sub-committee on permanent monetary problems.

Held Premature.

It was stated that Senator Pittman of Nevada told the sub-committee that the federal reserve board felt that the resolution was "premature."

Some members of the committee asserted this attitude killed further consideration of Senator Pittman's important resolution calling for, among other things, eventual return to the gold standard, reduction of the gold cover to 25 per cent, and optional use of silver for one-fifth of this cover.

American quarters, however, emphatically denied that the federal reserve board had anything to do with the Pittman resolution, the gold section of which has already been approved by the sub-committee.

Refers to Banks.

The Americans maintained that the federal reserve authorities were referring only to cooperation of central banks as proposed in another resolution offered by a European state a few days ago.

Another startling development was that gold bloc quarters expressed indignation and declared that this attitude brought the conference much nearer a complete standstill. One non-gold country's delegate agreed with this view.

Central bank cooperation was one of three subjects which the bureau, the steering committee, decided yesterday could be usefully discussed without creating dissension. The bureau's decision was the climax of a battle which waged for many days between the gold countries, which wished to eliminate virtually all monetary questions pending dollar

It was understood that between $50,000 and $75,000 in cash is ready if the kidnapers are willing to accept that sum.

Throughout the day, O'Connell aides made periodic visits to Daniel O'Connell's private mail box at the postoffice in the hope the abductors had sent an offer communication. The last word from them was received in a hand printed letter yesterday, instructing Daniel to submit a new list of intermediaries because the original group was unsatisfactory.

Insane Youth Shot at Albany

the sheriff's apartment on the second floor of the Linn county jail here, a man police identified as Frank Stankiewicz, 22, who escaped from the state hospital at Salem Monday, held a large force of state, county and city police at bay for more than five hours last night.

Finally, overcome by the fumes from tear and smoke bombs and by bullet wounds, he was captured early today, then rushed to a hospital where he died ten minutes later.

Crowd Sees Battle

Attracted by repeated volleys of shots, virtually all the residents of this city hurried toward the jail, then sought places of sheltered vantage as they witnessed the strange spectacle before them. State police, hurriedly called from Salem, joined county and city officers in surrounding the jail. A machine gun battle was fought from a tree near the apartment windows. High-powered rifles spat an answer to the occasional bursts of flame as the trapped man fired from the windows of the apartment. Tear and smoke bombs were hurled into the room, but it was five hours before Stankiewicz was overpowered.

Despite the number of persons attracted to the siege, only one was wounded, Harry Anderson of Albany, standing a block away from the jail, was struck in the right knee by a stray bullet. None of the policemen was injured.

Carried Two Guns

Stankiewicz was arrested early last night after he had appeared at the home of J. H. Mulligan, about 3 miles north of Albany, and asked for food. A member of the Mulligan family, his suspicions aroused because the youth was carrying two loaded .22 caliber rifles, phoned the sheriff's office. Stankiewicz quietly submitted to arrest when Deputy Sheriff Jason Anderson responded to the call.

At the county jail Mrs. Herbert Shelton, wife of the sheriff, went to unlock the door to the cells, while Anderson placed his pistol and two clips of shells on the steps leading to the sheriff's apartment. The deputy started to search his prisoner, but suddenly the man broke loose, grabbed up the pistol and the clips, raced up the stairs, and locked himself in the apartment.

Anderson summoned City Police Officer R. L. Chandler, and the two went up to the apartment. Using his shoulder, Anderson butted open the door, while Chandler flung two smoke bombs thru the opening. The prisoner answered with two quick shots, the bullets striking through the door panel and narrowly missing both officers.

State Men Called

State police were called, and a squad was rushed from Salem headquarters with a machine gun, rifles, and tear and smoke bombs. The bombs were hurled into the room, but Stankiewicz broke the window, allowing the fumes to escape, then seized some of the missiles, wrapped them in bed clothing, and hurled them back at the officers.

Once a bomb struck a bedroom bureau and set it afire. Then the outlaw appeared at an open window, exposing himself for the first time to the officers' fire. He seemed about to jump. But firemen, who had responded to an alarm, played a stream of water on the man that forced him back into the room. Soon the flames were extinguished.

A second call for state police reinforcements and more bombs was phoned to Salem. When the new squad arrived, the barrage of bombs was renewed. Presently all was quiet in the apartment. Deputy Sheriff Slocum of Benton county ventured up the stairs and into the room. He found the man lying buried in blankets in the closet, clutching a pistol in his hands. The deputy attempted to take the firearm, when Stankiewicz suddenly revived and pointed the weapon at Slocum.

Dies at Hospital

State Policeman Lillard, however, had climbed a ladder to a window of the apartment, opened fire on the prisoner, wounding him in the leg and groin. The man slumped unconscious to the floor, and died at the hospital without regaining consciousness.

Meanwhile, four prisoners, the only other inmates of the jail, had been removed to the Corvallis jail 10 miles away, so that they would not be endangered by the tear and smoke bomb fumes.

Stankiewicz, the officers said, escaped from the state hospital Monday with Elmer Becker, another patient. Becker was captured early Tuesday in a barn near Salem.

