CHICAGO, July 27.—Joe Kurth vs. Ernie Smith—Lawrence Ely vs. Stan Williamson—Harry Newman vs. Morley Drury—Roy Horstman vs. Frank Christensen—Pug Rentner vs. Bill Heasley.

What a football game it will be when these stars—and a lot more—meet Aug. 24 in the Century of Progress football game between the mid-west and west coast. And with Howard Jones directing the western squad, and Dick Hanley piloting the mid-west, all the tricks in the bag will be pulled.

The roster of each team will shine with All-America stars of the past year, and Jones has even gone so far as to resurrect Morley Drury, that great quarterback of his 1927 Trojan squad.

With both lineups announced, it is hard to vision a line that can stand up before either of the backfields, or a backfield that can penetrate either of the lines.

The western squad's line will boast of Arbelbide and Sparling of Southern California, Nash of Washington and Slach, Santa Clara, ends; Tay Brown and Ernie Smith, Southern California. Dick Tozer, California. Paul Schwesler, Washington, and Johnson, Utah, tackles; Johnny Baker and Tipton, Southern California. Pete Heiser, Stanford. O'Brien, Washington, and Gill, California, guards, and Stan Williamson, Southern California center.

The backs will be Morley Drury, Max Krause, Gonzaga, Galas Shaver, Southern California. Hank Schaldach, California. George Sander, Washington State. Bill Heasley, St. Mary's and Frank Christensen, Utah.

The eastern squad will have Wesley Pesler, Ohio State, Dick Fencl, Northwestern, and Brad Robinson, Minnesota, at ends; Clarence Munn, Minnesota, Jim Harris, Notre Dame, and John Kolich, Indiana, at guards; Joe Kurth, Notre Dame, Jack Riley, Northwestern, and Marshall Wells, Minnesota, at tackles, and Lawrence Ely, that great Nebraska star, at center.

The backfield will be composed of Lew Hinchman, Ohio State, Harry Newman, Michigan, Pug Rentner, Northwestern, Jim Purvis and Roy Horstman, Purdue, Jack Manders, Minnesota, and Gil Berry, Illinois.

With such an array of stars on both sides, carrying plenty of weight and able to steam up a driving speed, you can look for deception to win the game.

Both Hanley and Jones are known for trick play and the incorporation of all styles in their attack. Kicking and forward passing will bear a lot of weight in the game, as both sides have excellent kickers and plenty of passers and receivers.

The passing attack of the west will probably center around Drury, passing, with Arbelbide, Nesbit, Schaldach and Heasley receiving; that of the mid-west probably will see Newman hearing them with Rentner, Berry, Pesler and Fencl catching.

BOSTON, YANKS SPLIT 2 GAMES

Red Sox Prove Troublesome to Champions; Giants in Lead.

By Hugh S. Fullerton Jr. (Associated Press Sports Writer) The Boston Red Sox appear to have developed into a particular thorn in the collective sides of the world's champions.

For the second time the Sox have proved troublesome to the Yanks at a time when they need every victory they can get. The New Yorkers played a doubleheader in Boston Wednesday, with a chance to tie Washington for the American league before going into a "crucial" series with the Senators, but they came out still a game behind after an even break.

New York won the opener on Wednesday in a 2-3 mound duel between Verman Gomez and Bob Weland, in which each southpaw allowed five hits. Boston came back and smashed Walter Brown off the hill in the fourth inning, scoring five runs to win the second game 3-1.

Washington was rained out at Philadelphia. The Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians, a game apart in the race for the last berth in the first division, took different routes to victory. The fourth place tigers slugged it out with the St. Louis Browns, winning 9 to 7. Tommy Bridges provided the winning runs by hitting a triple with the bases full just before he was driven to the showers by a five-run outburst in the eighth.

Giants Keep Lead Willis Hudlin's six hit flinging was an important factor in Cleveland's 7-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox, while the Hoosiers contributed to their seventh straight defeat by making three errors in succession in the seventh to give the Indians three runs.

