BATTERY D BACK HOME WITH HONORS

Sixty members and three officers of Battery D, 249th coast artillery, Klamath Falls unit of the national guard, returned Wednesday evening from spending the past two weeks at the annual training camp at Fort Stevens.

The unit marched with trophies won at the annual meet from the S. P. depot to the armory. The guards were escorted by the Sea Scouts.

Officers of the local unit who received five year service medals at camp are Captain D. E. Van Vactor, First Lieutenant T. D. Case; Second Lieutenant Dewey Powell and Sergeant Elroy Call.

The unit returned with the regimental proficiency trophy for the first time. This trophy was given to the most efficient battery during the year. Battery D also regained possession of the Oregonian trophy, given annually to the unit having the most perfect drill attendance during the past year. Klamath won the trophy in 1928, 1929, 1930 and now has possession for the past year.

All of the trophies were awarded at a special ceremony in honor of Major General George A. White who presented the medals and trophies.

The rating of Battery D at camp will not be known until a check is made by the coast artillery board. Captain Van Vactor expressed a certainty the unit would receive the top rating of excellent which it has retained for the past three years.

Full Representation

With the rating of excellent, the guardsmen are each permitted to wear a red E on the sleeve of their uniform signifying their standing.

The unit was represented one hundred per cent at camp and made a better showing than in the past several years, was the statement of Dewey Powell, second lieutenant. He believed the unit was better prepared because of intensive training before going and previous camp life.

Applegate Returns From Botanical Trip

Elmer I. Applegate, acting curator of the Dudley herbarium at Stanford university, has returned from a botanical trip to mountains in Utah and the Rocky mountains in Colorado. While away he made field investigations and collections of special plants, visiting seven states.

Mr. Applegate examined collections of special plants in state universities and agricultural colleges of Utah, Colorado and Wyoming. He stated that he traveled over 3,000 miles without any car trouble, not even a flat tire, and that the trip was exceedingly interesting and profitable, both from a botanical viewpoint and otherwise, especially the Rocky Mountain National park. He also found the roads in general not as good as in the three Pacific states.
