

Stanford Prepares For Race

Tiny Thornhill Takes Over Task Left By Pop Warner; Young Portlander, Bobby Grayson, Visions As Coast Sensation.

This time next month the air will be cleared of heat and the football teams of the Pacific coast conference active from Montana to California.

The highest pre-season interest will be directed toward two major schools, Oregon State college and Stanford, where new men take a hand as head coaches.

Lon Stiner at Oregon State already has carefully stated his athletic policy. No one expects Lon to turn the Heavens into a championship combination, so no one will be disappointed and everyone will be pleasantly surprised if this Oregon school develops the punch to progress in its football campaign this autumn.

No new football coach can be optimistic, so Tiny Thornhill at Stanford, who is following out tradition when he pointed out the woeful weakness of the Cardinals.

Actually, however, Thornhill can't be far wrong. Stanford, indeed, will have a struggle this season. A check of the Cardinal prospects reveals:

1—Thirteen lettermen, including six 1932 regulars, will be missing.

2—Twelve lettermen, including five 1932 regulars, will be available.

3—The backfield problem will be one particularly of selection rather than of discovery.

4—The line problem, especially the tackle positions, will be a severe one.

Tiny has but one regular tackle this year, Henri Laborde, a big fellow who did much to uphold the prestige of Pop Warner's last Pacific coast eleven.

George Grey, that other strong regular, has departed along with Red Gribbin and Charlie Rogers, substitutes.

Ben Palamontain, exactly as large as his name would have him, will be the only other tackle with experience.

Thornhill's troubles, however, were increased the other day when he heard Laborde, the single veteran, might not return.

The Cardinal advance men have been hurrying to his tackle's home in a grand effort to cajole him into getting back for the September opening.

Three ends who did most of the playing in 1932 are gone forever and Thornhill and his two assistants, Ernie Nevers and Jim Lawson, have done an abundance of scrambling trying to discover replacements.

They found Jimmy Moscrip and Al Norgard—two men sufficiently talented to ease the mind of a coaching staff.

Moscrip was a brilliant performer on the freshman team and Norgard won a letter in 1931. He will be back this year with ten more pounds of weight.

There are others, of course, to move into the other.

Corbus, undoubtedly, will be one of the country's greatest guards again this year.

The material in general is powerful enough to make Kite step out to hold his position.

And at center, too, Thornhill will find things to fit. Billy Bates, a little fellow, will return and Wes Muller, a 226-pound reserve, and Alf Brandt, a freshman last year, will be there as second choices.

What a magnificent display of back Thornhill will start off for touchdowns in the first game—against San Jose State on September 23.

Bill Sims, a regular half-back, probably will be placed to quarterback to find a shift among the regulars. It would be impossible to push Sims, a splendid performer, out of the first four backs.

Bob Hamilton, coming up as a sophomore, has taken Tiny's eye as a regular. John Reiser, another freshman, and Ken Afferbaugh, a letterman man who just finished playing as a regular, are pre-season favorites.

Thornhill isn't forgetting Bob Maentz, a regular who was put out with an injury early last year.

HELEN JACOBS DENIES GRUDGE

New Woman's Champion Good Friend of Mrs. Moody.

By HENRY McLEMORE FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 14. (UP)—Rain having spoiled the opening play in the women's national tennis tournament, Helen Jacobs, one of our most charming and gracious sports champions, sat in the Henri Cochet suite at the Forest Hills Inn and talked of many things, including Mrs. Helen Willis Moody.

Miss Jacobs, who has Mrs. Moody to thank for the fact she has been champion for once, holds no grudge against her fellow Californian and does not regret that she is a contemporary of the world's greatest player.

"You know," Miss Jacobs said, lighting a cigarette, "every so often I read in the papers that Helen Willis and I are enemies and spend our time snubbing one another. I wonder where that started? I'm afraid you newspapermen are to blame for that."

"We've been friends for a long time and heaven knows we are pleasant enough to each other now."

Miss Jacobs was asked how she felt when she picked up papers and saw that the experts conceded her little or no chance of retaining her title, now that Mrs. Moody was back in the tournament.

"Well, I can't blame them. Certainly it's logical to pick Mrs. Moody to defeat me. I've played her seven times in all you know, and I've yet to win a set. The best I've ever done against Helen is five games in two sets."

How these feelings given her a defeatist complex when facing Mrs. Moody?

