BY FRANK JENKINS CONVENTIONS. Great institutions, aren't they? Especially for those who go away from home to attend them. There's something about getting away from home that puts a bit of zip into a convention that just isn't there for the home-towners. Funny about that, isn't it? But it's true.

DON'T breathe a word of this to the women folks, for they would be apt to take it too darned seriously, but it's just possible that conventions were invented in the first place as an excuse for the men to get away from home.

BUT the women are quick learners, in these modern days. One attractive young woman, here for the convention of the Legion auxiliary, left her husband at home to mind the babies, and confessed to this writer, in an impulsive moment, that this is the second time she has done it.

BUT, for heaven's sake, men, let's stand together in this emergency and keep this a dark secret. If this young woman's revolutionary ideas spread among her sisters, we'll all be out on a limb around convention time.

BUT GETTING BACK to this particular convention. From the standpoint of us home folks, it's been a grand success. The finest people in the world, coming down here among us, and paying their own way—giving us the opportunity to shake them by the hand and get acquainted with them. If that isn't a break for us, NOTHING COULD BE.

Among all the fine things of earth, old friends are the finest. And, next to old friends, tested by the experiences of the years, the finest of earth's gifts is the opportunity to make new friends. The friends we make, after all, provide the measure of our success in life.

This convention has been a grand success for us here at home, because it has given us the opportunity to make a lot of wonderful new friends.

A LITTLE wild in spots? Pooh! pooh. As Senator Fred Steiwer, who is one of the regular fellows and thoroughly worth knowing, says, that's just an old-fashioned idea that somebody sprung once, and has no foundation in fact.

American Legion conventions are just innocent good fun; just a little blowing off of steam; merely a little relaxing of the too-tight bonds of everyday convention. That's all their wildness amounts to.

TO BE SURE, a member of a visiting drum corps DID come down Main street early this morning, carrying his bugle under his arm and tacking a little uncertainly from side to side. His expression was a shade on the sad side, and he seemed to want something he couldn't get. "What's the matter, buddy?" a sympathetic native asked. (Continued on Page Four)

FREIGHT DERAILED LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12 (UP)—Seventeen head of cattle were killed and several freight cars derailed today when a truck and trailer driven by George W. Garcia, Maywood, collided with a Santa Fe freight train at Santa Fe Springs. A heavy fog was blamed for the accident.

Will Rogers Says: SANTA MONICA, Aug. 12.—Editor The Klamath News: Everybody knows Mr. Roosevelt don't want any more trouble with Cuba or anybody else, but when you start telling somebody what "they must do," why you got to back it up with something. You can't tell the bully to quit picking on the boy unless you are prepared to do something to him in case he don't quit picking on him. Trouble is we never did set Cuba plum tree. We kept a clause in the contract where we were to remain the guardian.

Take the sugar out of Cuba and the sugar out of the Philippines and our altruistic feelings would kinder cool off, Yours, Hail Rogers.

Havana Torn by Mad Rioting As Machado Leaves

Houses of Former Rulers Sacked, Burned Following Flight of Cuban President 15 Slain, 70 Wounded in Street

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 12. (UP)—Carlos Manuel De Cespedes-Quessada, acting as president of Cuba, declared martial law over the entire island late tonight.

HAVANA, Aug. 12. (UP)—Sporadic fighting between rebels and Machado loyalists continued late tonight, after rioting crowds had sacked and set fire to many buildings and homes. It was estimated 15 were dead in Havana, and 70 wounded. Twenty-five houses were looted and six burned.

Students repeatedly attacked or killed members of the Porrista (Machado secret police) and Porristas fired from an automobile into a crowd at the corner of Infanta and Neptuno streets, killing one and gravely wounding another.

Houses Blazing Homes of various Machado officials were burning and a mob set fire to the Regal ball stadium, owned by Alberto Bosh, a staunch supporter of Machado. However, troops patrolling the streets had quelled most of the disorders.

The mob swept through the residence of Jose Izquierdo, former mayor of Havana, smashing and stealing furniture, pictures, rugs and furnishings, and then marched to the house of Orestes Ferrera, ex-secretary of state, and set it on fire. It was a famous showplace of the city.

Like French Revolution Women, as in the French revolution, were among the most hysterical of the rioters, and in some instances were to the attack. Added to the milling throngs were groups of revolutionists from the country, galloping into town on ponies, to join in the wild celebration.

Mr. Roosevelt indicated that he was happy at the turn of events away from revolution in Cuba. He said he would have nothing further to say on the situation until he had an opportunity of scanning reports.

Sees Five Camps Mr. Roosevelt started his tour from Harrisonburg, Va., the little Shenandoah valley town to which he came by special train from Highland, N. Y., last night. Five camps in all were visited. The trip was the first he has made to the establishments he ordered as one of the steps in his program for restoring employment. He was accompanied by Secretary of the Interior Ickes, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, Assistant Secretary Tugwell, and two members of his White House secretariat, Col. Louis McHenry Howe and Col. Marvin Hunter McIntyre.

At a camp the president called for some of the youths to sit with him and then ate with relatives a heaped up platter of fried beefsteak, potatoes, string beans and tomato salad, typical camp fare, which he topped off with two cups of iced tea and a generous helping of apple cobbler.

