ROTARY HEARS J. HAMMOND

Izaak Walton League Head Speaks on Organization at Luncheon

At a meeting of the Rotary club yesterday noon James G. Hammond, national field representative of the Izaak Walton League of America, delivered one of the most interesting talks which the Rotarians had heard in many months and received the unanimous approval of the club members.

Hammond, who was former national secretary of the Izaak Walton League, at Chicago, combined two topics in his speech: That of the Izaak Walton organization which was effected here last night and of the Rotary club. He stressed a broader and better view of Rotary and its principles.

The speaker was introduced by O. D. Matthews, president of the Klamath Sportsmen association. He outlined a clear and interesting account of how the state of Pennsylvania, through reforestation and repopulation of the forest areas, provided eight different game refuges, and through rigid adherence to game laws and sportsmanship on part of the hunters repopulated their forests with an abundance of bird and animal life with the result that that state, which at one time was practically depopulated of game life, is now one of the nation's best game states.

He contrasted Pennsylvania with Indiana where no conservation policy has been in effect and pointed out that Oregon, at the present time recognizes as a paradise for sportsmen, might in a comparatively short time, unless a conservation policy is adopted, become devoid of fish and game.

The speaker denounced game laws who hunt out of season and those who secure more than the limit of birds and animals, and particularly those un-American citizens who hunt without licenses.

Mrs. Hammond, formerly of Rochester, New York, and a writer of prominence also gave a brief address. Mrs. Hammond has written many articles which have appeared in the national Rotary magazine.

President Cliff Dunn announced that since Otto Ellis will be unable to attend Rotary meetings in this city due to his promotion in the Postal Telegraph company, Rod Eller will in the future act as secretary of the club.

Presbyterian Men Form Local Club

The men of the Presbyterian congregation, who recently organized a community club for relaxation and fun as well as interesting study questions of the day in the light of teachings of the Bible, will meet with the Sunday school classes at 9:45 a. m., it was announced yesterday.

E. L. Crumbie was elected temporary president of the group and E. L. Elliott secretary.

Women Hold Gravy Contest

MEMPHIS, (UP)—A contest for gravy artists was held here recently. Competitors were not men who manage to speckle their vests with the liquid, but their wives, who cooked it.

GOLD IN CRAW STARTS HUNT

OKANOGAN, Wash. (UP)—Gold prospectors here armed themselves with axes and advanced on poultry yards after three gold nuggets were found in the craw of a turkey.

Organize Club At Fairhaven School House

A handicraft club was organized at the Fairhaven school on Thursday by C. A. Tomlin and Frank Sexton. This club will make the articles required in Division I of the handicraft project, which deals with the making of small articles for use in and around the home of the club member.

The boys will meet with Mr. Tomlin each week at 7:00 o'clock in the evening, and will do their work in the basement of the Fairhaven school. The room is equipped with work benches and vices, and the boys and Mr. Tomlin will furnish the necessary tools with which to work.

The handicraft project is one of the new projects of 4-H club work, outlined especially for boys who cannot take up the agricultural and livestock work.

Last year ten of the Fairhaven boys completed this project and made exhibits of their work at the county fair. This project gives the rural boy an opportunity to learn the use of tools and how to make practical articles.

The following boys were enrolled in the club: Clifton Ferguson, Albert Schiesel, John Botens, Donald Nesbet, Orville Ohtes, Lane Warren, Jack Ferguson, Virgil Stippich, George Dunfee, Reuben Taffot, James Bushong, Oscar Berglund, Jack Roth, Claude Daniels, Irwin McKinley, Walter Deveraux.