"Always. Always. Always. No, I always hope to win when I go out on the court against Helen."

Why, then, was it true that she never played her best game against Mrs. Moody?

"Well, she's so nearly perfect it's hard to play your best against her. You see, she's so amazingly steady that when a long volley comes you are tempted to try and put the ball away before there is an opening. Knowing that if the ball continues to stay in play she'll nearly always out-steady you. Oh, it's suicidal to try and match Helen from the baseline. The player who finally beats her is going to be one who takes the net, or one who keeps her shots in close and makes Helen run."

Miss Jacobs was asked what she thought of her chance to retain the national title.

"It's going to be mighty hard to stay in the running. Did you see my half of the draw? There's Sarah Paltry, Josephine Crutchshank, Midge Van Ryn and the whole English Wightman cup team, including Peggy Scriven and Dorothy Round. And you know what players they are."

Miss Jacobs plans to wear shorts for the first time. They are much more sensible than a skirt, which is continually getting in the way, she says, and ever so much cooler. But she didn't make her decision until she held a long distance telephone conversation with her mother in California.

The champion doesn't know when she will quit playing.

"Tennis has been so much fun and meant so much to me, that I plan to go on playing and playing."

Pa Dutra Is Pretty Proud

Golfer Scores Hole-In-One In Tournament for "Aces"

NEW YORK, Aug. 15. (UP)—One of the most amazing feats in the history of competitive golf was achieved today when Jack Hagen, home professional, opened the World-Telegram's annual hole-in-one tournament on the Salisbury course by sinking his first shot for a hole-in-one.

Jack Doyle, the Broadway betting commissioner, had figured the possibilities of any individual of the 400 contestants making a hole-in-one as a 20,000-to-1 shot. Last year, 217 entrants fired 1655 shots at the pin on another course and the nearest was 25 inches away.

Because Hagen was the home pro at Salisbury, he was accorded the honor of opening the tournament. His No. 7 iron sent the ball soaring over the 148 yards to the third hole of the course. It flew straight for the pin, and went in the hole on the fly.

The feat was the more remarkable because Hagen made his drive during a light rain. It was the third hole-in-one of his career, and admittedly his greatest shot. He is the first golfer in history to register a hole-in-one under official observation.

Of the 156 contestants who took their five shots today, the last man, H. C. Hopkins of Salisbury placed second with a shot that halted two feet from the pin. Nearly 250 more players will try to equal Hagen's feat tomorrow, Jack Hagen is a relation of the illustrious Walter.

here from John Nemanic, 155, of St. Louis.

The Oklahoma won the first fall with a double toe hold in 12 minutes. Nemanic evened the match, taking the second fall in 11 minutes with a Boston crab hold, but Clingman clinched the match 10 minutes later, when he successfully applied a double leg bar.

Bulldog Jackson, 155, Klamath Falls, defeated Logger Helbert, 160, St. Helens, two falls out of three, in the semi-windup. Helbert took the first fall, but Jackson came back to win the next two, first with a body press and then with a hammerlock.

Dorry Detton, 160, of Salt Lake City won the preliminary match over Eddie Helbert, 160, St. Helens, taking two straight falls.

Granted that the deal was dictated by economic pressure, there is still the possibility that if the A's had held tight to Simmons another season, they might still be in the running for the American league flag. The A's today are 15 1/2 games behind the Senators.

They have lost 12 games so far by one run, six of them to the second place Yankees. They've dropped six by two runs, one of them to the Senators. And Simmons, bolstering Jimmie's 362 with his own 351, might have turned the tide in enough of these to have made the going as close as a sugar bowl haircut.

Aside from the clamor of Foxx's achievement, the day in the majors was a typical blue Monday, with Detroit beating Boston 6 to 5 in the only other game played. The National league's lone match between the Phillies and Giants was rained out.

Foxx's outburst led a 13-hit raid on Willis Hudlin and Belve Bean, and gave Roy Mahaffey a chance to coast to his fifth victory of the season behind a nine-run lead piled up in the first four innings. The Tigers banded three Boston pitchers for four runs in the seventh, to pile up a 6 to 3 margin.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Aug. 15. (UP)—Cocca, Kid, 1 3/4, N. Haven, Conn., took the decision over Young Firpo, 140, Pennsylvania, N. J., in a 10 round bout.

