

Senators, Giants Nearly In

Colorful World Series in Prospect If These Two Major Teams Meet. Washington Defeated New York in 1924. Brown's Victory Over Calder Real Display of Ability. Les Avrit Ready to Start Third Season With Pelicans.

It isn't safe to assume anything in baseball, but it's quite possible the New York Giants and the Washington Senators will meet for the world's baseball championship in October.

Those rioting Boston Braves, however, have cut down the Giants' lead to within the vicinity of six games, and there is no telling where the march may end.

Then down in second place in the American league, the New York Yankees still look confidently toward another championship. The Yanks, unseated by the Senators several weeks ago, haven't by any means given up thoughts of another pennant.

But Washington and the Giants would make a colorful world series week. They would provide one of those "rare" naturals in baseball.

It's exactly nine years since these leading teams of the two major leagues have met in any sort of competition but exhibition. Nine years ago the Washington men won the world championship from New York.

It was one of baseball's most thrilling series—final count, four games for Washington and three for New York.

The Giants have not won a pennant since 1924, but Washington repeated in 1925. The Senators, however, lost to the Pittsburgh Pirates in the world series play-off.

Professional baseball undergoes a tremendous shuffle in a very few years. If Washington and New York meet in October there will be just a handful of the men who faced each other in 1924.

In fact, there are only two with the Giants and three with the Senators.

Bill Terry, who helped George Kelly cover first base for the Giants in 1924, now is manager of that outfit and his leadership, as well as his hitting and fielding, is one of the main reasons New York is so near the pennant.

Travis Jackson, now almost through as a major league player, is still with the Giants, but he isn't as spry as he was against Washington at the last meeting. His place at short stop has been filled by a younger star, Bloddy Ryan.

Washington has Oeslie Blase at third base, Goose Goslin and Sam Rice, outfielders, left from the 1924 team. Its manager, Joe Cronin, is comparatively young when you consider the age of Walter Johnson, who led the Washington combination to its pair of American League titles.

Like Terry for the Giants, Cronin is chiefly responsible for the Washington success this season.

Elmer Brown, the St. Paul youth, is the featherweight to appear in the Klamath ring in several seasons. The manner of his simple victory over the veteran Joe Calder, Seattle Filipino, apparently proved pretty definitely he is going some place in the pugilistic business.

Brown is as able as he is sporting. He willingly refers to accept victory over Calder on a foul and then proceeded to outpoint him through every round of the Legion hall main event. Brown, unhurt by Calder's unintentional low blow, gave a perfect demonstration of how a fight should be won.

Brown's popularity and ability will make him an attraction in the Northwest indefinitely.

Time passes swiftly, and Les Avrit will be starting his third season with the Klamath Pelicans next month. Avrit has had difficult times in two years, and there doesn't appear room for a great deal of optimism over this season's prospects.

Many of the most outstanding men from last season's team have gone permanently. Last year's reserves, not too strong, and absolutely untried men will be filling some of the major positions in the Pelican lineup.

There has been no schedule softening to make up for the shift in strength. The Pelicans will face the same rugged teams from the valley, possibly Bend, and perhaps a strong team from another section of the state.

Avrit, however, has been successful in putting out colorful teams, and the interest in the 1933 season already is growing.

Eccentric Southpaws Win Repeatedly In Major Leagues.

By BILL BRUCHER (NEA WRITER) A gentleman named Mark wrote a message to folk whose arms are offensive. The Biblical advice was to cut them off. But maybe Mark (peace to his ashes) didn't go far enough. He should have said something about left-handers.

Southpaws lately have been stealing the show. To begin with baseball, the quaint persons who throw with their left hands are dominating in the pennant races. Carl Hubbell of the Giants has come up with just the margin the Giants need to keep them on top of the National League.

Who's the Better Wrong-handed guys are leading the parade in the American League. Grove, of course, is the greatest of them all. Whitehill has been doing the wonderful sort of work that Washington needs to win the flag. Vernon Gomez remains the bright spot of the Yankee ensemble.

