

LAKEVIEW SET FOR ROUND UP CELEBRATIONS

Lakeview has discarded the routine manner of life this week to prepare for its annual three-day roundup September 2, 3 and 4. Charles LaPointe, business man of Klamath Falls and Lakeview, said Monday that the central Oregon city was ready for one of the greatest events in rodeo history.

Mr. LaPointe visited Lakeview Sunday and described the city as completely dressed for the roundup. The streets have been garbed in hunting and all business houses have put in windows fitting for the celebration.

The Lakeview hotel, according to Mr. LaPointe, has been turned over night into an interesting western tavern. A corral has been constructed and an ancient hitching post has been set up at the door.

A bar room has been built and the entire hotel has been covered with western trappings. Saddles, spurs, ropes and whips are abundant.

A huge open air dance will be staged here on the tennis courts near the Klamath Union high school on Thursday night as a preliminary to the roundup. The money will be used to finance the visit of the Klamath Legion drum corps and the Klamath municipal band.

The city band will give a free half-hour concert before the dance. A special nine piece orchestra will play for the dance.

Mr. LaPointe, member of the Klamath Falls committee, said tickets for the dance have been placed on sale here. They can be obtained from any member of the city's service clubs or at the LaPointe store.

A committee of Klamath Falls citizens will promote attendance for Klamath day on September 4. It will include representatives from the Lions club, Rotary, Kiwanis, 26-30 and the Business and Professional Women's organization.

Roland Warren will have charge of the drum corps appearance.

Death Scene Bared On Witness Stand In Lamson Trial

two hours before his "discovery" of her body. The witness charged that Lamson, 31-year-old sales manager of the Stanford University Press, beat his wife to death. The night of May 29 she allegedly resorted to a ruse to repel his advances and persuade him to sleep in another room. She was found dead at 10 a. m. the next day.

Discovery Recounted
A detailed story of discovery of the lifeless body of the young mother in her bathtub was told today. Witnesses told of blood spots and stains on Lamson's clothing, and throughout the Lamson home on the Stanford campus.

The young husband was hysterical and grief-stricken following his discovery of the body, state witnesses testified.

Members of the exclusive San Francisco peninsula society colony attended the trial today. Among them were the novelists, Katherine and Charles G. Norris.

Helen Vincent, neighbor of the Lamsons, testified that at 9:50 a. m., on May 30, she saw Lamson working in his back yard. He was stripped to the waist.

"He smiled and was friendly," she said. "There wasn't a thing unusual in his conduct."

Appearance Changes
Fifteen minutes later she saw the young husband again in his home. He had found his wife's body.

"He was sagged down in a wicker chair," she testified. "He appeared overcome by grief. When I first entered I heard him calling 'Oh, Allene, Allene, my dear.'"

"He sounded as though he hoped she might still be alive and would answer him," Lamson, sitting between his attorneys, wept. His fingers were clumsy as he wiped his tears away.

Mrs. Duford Brown, wife of a Stanford journalism instructor and intimate of the Lamsons, also testified to the young husband's grief.

Bloodstains Described
She said she found blood in the bathroom and in the living room.

Prosecutor Herbert Bridges questioned her:

Q—What did you hear David Lamson say in the bathroom?

A—He was urging her to speak to him, calling her 'Allene, darling.' He was bending over her, his arms around her and her head pillowed on his breast.

"I told him to leave the body," she continued. "As we got to the door leading to the nursery he fell on his face. He fainted."

"When he revived he said, 'How could such a terrible thing happen to a lovely girl like Allene, who never hurt anybody?'"

For the second time today Lamson wept. His face was red. State's Attorney Allan Lindsay resumed questioning Mrs. Brown.

Q—Was there any blood on the defendant's shirt?

A—Yes, where he was holding her head against his breast.

Offered to Help

Q—Do you remember whether Lamson said "I must pull myself together and help the police," or "talk to the officers?"

Mrs. L. M. Place, realtor whose visit to the Lamson home led to discovery of the body, testified similarly.

