

IS DWELLING WORTH WORK, MODERNIZING

Consider Neighborhood And Condition of Home For Answer

When is an old home worth modernizing?

This question is asked each year by thousands of home owners who are dissatisfied with their dwellings but hesitate to spend money modernizing them because they feel that perhaps doing so would be foolish from the investment standpoint.

This hesitancy to spend money on an old dwelling is perfectly justified because there are a number of factors which bear upon the advisability of doing so. There is of course no yardstick for measuring the advantages of modernizing an old home, but careful consideration from different angles will give the home owner a reasonably accurate idea of the financial soundness of taking such a step.

YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD
The first question the home owner should ask himself is: "Do I like the neighborhood in which I live?" The answer to this question must include more than mere personal feeling such as sentimental attachment for a familiar neighborhood. For example, is a business district gradually encroaching upon the residential area in which the home is situated? Are other homes in the neighborhood well cared for and will the home owner's modernized dwelling fit into neighborhood surroundings or will it be a swan among ugly ducklings? If the neighborhood measures up to the standards indicated by these questions, the home owner may be assured that modernizing of his dwelling will not only make it a better abode but will be a sound investment, provided of course that the condition of the house itself warrants spending money for improvements.

ASK CONTRACTOR
To decide this question, the home owner will usually find it wise to rely upon the judgment of an experienced, reputable contractor. In the event the home owner is not acquainted with a good contractor, a local lumber dealer will be glad to put him in touch with one.

There are three major items which the contractor must consider in reaching his decision on the advisability of modernizing any home. These are, first, the strength and preservation of the supporting timbers or walls; second, the condition of the foundation and, third, the condition of the roof supports. If the contractor's investigation of these items leads to a favorable decision, the home owner can be certain that an intelligent job of modernizing will not only give him a modern, comfortable home, but also one that will be considerably enhanced in value.

GETTING LOAN
Such a survey of the condition of an old dwelling often makes it possible for the owner to obtain financing help from his local building and loan association. To apply for such help, of course, it will be necessary for him to visualize carefully just what modernizing is planned, how much it will cost and what the result will be. By doing this the owner makes it possible for the loan association to estimate accurately how much the contemplated improvements will increase the home's value and thus decide the amount of the loan the improvement warrants.

Home owners who are dissatisfied with their dwellings will find the present an ideal time for modernizing because good labor is plentiful and building materials are cheaper than they have been for many years.

Izaak Walton Charter Will Be Presented

At a recent meeting of the Klamath chapter of the Izaak Walton League of America plans were outlined for a charter meeting at which time a charter will be presented to the newly organized Klamath group. W. Bohn, A. Edsall and Paul Winters were named to take charge of arrangements. The date has not been set.

Marshall Cornett, president, presided at the meeting and led a discussion on the Tule Lake situation. The secretary was instructed to write to Paul Redington, Chief of the Biological Survey at Washington, D.C., for information. Further discussions of various game problems took place.

AT THE PELICAN

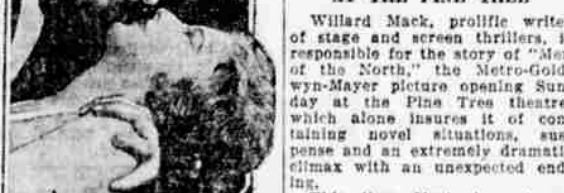

Scene from "The Doorway to Hell" - A Warner Bros. Production

"The Doorway to Hell," newest Warner Bros. and Vitaphone production, comes to the Pelican theatre Sunday for a run of two days, according to the announcement of Manager Harry Poole. This tense and thrilling study of gang psychology was made by Rowland Brown and the crackling underworld dialogue by George Rosner—both adepts in their field. One of the most realistic sequences of the hair-raising melodrama is that in which disgruntled gangsters plot to get their former leader out of jail for the purpose of "giving him the works."

