

Interesting Pictorial Highlights from Here and There

Where Italian Planes Will Rest

The map shows the location of Lake Geneva, Wis., about 45 miles northwest of Chicago, where 24 Italian seaplanes which will fly from Rome to the World Fair, will anchor tonight. In event of a storm on Lake Michigan they will land on Lake Geneva on arrival. Above, the hotel where the flyers will be quartered. Below, one of 24 boats to which the planes will be anchored.

As Gulf, Mississippi and Lakes Were Joined

The first commercial barge tow to reach Chicago from New Orleans over the newly completed Lakes-to-Gulf waterway is shown above at Michigan avenue in the Chicago River. A celebration marked the opening of the seaway, with War Secretary Dorn, Speaker Hays of the House, and other notables participating.

Kidnaper Hunt Spurred by Reward

Business men of St. Paul, Minn., have offered rewards of $20,000 for apprehension of the kidnapers of William Hamm, Jr., wealthy brewer, shown here, right, as he returned after payment of ransom. He is shaking hands with W. W. Dunn, brewery business manager, who negotiated with the kidnapers.

NICE GAME

Show Girl Now Is Buddhist Nun

Mrs. C. I. Chester, of Los Angeles, shown, a former show girl, has become a Buddhist nun, the second American woman to enter the oriental order. At a simple ordination she received the name of Kwatin, "A Flower in the Tenets." Soon she will leave for Kyoto, Japan, to enter a convent.

We'd probably all be playing tennis if all the women players followed Bonnie Miller's court costume. Miss Miller, runner-up in last year's national junior women's tennis tournament and winner of the U. S. women's western championship matches at Chicago.

Haiti-Bound on Goodwill Flight

Veteran of two Atlantic crossings, the monoplane "Columbia" (lower photo) was pointed toward new honors when the trio pictured above set out aboard her from Fordham Field, New York, on a 2,400-mile non-stop goodwill hop to Port au Prince, Haiti. Pictured just before the take-off are, left to right, Robert G. Lyon, co-pilot; Captain J. E. Boyd, pilot, and Harold P. Davis, writer. The plane, built in 1925, is the one in which Clarence A. Chamberlain flew 2,911 miles non-stop to Emden, Germany, in 1927, and which carried Captain Boyd and Harry G'Connor from Harbor Grace to England in 1929.

Double Chief

They're the same man, above and below. At the top he's a chief of the Smoki Indians, participating in the traditional snake dance. Below he's S. A. Spear, speaker of Arizona's House of Representatives.

Kipling Erred! The Twain DO Meet

Kipling to the contrary, the twain have met, and more than that, they're to be married. After considering the step for three years, Professor Toppas W. Nakarat, 25, Japanese instructor in semantics at Butler University, Indianapolis, Ind., and Miss Frances A. Yorn, 24, librarian at Columbia University, New York, have decided to wed. They are shown in New York as they planned the ceremony.

Paikowski and Szymanski

So, the two fellows above aren't Polish diplomats. They're a couple of Milwaukee boys who made good in sports. Frank's Paikowski, left, is known as Frankie Parker on the tennis court. The gent on the right, Al Szymanski, better known to American League pitchers as Al Simmons, the circuit's leading hitter. They met at an exhibition game the White Sox played in Milwaukee.

Diamond Gleams!

CHARLIE PFIRMAN
IMPIRED 12 YEARS IN THE NATIONAL LEAGUE WITHOUT MISSING A GAME—UNTIL RECENTLY WHEN AN ATTACK OF SOMEPHRE TROUBLE PREVENTED HIM FROM DONNING THE WIND PADD...
1710 CONSECUTIVE GAMES...

JOE PATE
PITCHED IN 47 GAMES IN ONE SEASON (NONE COMPLETE)—YET HE WON NINE AND DIDN'T SUFFER A DEFEAT...
1926

Engineers like the one above furnished most of the millions with which the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers built up a vast financial empire. . . . James H. Cassell, lower left, secretary-treasurer of the brotherhood, and Alvanley Johnston, lower right, its grand chief engineer, arraigned on charges in connection with failure of the Standard Trust Co. . . . the Standard bank and the B. of L. E. building are shown at the right.

Hungarian Beauty to Wed American Sheriff Seized By 'Pretty Boy'

Society circles in the capitals of three countries were stirred with announcement of the engagement of Countess Cornelia Breechenyi (above), daughter of the Hungarian Minister to Great Britain and Countess Szechenyi, to Eugene Roberts of Washington, D. C., Sheriff Jack Killingsworth, above, of Bolivar, Mo., was kidnaped by "Pretty Boy" Floyd, famous southwestern bandit, and carried 600 miles through Missouri as a hostage before being released. This picture was taken when Killingsworth returned to his home.