She saw Lamson, stripped to the waist, working in his back yard. He acted in a normal manner. He entered the house to admit her at the front door. In the interval he put on a shirt and found the body.

"We heard a peculiar sound, a sort of hysterical wail," Mrs. Place testified. "Then Mr. Lamson came to the door and cried out, 'My God! My wife has been murdered.'"

"He kept saying 'my sweetheart, my darling,' and terms of that kind," Mrs. Place testified. Police photographs of Mrs. Lamson's body, the torso in a tub of blood-stained water, the shattered head and arms over the side, was introduced in evidence by the state today and identified by witnesses as a true picture of the bathroom scene.

OPINION GRANTED IN LOAN FIRM CASE

SALEM, Aug. 28. (AP)—Oregon assets of the Western Loan & Building company, whose affairs were turned over to the bank commissioner of Utah, its home state, Aug. 18, can not be held by the state corporation commissioner for liquidation of claims by residents of the state only, but Oregon residents must share with claimants of other states in the entire assets of the firm, Attorney General L. H. Van Winkle held in a detailed opinion on what the state can do in redeeming claims in the defunct company.

The opinion, requested by Charles H. Carey, state corporation commissioner, who now has charge of the Oregon assets of the company, stated however that the $100,000 deposit placed by the company upon its qualifications about 20 years ago, must be held until the claims of the residents in Oregon have been satisfied or be used toward the liquidation of the assets to fulfill the claims.

He was enthusiastic about the wheat plan. Unlike the cotton plan now in operation, it will involve no crop destruction.

Prof. M. L. Wilson, big limbed, grey-eyed chief of the agricultural adjustment administration wheat production section, will direct the reduction campaign.

Schools to Open On September 12

ing the year at Henley, Merrill and Bonanza. The Smith-Hughes work will be conducted at these schools however, before the shops are built, Peterson said.

He was enthusiastic about the schools will open in remodeled buildings. The Henley high school is being remodeled inside and out at a cost of $2,000. The building is being made modern throughout with modern plumbing equipment.

An additional class room is also being constructed. Work on the Henley building is expected to be completed this week.

Additional Room Built
An additional room is being built to the Summers school building. The room will accommodate 50 pupils and will be used for classes and recreation. An additional teacher will be added to the Summers staff.

The construction of the room will be completed before school opening and will cost about $3,500.

All school buildings in the county have been repainted, varnished, and cleaned in preparation for the opening.

"Should schools open which were not running last year, they will probably be camp schools," Peterson said. "Others might be closed after opening if the number of students isn't large enough to maintain operations."

FUNERAL HELD

Funeral services for Richard Hoskinson, 7, who was drowned in a government canal, were held yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the chapel of the Klamath funeral home. Burial was in Linkville cemetery.

PROFESSOR MOLEY QUILTS STATE JOB

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 28. (AP)—Raymond Moley, intimate of President Roosevelt and recent storm center of the administration is going to edit a new national weekly to be published by Vincent Astor, another friend and distant relative of the chief executive.

The sudden retirement of the Columbia University professor and close adviser of the president was announced yesterday after a heart to heart talk between the two.

Break Reviewed
The first break in the official family of the president followed closely an almost open rupture in the state department between Secretary Hull and Moley, the assistant secretary.

Mr. Roosevelt is very friendly to both Moley and Hull and all those involved say everything is all right. Certainly there is no break in the friendship between the president and Moley who has been the key man of his group of advisers during the last two years.

"I need not tell you," said Mr. Roosevelt in his letter accepting Moley's resignation, "that I appreciate and shall always remember your participation during these two years in the development of policies based on our common ideas. You have rendered a very definite service to your country; and your departure from an official position will give you opportunity to carry on the task of an equally wide field."

peared the discussions would break down completely, apparently cleared the last serious blockade in the way of the NRA code of bringing all essential American industries under the blue eagle. Codes for the other four of the five key industries—steel, oil, automobile and textiles—already have been signed.