In the 10 round semi-final, Bucky Taylor, 128, Baltimore, took the verdict over Dick O'Leary, 123, Cleveland, Jackie Cochrane, 126, Elizabeth, N. J., won a six round decision over Tommy O'Leary, 124, Cleveland.

JIMMIE FOXX BATS IN NINE

Athletic Slugger Beats Cleveland Indians Single-Handed.

By Edward J. Nell There's a new brilliant shiner in the bonnet of pink-checked Jimmie Foxx.

A new American league record of nine runs batted in in one game added to the walloping achievements of the young king of baseball's slugger.

As the old dynasty of Babe Ruth fades slowly for occasional outbursts, a club last fall's home run orgy in the World Series and the spectacular display of the all-star game in Chicago, the wonder of Foxx, the easy-going farmer boy from Maryland's Eastern Shore steadily rises.

Ruth Excelled He hasn't the flair of Ruth, this 26-year-old barrel-chested, horseshoe buster, home run maker, coaxed from the hind end of a plow and shipped to Connie Mack nine years ago as part payment on the debt of gratitude he felt toward the accident pilot.

He lacks the instinct for publicity, the booming personality that somehow has clothed even the ordinary deeds of Ruth with a public awe and worship that has grown with the Big Bam through the years.

But never in all the Babe's 20 years of big league play has he looked more devastating at the plate than Foxx unleashed Monday as the Athletics slaughtered Walter Johnson's Cleveland Indians 11 to 5 in the first game of their Western invasion.

Scoring Nine In the first inning Jimmie tripled to two on. In the second he hit his 35th home run of the season with the bases loaded. A double in the fourth chased home another run. A single scored two more in the sixth. And to add the perfect Ruthian touch, Jimmie fanned magnificently in his final try in the ninth.

The nine runs he drove across the plate broke the record of eight set by Topsy Hartzell, of the Yankees, in 1911, and tied since by Harry Heilmann, Lou Gehrig, Carl Reynolds and Earl Averill. He fell three shy of equalling the major league record set by Jim Bottomley of the Cards with an even dozen in 1924.

Rallying from an ordinary start this season, due to a spiked shin in the spring that healed slowly, he has made the going as close as his average to .352 for a neat lead over his old room mate, Al Simmons, his foremost hitting rival around the circuit, and again it focussed the spotlight on the sale of Simmons, Jimmy Dikes and Mule Baas for $100,000 last fall.

Granted that the deal was dictated by economic pressure, there is still the possibility that if the A's had held tight to Simmons another season, they might still be in the running for the American league flag. The A's today are 15 1/2 games behind the Senators.

They have lost 12 games so far by one run, six of them to the second place Yankees. They've dropped six by two runs, one of them to the Senators. Klamath Stars Score Victory Over Tigers

The Klamath All-stars stepped out into the front again this week when they defeated the powerful Weed colored Tigers 13 to 10. The second game of the series will be played here Sunday at the Fairgrounds.

The contest was one of the closest played this season and neither team was positive of victory until the final inning. The All-Star bats, knocking out almost twice as many hits as the Tigers, were functioning with well-timed precision.

The Stars will enter one of the outstanding games of the season, August 27, against the Sons of Italy from Weed. The game will be played at the Fairgrounds as a substitute for a contest with the Klamath Pelicans.

The Sons of Italy have captured the northern California title, and will give the Stars as much competition as the Pelicans. The Pelicans have disbanded for the season.

State Discovers Profits In Dog Racing Events

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 15. (UP)—Horse and dog racing under the Parimutuel betting system netted the state $81,530, the state racing commission announced today.

The state collected 2 1/2 per cent of all the moneys wagered on license fees from promoters and miscellaneous receipts from jockeys and owners.

During the two 30-day dog race meets in Portland, more than $1,547,000 went over the counters at the Mutuel windows. At Gresham, the horse race betting public poured out an additional $353,212.

Bettors, however, got back $1,441,000 of the $2,000,212. Receipts to the state included $50,030 from the Mutuels, $30,000 in license fees, and $180,000 in jockeys and owners fees.

The Pacific International Livestock exposition here and the State Fair at Salem each will receive 37 1/2 per cent of the receipts. The remaining 25 per cent will be divided among the various county fair boards.

COAST LEAGUE RACE TIGHTENS

Hollywood, Los Angeles Command Top Places; Portland Third.