In the National league the pace-setting New York Giants took advantage of the rain that kept their leading rivals, Chicago and Pittsburgh, from playing, and increased their lead to four games over the Cubs by winning a twin bill from the Brooklyn Dodgers. The clotting of Joe Hutcherson, rookie outfielder, was the only bright spot for Brooklyn, as Hal Schumacher and Hy Bell limited the opener 5-3, and Bud Parmelee pitched six-hit ball for a 4-2 victory in the nightcap. Hutcherson hit two home runs, driving in five runners. Mel Ott won the

FAMOUS RAJAH RETURNS TO BASEBALL CAREER DETERMINED ON VICTORY

By WILLIAM F. SULLIVAN ST. LOUIS, July 27. (UP)—Rogers Hornsby, the famous "Rajah" who thus far in 1933 had been a dimmed baseball luminary, came back into his own Wednesday when he was signed to manage the St. Louis Browns. True to the Hornsby characteristics, the colorful rajah, a stormy figure of the diamond for several years, became his old self immediately and announced he would be a "two listed" manager of the club which now occupies the cellar position in the American league.

Hornsby will take over the Browns' management immediately and continue in charge through the season of 1935. The financial terms were not disclosed. He leaves the Cardinals, where he has served twice, once as manager and more recently a bench warmer and occasional pinch hitter.

"I'm going to be a driver—a two listed guy with my players," Hornsby said Wednesday, visibly pleased at the "new deal" given him in baseball's chameleon changes. "Indeed I am."

"I started that way in this game and that's the way I'll finish." It was the rajah of old speakings. It was the man, who, though one of the greatest hitters ever seen in the major leagues, was booted out for his dictatorial and arbitrary tactics on and off the playing field. He returned to the Cardinals this year.

When it was learned recently that Hornsby was making a bid for the Browns management, objections were heard in many quarters, but Phil Dett, the owner, held out against all criticisms and was firm in letting it be known he "owned the ball club." All National league clubs waived on Hornsby, permitting the negotiations.

Branch Rickey, who was responsible for sending Hornsby to New York after the Cardinals had won the 1926 world's series, served in the friendly capacity of intermediary in the dealings culminating in Wednesday's development.

Hornsby said Wednesday, "I am glad to take charge of the Browns for the remainder of the season," Hornsby said Wednesday, "as then I will know the caliber of players I will have for next year's squad. And they'll know me, too." The rajah rose to his greatest heights when he guided the Cardinals through the pennant winning season of 1924 and on to humble the New York Yankees for the world title in the series when Grover Cleveland Alexander was the pitching hero. Troubles and transfers have crossed his path ever since.

Webfoots Meet Utah Gridders On Home Field

PORTLAND, Ore., July 27. (AP)—Hugh Rosson, director of athletics at the University of Oregon, announced today that the Oregon-Utah University football game will be played at Eugene Nov. 4. The decision was reached after a telephone conversation with T. J. Parmelee, graduate manager of Utah.

The Webfoot schedule is now complete, Rosson announced, after having been changed three times within a month. The first change was the Oregon-Oregon State tilt to Portland from Eugene. Then the date of the Idaho-Oregon contest was changed from October 21 to the night of October 20 so as not to interfere with the Oregon State-Southern California game which is to be played in Portland October 21. Finally came the change in the Utah game from Portland to Eugene.

Oregon's complete schedule, according to Rosson, is as follows: Sept. 20—Gonzaga at Spokane. Oct. 7—Columbia at Eugene. Oct. 14—Washington at Seattle. Oct. 20—Idaho at Eugene. Oct. 28—U. C. L. A. at Los Angeles. Nov. 4—Utah at Eugene. Nov. 11—Oregon State at Portland. Nov. 18—Southern California at Los Angeles. Nov. 29—St. Mary's at San Francisco.

Wednesday the remarkable Seal youngster, an 18-year-old ex-newby playing his first season in organized baseball, went hitless, stopped by Oakland fielding and the steady pitching of Ed Walsh, son of the great Ed Walsh of Chicago White Sox fame.

Seals Win In five times at bat Joe grounded out twice, forced Jimmy Zinn at second base, and flied out twice. The kid outfielder failed to hit safely in his fifth time at bat, but his long fly to Pool scored Jack Penton to give San Francisco a 5-4 victory over Oakland.
