

THIRTY WHEAT GROWERS SIGN FEDERAL PLAN

At a series of meetings held last week under the direction of Assistant County Agent E. M. Hauser, the wheat producers of the U. S. department of agriculture were explained to all interested wheat growers throughout each community of Klamath county.

Approximately 30 wheat growers in the county signed agreements with the government at the time the meetings were held and others have signed or signified their intention of signing since that time.

If every wheat grower in the county signed the contract, the sum of $75,000 would be distributed among the growers by the federal government under the wheat production control program, according to Hauser. Benefit payments are made on that portion of the growers' average annual production in bushels over a base period which is used for human food in the United States, representing about 54 per cent of the actual production of the nation.

In return for the benefit payments given them by the government, wheat growers are required to reduce their average annual acreage by 15 per cent. Thus, a grower whose average for the past three years has been 100 acres, would be required to make 15 acres out of wheat production.

During the past week's meetings, local committeemen and directors were elected to assist growers in their respective communities to fill out applications, pass on data submitted, and certify reports to the county board of directors.

The executive board will be made up of the chairman of each community committee.

Various districts in the county have elected their officers as follows: Henley, Burrell Short, chairman and county director; C. A. Hill and A. J. Manning, local committeemen; E. H. H. Fickner, chairman and director; Joe Nork and Fred Ruck, committeemen; Merrill, H. J. Beardsley, chairman and director, and Rufus Beasley and W. F. Hill, committeemen.

Committeemen and directors from Malheur and Klamath districts have not yet been elected, and will not be until sufficient applications for membership in those districts have been turned in.

Wheat growers are manifesting considerable interest in the program as it presents an opportunity to obtain additional revenue on wheat production, Hauser stated.

Washington Joins Repealists' Ranks

31,067 to 6,131 against repeal, a 4 to 1 edge.

Eastern Washington, with a large farm population, was running a close race, with a slight edge. Spokane showed a majority of 1 1/2 to 1 for repeal, with Walla Walla wet in about the same proportion. Twenty-four precincts gave wet 2,909 votes and dry 2,025 in the latter city.

Tacoma Wet

Tacoma's 70 precincts out of 125 gave repeal 12,234 votes to a dry vote of 4,526. Seattle county in the west showed 2,096 to 1,355 wet.

The cities of Bremerton and Bellingham and Pacific county turned in a 3 to 1 wet vote, while Chelan county in central Washington, counted a dry stronghold, leaned wet by a slight majority.

Voters did not ballot directly for repeal of the national dry law, but elected delegates to a state convention to be held in Olympia, October 3. Absence of other issues from the special election, ballot evidence cut down the total state vote.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 29. (UP)—A survey by the United Press today revealed that 56 sleeping sickness victims had died in other sections of the country in recent months, aside from the one month death toll of 44 here.

The survey showed in recent weeks that three persons had died in Texas, three in Kansas City area, four in Georgia, three in Illinois, one in California, two in Michigan, two in Mississippi and two in Iowa.

It is believed that the health men has joined the ranks of the great auk as extinct species.

Gold Embargo Is Lifted; Boom Felt In Coast Mining

worth $20.67. Today gold sold in London at an American equivalent of $29.23 per fine ounce. At that figure the gold content of the American dollar would be depressed to 18.24 grains 9-10ths fine.

Until the present order was promulgated the gold mining companies were forced to sell their gold to the United States treasury at the price of $20.67 per ounce fixed by law. They could not sell in London where a premium ranging from 25 to 45 per cent over the American pegged price prevailed. Today's premium was 41 per cent. The American dollar in terms of gold was worth about 70 cents, or a discount of 30 per cent.

Mining Stock Up

The move to permit the mining companies to realize on this large differential through treasury supervision is viewed as a highly significant development here. It means first of all that the mining shares on the various exchanges will be given a boost since the falling means sharply enhanced profits for them. This, some believe, may provide the necessary impetus for a general rise in the stock market and a corresponding rise in commodities.

The first commodity to be affected will be silver, the experts assert. Silver is considered a commodity in general terms—although it is always associated with gold as a precious metal—and it is expected to have a sympathetic rise. Such rise should have repercussions in this country and Europe to say nothing of the tremendous effect it would have on India and China in the way of increased purchasing power.

Market to Rise

So far the general stock and commodity field are concerned, there is expected to be a decidedly favorable psychological effect. The commodity markets have been buoyed up recently when the dollar was weak and have been depressed when it was strong, indicating they are mainly influenced by inflation. The new gold order is expected to pave the way for the greatest of President Roosevelt's inflationary powers, namely dollar devaluation, which under the law, actually is taking place. Should the price of gold rise to say $41.34 or double the present American pegged price, the dollar would have a theoretical value of 50 cents. If the gold price were at $34.45, the dollar would be valued theoretically at 60 cents.