Southpaws have knocked the records all askew. Hubbell broke the National League mark for the number of scoreless innings pitched. Lefty Grove was the first pitcher to shut out the Yankees in more than 300 games. Lou Gehrig, left-handed first baseman, broke the consecutive games string rolled up by Deacon Scott.

And the Fighters! In the land of leather, the rise of Freddie Miller as featherweight champion has been phenomenal. Freddie is one of those boys whose reverse positions in the ring—with right hand extended and the left held back as the mopping up implement—win the classification of portlander.

Young Corbett, who recently won the welterweight title from Jackie Fields, only to lose it to Jimmy McLarnin, is an example in this class. Lou Brouillard, fork-handed French-Canadian fighter, came on to win the middleweight championship by defeating Ben Feby.

In the light of this evidence the left hand cannot be disregarded. It's a nice hand to have around.

LEADERS LOSE IN NATIONAL

Boston, New York Even Monday in Fight for Championship.

By EDWARD J. NEUL Associated Press Sports Writer There must be something in the makeup of a ball player that sets him afire with vengeance, curtains his battling eye with a piercing ultra-red, when he stalks back into the home grounds of a former employer who once tied the taware to him and theoretically stamped him "through."

John J. McGraw had one embarrassing experience of the kind that stands out above all others. Now it's the turn of McGraw's successor at the helm of the Giants, Bill Terry, to see the chickens come home to roost heating their wings like eagles.

Vets Hit Two Homers With McGraw it was the case of George Washington Harper, now an oil well salesman in Texas, by then a journeyman outfielder, who was sent to the Cardinals in 1928 and bounced right back to hit three home runs in one crucial game at the polo grounds and knock the Giants out of that pennant fight.

With Terry it's another Bob O'Farrell, also of the Cardinals, who was sent away last fall with a bundle of pitchers in exchange for a young catcher, Gus Mancuso. Monday at the polo grounds the old fellow roused himself and hit two home runs, the last one in the ninth inning touching off a seven run barrage that snowed the Giants under 13 to 3, brought their third straight defeat with one tie in the past four games, and completely upset Terry's pitching staff with a terrific doubleheader schedule looming ahead.

Braves Beaten In addition to coming from behind three times, they blasted two of Terry's best pitchers, Bud Parmelee and Hal Schumacher, and wound up thumping Lefty Watson Clark, who was being held in reserve as a starter in the doubleheader crisis. They left Terry with but one starting pitcher, Carl Hubbell, for Tuesday's doubleheader.

It took Tex Carleton, Dazzy Vance, and finally Dizzy Dean to win for the Cards.

The Giants remained six games in front of the Boston Braves who ran into Red Lucas on one of his best days and were shut out 2 to 0. Lucas allowed but two hits in a duel with Lefty Brant.

Despite their victory, the Cards dropped into a fourth place tie with the Pittsburgh Pirates who took two games from Philadelphia, 9 to 5, and 9 to 1 behind the steady pitching of Bill Swift, Leon Chagnon, and Lefty French.

So close packed are the contenders that the third place Cubs, rained out Monday at Brooklyn, are but a game ahead of St. Louis and Pittsburgh, with the Braves only one game in front of the Cubs.

Only two games were played in the American league. The Athletics rallied in the last three innings with eight runs to beat Chicago 9 to 5 while Vic Sorrell tossed four hit ball to beat the Yankees 6 to 1.

Woman Conquers English Channel

DOVER, England, Aug. 29. (AP)—The English channel was today conquered for the first time this year when Miss Sunny Lowry, 22-year-old Manchester, England girl arrived at South Foreland after swimming from Cape Gris Nez, France, in about 15 3/4 hours.

She landed, still going strong, at 10:15 a. m. (11:15 a. m. P. T. J.) She started at 8:36 p. m. Monday, (10:36 a. m. P. S. T.).

Three other swimmers, one of them the American, Charles Zimny, a legless aspirant to channel honors, started a race across the channel for the Dover Towns golf challenge cup.