MAN HAD DELUSIONS

SALEM, July 12, (AP)—Frank Stankiewicz, 22, who was killed at Albany last night after barricading himself in the Linn county jail, had suffered fixed delusions and hallucinations of hearing noises, state hospital officials said today.

"He was evidently a transient who had not been in the state very long," an attendant said. Although he was not a trusty, he was on a garden detail crew here Monday when he escaped.

AMUSEMENTS

PELICAN—Now playing, Geo. Arliss in "The Working Man." Coming Friday, Barbara Stanwyck in "Baby Face."

PINE TREE—Now playing, Boots Mallory and Irene Ware in "Humanity."

Coming Friday, Tom Keene in "The Cheyenne Kid."

VOX—Now playing, Ramon Novarro and Myrna Loy in "The Barbarian."

Barbara Stanwyck

Barbara Stanwyck has definitely scored the greatest triumph of her career in "Baby Face," which opens at the Pelican Theatre tomorrow following the close tonight of "The Working Man," which has, without doubt, been the most enthusiastically received picture George Arliss has ever made.

In "Baby Face" Stanwyck becomes a character that few actresses could portray with even the slightest suggestion of the perfection that has inspired column after column of critical praise for this girl who is positively a new screen favorite.

It's a darn good show!

PINE TREE

"Gentlemen, get out the lawn mowers and scrape it off!"

This was Roscoe Ates, command to the corps of barbers at the RKO Studio, after he completed his role of Tom Keene's "The Cheyenne Kid," coming to the Pine Tree Theatre, Friday, for which he sported a fiery red beard of three-inch length for several weeks.

Daring his work in the production, he attended an opening, discussing his scrappy coiffure with a suit of evening clothes and a starched white dress shirt. He was deeply embarrassed, he said, but "it's all in the line of d-d-duty."

VOX

The most spectacular desert in all the Americas, the far-spread sand dunes near Yuma, Arizona, formed the "Sahara" for Ramon Novarro's new comedy romance, "The Barbarian," being shown at the Vox Theatre.

Louise Closser Hale, who has a prominent role in this picture, has travelled the real Sahara many times. She reports the Yuma dunes to be an amazing demonstration of nature, far more striking than anything in Africa, and she has been through the Sahara for hundreds of miles, five hundred miles south of the Mediterranean Sea.

Unsurvable desert pictures have been taken on these immense mountains of sand, rising from the level plain to a height of over eight hundred feet. "Beu Geste" and "Beau Ideal" were filmed here. A dozen or more Tom Mix features have used this locale.

GUARDSMEN HUNT FOR DEATH PISTOL

GRANTS PASS, July 12. (AP)—Making the hackneyed expression literally true, National Guardsmen were "combing the hillsides" of Josephine county here today as they continued their search for the second revolver used by John Barter and Harry Bowles in their killing of State Policeman Milo Baucum here July 1.

Armed with rakes, and with only one more day in which to find the missing death weapon before the two killers' trial for first degree murder opens here tomorrow, the guardsmen of Baucum's home company at Medford are feeling through the leaves and trash covering many acres of the slope of Benton mountain in the hope of unearthing the other revolver, which might prove that both killers fired shots into the state policeman's form.

Youths Taken Along

The two young men themselves were taken along yesterday when a group of state policemen retraced the route of their attempt to escape the spot in brush and timber where they sent their stolen car crashing off the Pacific highway grade. Nothing that could be learned from them disclosed the hiding place.

Charles W. Dempster, Los Angeles attorney sent here by Mrs. Ella R. Bowles, mother of one of the prisoners, had not arrived here Wednesday morning, but it was expected he would be here before tomorrow. It was indicated that the trial probably would begin then even in his absence.

Charles W. Dempster, Los Angeles attorney and member of the California legislature, arrived here today to defend young Bowles, whose father also arrived this afternoon from the Southern California city.

This made the start of the trial tomorrow practically certain, but left in doubt whether the two young men would be tried together. Attorney J. N. Johnston of Grants Pass, appointed by Circuit Judge H. D. Norton to represent the pair, would instead represent Barter alone in a separate action.

"That's telling 'em, Joan... So long... next time pick a pair that hasn't learned the Terraplane getaway."

It isn't the speed... it's the RAPIDITY!

To beat all other cars in an Essex Terraplane, you don't have to exceed the speed-limit.

Terraplaning is fast if you want it to be, even up to eighty-five and more. But conservative drivers are so keen about it because it saves the minutes that other cars waste.

You save minutes in every mile of city-traffic by Terraplaning rapidly into the free lane ahead to command the road. You Terraplane quickly around other traffic by a slight pressure on the accelerator without shifting gears. You Terraplane up the steepest hills in high gear without rushing. You Terraplane around curves in safety without cutting down your normal speed.

And you accomplish all this with a smooth lack of haste that has been the dream of motorists ever since the automobile was invented.

Terraplaning is safer because it is more skilful. It is more thrilling because it is so much easier. Try it, and see.