Young Louis Ayres, who burst into full-fledged fame as the hero of "All Quiet on the Western Front," plays the part of the outwardly gentle, but ruthless, king of the underworld. The girl in the case is played by beautiful Dorothy Matthews. Character parts are superbly acted by Charles Ells, Leon Jannet, Robert Elliott, James Cagney, Kenneth Thompson, Jerry Mandy and Noel Madison. Archie Mayo directed.

"The Doorway to Hell" again proves that there is no escape for the wrongdoer. It also shows the courage, thrilling if misguided, which actuates the gangster in lining up to his code. A play to be put on your list is "The Doorway to Hell."

AT THE RAINBOW

BARBARA STANWYCK and ROD LA ROCQUE in a scene from "THE LOCKED DOOR"

Should a wife keep a secret from her husband, no matter how harmless it is?

This hair-raising social question is revived with fresh impetus in "The Locked Door," a stirring all-dialogue photodrama of love and mystery coming Sunday to the Rainbow theatre.

Under the direction of George Fitzmaurice, one of United Artists' able directors, the picture tells in an interesting and entertaining manner the heartaches and tragedies resulting from withholding even the most innocent item from the past.

Headed by an all-star cast composed of Rod La Rocque,

Barbara Stanwyck, the sensational Broadway star of "The Noose" and "Burlesque" and William Boyd, stage star of the original play, "What Price Glory," and Betty Bronson, "The Locked Door" is one of the most noteworthy screen productions presented at the Rainbow theatre for some time.

AT THE PINE TREE
Willard Mack, prolific writer of stage and screen thrillers, is responsible for the story of "Men of the North," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture opening Sunday at the Pine Tree theatre, which alone insures it of containing novel situations, suspense and an extremely dramatic climax with an unexpected ending.

This time Mack has chosen the Canadian Northwest for his locale and has built his narrative around the pursuit of a fugitive from justice by the Mounted Police. Among the unusual details are races on skis and dog-sleds, an exciting fight in a snow-bound cabin and the filming of an avalanche which plays an important part in the outcome of the plot. The picture, which was filmed in the picturesque scenery of the North country.

Heading the cast of the production are Gilbert Roland and Barbara Leonard. Other players include Arnold Korff, Robert Elliott, George Davis, Nena Quartaro and Robert Graves, Jr. The picture was directed by Hal Roach, producer of Laurel-Hardy and "Our Gang" comedies, who deserted the field of laugh-making to show his hand at serious drama.

A distinctive feature of "Men of the North" lies in the fact that it presents an innovation in talkie production, having been filmed simultaneously in five languages, English, French, German, Spanish and Italian. Members of all five casts were instructed as to their dialogue and movements on the set at the same time, through interpreters, and as soon as one cast completed a scene, it was repeated by the remaining casts. Thus when the final scene was completed, five pictures were ready for distribution at the same time, which is the first instance of this sort to have occurred in the film industry.

Better Seeds for Better Garden

NOW is the time to plant FERRY'S SEEDS!

Now is the time to plant your garden. Now is the time to select Ferry's purebred Seeds. Seeds are the most inexpensive, but the most important feature of a successful garden. The soil and your labor represent the much greater investment in time and actual money; but the seeds you choose may mean the margin between success and failure of your efforts.

Ferry's Seeds are purebred. That means generations of seed plants are tested and checked in the Ferry-Morse special seed laboratory fields before any seed grown from a plant is placed on the market. Because of the rigid testing, Ferry-Morse seed specialists know that Ferry's purebred Seeds will grow more successfully in your garden.

That's why Ferry's Seeds protect your labor and your garden investment. They are fresh for planting now. All ready to grow healthful, nourishing vegetables or beautiful, colorful flowers for your home. There's a Ferry Seed Box near you, in your neighborhood store, with a complete assortment of purebred flower and vegetable seeds. . . . Ferry-Morse Seed Co., P. O. Box 2529, San Francisco, Cal.