The others are Mercedes Gleitz, an Englishwoman who first swam the channel in 1927 after eight failures; and E. H. Temme, another Briton, who in 1927 did the distance in 14 hours, 29 minutes.

COAST LEAGUE RACE SHUFFLED

Angels Still in Front with Other Teams Close Behind.

By The Associated Press With the Coast league championship battle 21 weeks old Tuesday, the 1933 pennant had not yet found a staff from which to wave next year.

During April Oakland fans had visions of the banner fluttering over the Emeryville Park as Manager Ray Brubaker's men burned up the circuit with an early season victory drive. Then throughout most of May, June and July Sacramentoans watched the Senators pass the league and dreamed of a title for the California capital.

Portland next look over the first place job, giving way to Los Angeles after a few days. The Angels have stayed in front for the past month, but with only five weeks of play remaining their advantage has been narrowed to a single game over Hollywood and two games over Portland.

The Beavers and Los Angeles cross bats at Portland in the first game of what appears to be one of the "crucial" series of the season. Entertaining Sacramento at Wrigley Field, the Stars have a fair chance of climbing into first place. The Senators slipped badly last week against the Missions and now trail the Angels by six games.

The second division clubs complete the schedule with series against each other, Oakland facing the Missions at San Francisco and the Beas journeying to Seattle.

Most of the entire area of the Modoc national forest is easily accessible by auto and just a long day's drive from Sacramento and the San Francisco bay region. It is estimated that around 7,000 hunters will be in the Modoc woods on the opening day of the season this year. The work of the president's civilian conservation corps has opened up many miles of new roads this summer, making the mule deer country of Modoc still more accessible.

In past years, many of the large wicks have been killed in that section by the mere expedient of the hunter stepping from his car on one of those backwoods fire roads.

Not so many large bucks have been seen by the Modoc rangers this summer as in former years. But most of the deer seen are in fine flesh and fat and are, however few, being exceptionally good this year and, coupled with a preceding winter of light snow, the deer through this large region did remarkably well.

Forest rangers, sheepherders, cowboys and others whose duties take them abroad a good deal in these woods, agree that this season's bucks have been killed in that section by the mere expedient of the hunter stepping from his car on one of those backwoods fire roads.

Walters will spend a short time looking over properties and acquainting himself with the different classes of local business, Ashurst said.

Applications continue to pour into the Home Loan office in the federal building and the manager declared that the applications were being made by persons of good standing upon some of the best properties in the city and suburbs.

He also asserted that it was probable that loans would be granted on most of the local applications.

Hollywood Loses Services of Two Leading Players

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 29. (AP)—Hollywood's hopes for a Coast league pennant this season took a downward slide today with the announcement that the club would lose the services probably for the remainder of the season of Ray Jacobs, first baseman, and Allan Strange, shortstop.

Jacobs, as an X-ray examination revealed today, splintered his thumb in Sunday's game with Oakland. The Hollywood first sacker led the league in home runs, having collected 36 this season.

Strange, suffering from a stiff wrist for the past several weeks, was advised by the club physician to stop playing for at least two weeks.

To add to the troubles of the star club, word was received today that Walter Brown, who was released to Hollywood by the New York Yankees, probably will retire from baseball rather than come to the minors.

Kissing Contest Latest Fad For New York City

CONY ISLAND, N. Y., Aug. 29. (UP)—Goofiness, unlit, common, touched a new high here Monday when seven couples participated in the first national kissing marathon, with a department of health diagnostician in attendance.

After more than an hour of uninterrupted kissing, three couples were qualified to ride finals in which the champion kissers will be given their ribbons. Mr. and Mrs. George Newcombe, who recently observed their 50th wedding anniversary, were runners up and will be in view of their showing, permitted to participate in the finals.

Just before the contest opened Dr. Harry S. Lichtman, of the city health department, turned up and announced that he could not permit the show to go on without each contestant undergoing a physical examination. The contest promoters eventually agreed and out of the 14 entered, four were disqualified.