It had been indicated officially that if the coal men failed to reach an agreement by tomorrow, Johnson would write a code for the industry himself.

Tonight's agreement, even though the code itself may not be drawn up within the time limit, appeared to end the necessity for such drastic action.

Box Men of Coast Meet Here Today

tion League to restore employment for lumber and box factory workers forced out by competition of substitute containers is sponsored by the National Association of Woodmen. Box Manufacturers' Association.

Since its inception last April, many woodworkers have signed a pledge agreeing to favor the purchase of merchandise packed in wooden containers. Merchants have joined the ranks, and are specifying that their orders come in wooden boxes. As the result of this effort, many packers of merchandise who formerly shipped in substitutes, are now using wooden containers. Greater effort is necessary, however, to bring back winter payrolls that existed before inroads were made by fibroboard substitutes.

Plans are being formulated by the wooden box manufacturers to extend the coastwide present trade promotion campaign throughout the country, functioning through national headquarters in Chicago. Every effort will be made to create a nationwide consciousness of the wooden box men's slogan, "Wood 'acking Paye."

Tanker Damaged At San Juan Dock

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Aug. 28. (AP)—The Cities Service Denver, an oil tanker owned by the Cities Service Transportation company, Denver, Colorado, tied to her dock here today with her bow smashed in about ten feet as a result of running into Montita Island in the Mona channel during a squall early yesterday.

Monita is a coral island described as being shaped like a mushroom. The nose of the ship was punctured above the waterline.

Restoration Of Monarchy Hinted By German Chief

BERLIN, Aug. 28. (AP)—Germans regarded as handwriting on the wall today the broad hints of two leaders regarding restoration of the monarchy and the Reichs claims to the Saar territory.

Venerable President Paul Von Hindenburg said he was thinking of his "Kaiser, the King and Lord" when he accepted as a gift from East Prussia a forest estate adjoining his ancestral home at Nendek.

Chancellor Adolph Hitler told a crowd of 200,000 that Germany without wanting a new war or proposing to annex anything foreign, would never renounce her claims to the Saar.

emergency action and that it should wait until the next council meeting for final adoption.

City Engineer E. A. Thomas was instructed to investigate the possibility of improving the hazardous open ditch of boiling water flowing from a spring at Holly and Martin streets and submit at the next council meeting estimates on the cost of doing away with the open hot water stream.

Both fire and police department employees, except the two chiefs of the departments, were given 10 per cent raises in salary effective the first of September. Employees in both departments have been receiving $100 per month.

To Ban Eyesores
The city attorney was given authority to draw an ordinance with more "teeth" demanding removal of partly burned buildings in the city.

In conjunction with a financial report of the city given by Mahoney, two resolutions were passed which he declared would assist the city to get all departments on a cash basis with the November tax payments. One resolution approved the transfer of $2,000 from the general fund to take up deficits in the street and fire funds. Another resolution approved the transfer of a small surplus in units 47 and 54, to the general fund where it could be used.

With the call of warrants to be made by the city treasurer this week, a total of more than $25,000 in city warrants has been called and paid during the month of August, Mahoney stated in his report.

The following payments were made in August, according to the mayor's financial report:

California Oregon Power company $10,254.49, Pacific Tel. and Tel. $1,910.30, Western Union $71.34, Postal Telegraph $26.33.

The total utility tax collected in 1933 amounts to approximately $25,000 in cash.

City finances are showing a marked improvement, notwithstanding the slow payment of taxes, according to the report. On January 1, 1933, overdrafts

FORD STILL SILENT ON NRA ATTITUDE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (AP)—Despite the promulgation last night by President Roosevelt of an NRA code for the automobile industry, Henry Ford today still had not indicated his attitude.

Referring to reports the Detroit manufacturer intended placing in effect maximum hour-minimum wage scale more beneficial to labor than those provided in the code drafted by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, it was pointed out by NRA officials he could not use the blue eagle without signing the general agreement.

