall River branch were in attendance at the meeting and L. C. Henshaw represented the sportsmen of Alturas.

A. C. Bieher acted as toastmaster and among the speakers of the evening were P. R. Cronmiller, Jr., and William S. Brown of the U. S. forest service, G. J. Fulcher of Lookout, Paul Kehre of the fish and game commission, J. J. Potter of Lookout and L. G. Henshaw, president of the Alturas chamber of commerce. The annual banquet of the club is held in alternate years at the towns of Adin, Lookout and Bieher.

ELECT OFFICERS
Officers elected for the ensuing year were E. A. Lakey, president; C. J. Fulcher, secretary; John Keller, treasurer. The affairs of the association, which has gained great strength in this section, are managed by a board of directors consisting of Peter Smelser, Dr. Smalley, Peter E. Gerig, J. J. Potter and Ward

Kramer. It is estimated that approximately 1,000 large male deer bucks are taken annually in the territory covered by this branch of the association.

C. J. Fulcher, secretary of the organization, left immediately after the banquet for Sacramento, where he will represent Modoc and Lassen counties as a member of the fish and game committee of the state chamber of commerce.

BARD HOLLOWAY GINGER TOLLIVER PATTY SEARS

For Ginger's Sake

Ginger Tolliver, vivacious daughter of a small town minister, who seeks to keep life from growing too dull by organizing a night club from which parents, babies and ministers are barred. . . . Bard Holloway, a young artist, who is hobbing through the country in a decrepit auto. . . . Patty Sears, friend of a fellow conspirator in the campaign to alleviate gloom.

These are three of the fascinating characters about whom is woven the plot of a stirring new serial novel, "For Ginger's Sake," written by Ethel Hueston, herself the daughter of a minister. Romance, a kidnapping plot, gay parties and thrills galore combine to make this an outstanding story. Don't miss it, beginning