(By The Associated Press) Southern California was the far west's baseball capital with Los Angeles and Hollywood heading the drive for the 1933 coast league pennant.

Hollywood moved up from fourth to second place Monday night by blanking the last place Seattle Indians twice, 2-0 and 3-0, in games played to make up for postponements earlier in the season.

Frank Shellenback stopped the Seattle men with 5 hits in the opener, and Buzz Wetzel followed with 2-hit pitching in the 7-inning nightcap. Phil Page and Dutch Ulrich did some fancy flinging for the losers, giving but 13 hits in the two games.

Ducks Third Some evening up in the Coast league standings is in prospect this week with the first division clubs meeting each other and the four second bracket teams fighting it out in the other games.

The Angels' half-game lead over Hollywood may not survive the 7-game series at Sacramento. The Solons are in fourth place, only a single game behind Los Angeles and eager to avenge their last series defeat at the hands of the Angels.

Hollywood entertains the third place Portland Beavers at Wrigley Field; Oakland does the honors for San Francisco at Emeryville; and the Missions play hosts to Seattle at the Seals' stadium.

Twelve Trotters Race Wednesday At Hambletonian

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 15. (AP)—Twelve three year old trotters, including Mary Reynolds, the favorite, were named today for the renewal of the $50,000 Hambletonian over the mile track at "Good Time" park tomorrow.

Mary Reynolds, owned by W. N. Reynolds of Winston-Salem, N. C., and driven by the veteran reinsman, Ben White, drew post position No. 3 for the first of three-out-of-five mile heats.

The southern owned Fly is expected to start the choice at 2 to 1 to whip the country's fastest three year old trotters.

Spencer McElwyn, an outstanding juvenile last year, will guard from the pole under the guidance of Marvin Childs. The colt will carry the silks of Henry H. Knight, of Chicago.

Patsy Raskob Enters Races

LONG BEACH, Calif., Aug. 15. (AP)—Patsy Raskob, who appears to have the looks and a lot of the ability of her father, has coasted into Long Beach with members of her family to announce casually she hasn't the slightest fear of more seasoned contestants in the International Star boat races here next week.

The 13-year-old daughter of John J. Raskob, the democratic party chief, will sail her 20-foot craft in five races as dozens of other skippers plane down the waves to get at new records and the championship.

AT TERRE HAUTE, Ind.—Moon Mullins, 127, Vincennes, Ind., (drew) Santos Delgado, 127, Dallas, Tex., (10); Frankie Jarr, 116, Fort Wayne, Ind., out-pouted Henry Moreno, 117, Dallas, Tex., (10).

Cheung Favored To Upset Lion In Main Event

Wong Rock Cheung, listed as a native of Manchuria, has been selected by Mack Lillard, promoter, as the wrestler to upset the undefeated Al Karasick. The giant oriental will be here Friday night to meet Karasick in a Legion hall main event.

Cheung has been a main eventer in Portland and Seattle for the last six months. He has won the majority of his matches and will come to Klamath Falls a favorite to trim the Russian Lion.

The oriental, weighing well over 200 pounds, will have a 15-pound advantage in his match here. Karasick, just recently quitting the heavyweight division for the heavy, weighs but 195.

A veteran, Ted Thys, and a youngster, Everett Kibbons, will meet in the one-hour preliminary. Thys lost to Karasick here last week, and Kibbons was beaten by Les Wolfe two weeks ago in a brilliant match.

Kibbons is from Oklahoma where he was an outstanding football man on the state university team.

Sweden Loses In Elimination For Davis Cup

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 15. (UP)—Helium eliminated Sweden in the third round of the 1934 European Zone Davis Cup competition today when Andre Larock won the third singles match from Harry Hamberg, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

The opening day's singles matches were divided, Larock defeating Curt Oestberg while Hamberg beat Guy Van Zuylen. Belgium took the lead yesterday with its doubles team of Larock and Leopold Deborham beat Oestberg and Hamberg.

English Capture Cricket Matches

LONDON, Aug. 15. (AP)—England today scored a decisive victory over the touring West Indies cricket team, in the third and last test cricket match of the series. England won by an innings and 17 runs.

England also won the first match and the second was drawn. Needing 22 runs to avoid an innings defeat the West Indies batsmen fell easy victims to the English trundling, both wickets falling within 10 minutes.

Scores of the match were: England, 312; West Indies 109 and 195.