Kidnapers Indicted Under Federal Act In Nation's Drive ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 12. (UP)—The nation's battle on kidnaping advanced to a new front today when a special federal grand jury here returned the first indictment under the Lindbergh law.

The jury after nine hours of hearing evidence, returned two indictments against four Chicago gangsters in connection with the kidnaping of William Hamm, Jr., for $100,000 ransom, June 15. Their bail was raised from $50,000 to $100,000 each.

The four indicted were Roger Touhy, leader of the gang; Edward McFadden, William Sharkey and Gustav Schachtel, alias "Gloomy Gus" Schaeffer.

Timber Workers Put Out Fires BAKER, Aug. 12. (AP)—Forest service employees assisted by fifty men from the Crane Flat C. C. camp early today controlled a five acre fire in the Whitman national forest near Grange. The blaze started in the mill at the Golden Gate mine which it destroyed, spreading into the timber. Damage was not great.

This was the first fire of importance in the Whitman forest this year and gave the C. C. its first opportunity to utilize the fire fighting organization that had been perfected in each of its Eastern Oregon camps.

Drifting Steamer Sighted In Arctic ST. PAUL ISLAND, Alaska Aug. 12. (AP)—The coast guard cutter Northland, reports received here today said, is in sight of the Canadian steamer Baychimo, which has been adrift in the Arctic for two years. She is about 10 miles off Wainwright, Jim Allen and natives are aboard her. Captain Pederson of the Northland said the ship was sitting on a large pan of ice.

NRA BOARD IN UPHEAVAL ON POLICY ISSUE

Consumers Group Torn by Ogburn; Women Asked Back

Woman Chairman Takes It Easy by Sea As Her Policies Face Change

By H. O. THOMPSON United Press Staff Correspondent Copyright 1934 by United Press WASHINGTON, Aug. 12. (UP)—An upheaval of major importance occurred today within the national recovery administration, with developments foreshadowing a complete change in policies affecting the American consumer.

The central figures in the dispute are the wealthy and socially prominent Mrs. Mary Rumsey, chairman of the consumers advisory board, and Professor William F. Ogburn, distinguished economist, who was dismissed from the board.

Ogburn's Fight A vigorous counter attack by Ogburn today brought an invitation to Mrs. Rumsey to resign as chairman of the board.

Ogburn took the invitation under advisement and prepared for Johnson a statement outlining the policies he believed should be followed on the consumer board—policies which he has suggested before, but which have not been acted upon.

Mrs. Rumsey was week-ending at fashionable Newport as Ogburn, arriving by airplane from Chicago, carried his fight to Roper and Johnson.

Professor Takes Time Both Roper, who had notified Ogburn by wire earlier in the week that the professor was being transferred from the board, and Johnson, joined in the invitation to return. Ogburn would not give a definite answer, saying he would consider it over Sunday and in the meantime prepare an outline of procedure for Johnson's inspection.

One of the points at issue has been over just such a program. Ogburn, whose experience in sociology and economics includes directorship of research for the Hoover study of social trends last year, earlier in the summer mapped out a schedule which he felt the board should follow.

It was never acted upon. Its acceptance now would constitute a complete victory for him.

UTILITIES LINE UP WASHINGTON, Aug. 12. (UP)—The electric, gas and telephone industries lined up today under the blue eagle, national recovery drive.

Meat Packers May Be Given Right to Establish Prices PORTLAND, Aug. 12. (UP)—A proposal allowing the Institute of American Meat Packers to set prices for meat products nationally, is under consideration at Washington, D. C., representatives of the industry learned today.

A copy of a tentative contract embodying principles of the agreement, which, if sanctioned, would permit the organization to fix prices under direction of the secretary of agriculture, was received today at a holdover session of grange, livestock association and farm union leaders.

"If the packers are to be allowed under the agricultural adjustment act to set the price upon meat food products, then livestock producers should be allowed to determine conditions under which their livestock shall be sold to packers," C. E. Greife, Portland sheep raiser and committeeman, commented.

New C. C. Camp Will Be Opened BIEBER, Cal.—A civilian conservation corps camp will be opened this month on Willow creek in the Modoc national forest, according to information received here from the forest service office at Alturas.

One hundred and fifty men will be stationed at the camp and will be employed in building seven miles of new road that will become part of the Eagle Lake route between Big Valley and Susanville. An advance company of 25 is expected to arrive Monday to prepare the road. Surveys for the new roadmaking are in progress. Lassen county will cooperate in the project and Supervisor Peter Gerip of Bieber is sending county roadworking equipment to the camp.

WHEAT PLAN GIVEN BOOST

Wallace Asks Growers To Make Success of Roosevelt's Program

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12. (UP)—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace tonight called upon America's wheat farmers to make President Roosevelt's acreage reduction program a success.

The campaign will begin on August 24, when Wallace announces what acreage reduction will be asked for 1934 in return for federal payments to farmers of about $90,000,000.

Work to Farmers If the wheat adjustment program works, it will put rural America a good many years ahead on the road to a more stable income and a better life," the secretary said.

"Whether it works or not depends on the country people. They must do the job themselves. No one else can do it for them. But they must first be told, plainly and honestly, what it is all about."

Wallace's appeal was contained in a brief manual prepared to explain the wheat program. The manual will be sent to more than 1,000,000 farmers.