The law provides once a code is made effective, it shall be applicable to the entire industry or any sub-division thereof. The wages in the charter are minimum wages, it was said, and even should Ford order higher wages it still would be necessary for him to accept the code to display the insignia.

Rogue River Pears To Be Stored Here

make it possible to keep in Southern Oregon a considerable volume of business and employment that in the past has gone entirely out of this region.

For several years the Klamath Ice and Storage company has re-iced here the pear shipments moved east and south by the Pacific Fruit Express, and out of this business grew the present plans for storage here.

Through the efforts of the Klamath Ice and Storage company, L. L. Graham, district freight and passenger agent of the Southern Pacific and Supervisor J. C. Johnston, of the Pacific Fruit Express, supplemented by fruit packers in Medford, Klamath Falls has been designated as a storage-in-transit station, and regular rates established. These rates make possible the storage of Rogue River valley pears here on their way to market.

The packed fruit will be held here over the winter months and shipped east, south and north over the various rail routes from Klamath Falls, as market demands determine. Pear trains are already beginning to move through Klamath Falls, and it is expected that the storage plant will be filled to capacity by September 20. New conveyors, air circulators and other equipment necessary for handling of this new business are now being installed.

In earlier years the Rogue River valley pear crop went east by way of Marysville, but recently the bulk of this crop has been moving through Klamath Falls and eastward from here by way of the new Alturas line of the Southern Pacific. Hitherto only icing of the cars has been done here, but the new development just announced will add storage at Klamath Falls, thus increasing materially the employment provided here by the movement of the Rogue River valley pear crop.

Dead Man Set on Probing Own Death

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (UP)—The will of the late Horace Elliot Wadsworth, wealthy New Yorker who died in Reno early this month, was filed for probate today and provides that $25,000 of the estate be used to investigate whether the testator was murdered or died from natural causes.

Wadsworth, who was 36 and had been married twice, died in a Reno hospital under unusual circumstances. He had been brought 40 miles from Pyramid Lake suffering from an overdose of a powerful sedative.

A representative of the law firm handling the estate said today that an autopsy performed on the body indicated death was due to natural causes. A coroner's verdict in Nevada, however, attributed the death to the overdose of medicine.

An attendant, the story goes, separated the two. Long, bleeding, was led to his automobile and returned to New York. He caught the 20th Century Limited for Chicago on Sunday and this afternoon arrived in Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 28. (UP)—Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana, who came into Milwaukee with a scar over his eye to address a meeting of war veterans, issued a statement tonight that the eye wound had been received when he was attacked by a "gang" at a Long Island party last Saturday night.

ENGLAND WATCHES

LONDON, Aug. 28. (UP)—The British government kept a close eye on the conversations today between President Roosevelt and Montague Norman, head of the Bank of England, but financial experts expressed doubt that an Anglo-American money pact would result.

Financiers in "the city," London's Wall street, were skeptical that even a joint agreement between Washington and the British administration would be reached to steady the dollar and pound sterling on exchange markets.

It was pointed out that a

LOGGING MISHAP FATAL TO YOUTH

Gerald Link, 20, who was crushed under a rolling log at the Shaw-Bertram logging camp at Perex, Calif., died Saturday evening at a local hospital.

In addition to a shattered pelvis bone, the youth sustained other serious internal injuries. His home was in Malin, and he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Eva Purcell, two sisters, also of Malin and a brother in Tacoma, Wash.

Funeral services will be held from the chapel of the Earl Whitlock funeral home Tuesday afternoon, and interment made in Bedford cemetery, Poe Valley, with Rev. Weir of Malin officiating.

2 Reasons

When the need comes to select a funeral service, two things are uppermost in the minds of almost everyone. One is a desire to obtain the very finest service available, as a fitting tribute to a loved one. The other is a natural wish to avoid paying more than the actual value of the service justifies.

Each of these factors points to the wisdom of calling Earl Whitlock. Because of our larger volume of partonage, the superior facilities of our funeral home are offered at actually LESS cost to each family served...