Under the ruling it would appear the government could bolster up its gold reserves since the deals are to be put through the federal reserve banks and need not be carried to the foreign markets. The natural effect will be to stimulate gold production which has been lagging here of late and in that way the treasury could build up an impregnable surplus with a view of eventually restoring a stabilized dollar hitherto to gold although at a lower ratio than before the gold embargo.

MINING BOOM ON

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29. (UP)—The far west's gold mining boom resumed today after being in suspension from the time President Roosevelt declared an embargo on exportation of the precious metal.

Action of the president today in lifting the embargo on gold bullion, thus permitting miners to get the higher international price, was immediately reflected in trading in gold stocks on the San Francisco stock, curb and mining exchanges.

"The income of all producing mines will be increased 25 per cent," Charles E. Huxon, president of the Mining exchange, declared.

According to A. H. Richards, general manager of the American Smelting and Refining company, the order gave new business life to the smelting industry.

Prices of stock in reliable producing companies had advanced sensationally earlier this year, then levelled off when the gold embargo was proclaimed. Today a majority advanced, although some sold off from yesterday.

STOCKS BOOSTED

NEW YORK, Aug. 29. (UP)—Stocks smelted a bull movement late today when President Roosevelt's order modifying the gold embargo and establishing a regulated gold market was made public.

Gold mining shares led the general market up sharply from the low of 1 1/4 points decline and many stocks recouped all their losses. Shorts took a severe beating.

Gold mining companies will feel the first benefits of the executive order. There was a scramble to buy their stocks. Homestake Mining soared through the 399 mark, closing there for a gain of 16 points. Alaska Juneau jumped to a new 1933 high of 31 1/2, up 5-8. McIntyre Porcupine and Noranda mines were bid up briskly.

SENATOR LONG STORM CENTER AFTER FIGHT

NEW YORK, Aug. 29. (AP)—Edward P. Mulrooney, former police commissioner and recent head of the New York State Alcoholic beverage control board, said today he saw no gangsters or thugs among the guests at the Sands Hotel Bath Club Saturday night when United States Senator Huey Long was punched, "They all seemed ladies and gentlemen," Mulrooney said.

Senator Long has said in a statement he was set upon by gangsters.

Leading Architect Involved

An official of the club termed the affair an "undignified mess" and let it be known Long's statement involving gangsters was resented.

Mulrooney, speculative stories as to identify of the man who punched the Senator centered about a prominent architect.

The Evening Sun said Long would never again be admitted to the Sands Hotel Bath Club, an unnamed club official as saying the affair "automatically excluded him."

The Sun further quoted the official as saying Long's version of the affair was "absolutely ridiculous" but he had to say something to save his face, of course.

LONG ATTACKS NEWSMEN

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 29. (AP)—The convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars was thrown into confusion today when United States Senator Huey Long of Louisiana, vigorously assailed Milwaukee newspaper publishers and supervised the exposure of photographs. For ten minutes the large gathering was in turmoil while Long waved his arms and shouted.

Long, a two inch wound over his left eye, which he said was inflicted by "gangsters" at a party on Long Island Sunday, was introduced as "a friend of all the down-trodden."

He started his hour and a half speech by an assault on newspapers, which have published colorful stories of the senator's clash with unidentified persons in the washroom on Long Island.

Arbitration Falls

"We've had an exodus of polecats in Louisiana," said Long "but when I picked up your Milwaukee newspapers I knew where all the polecats had gone."

On his complaint, sergeants at arms began to clear out photographers. The senator shouted, "In Louisiana we don't stand for polecat thieves, rascals, and other varmints, like skunks in the woods."

Publicity directors of the Veterans of Foreign Wars tried to intercede, but in the milling, shouting crowd of veterans they were unheard.

After Order Was Restored

Long went after Wall Street, the Rockefeller, Morgan and Baruch. Then he shifted his attack to the Roosevelt economy program.

F. R. Actions Resented

"They voted $500,000,000 to plant saplings where saplings ain't ever going to grow," he said. "I'd eat every one they could grow."

"I am opposed to making America safe for plutocracy," Long charged the government because of reduction of federal salaries and "negotiation to veterans had no right to fly the blue eagle."

"The government is a traitor," he said.

Long then referred to the failure of the administration to allow him to distribute patronage in Louisiana.

"They can take their patronage and go to hell with it," he said. "I'm going to wait until Roosevelt gets back on the right track, the one he got on when he talked about redistribution of wealth. At the Chicago convention I said I didn't stand for polecat thieves, rascals, and other varmints, like skunks in the woods. He told me so."

The senator's version follows: "On Saturday night persons connected with the music composers and publishers asked me to attend a charity benefit I be given on Long Island. I at first declined but later in the afternoon consented. I had been there some twenty minutes or more when I walked into the washroom.

Struck from Behind

"Just as I faced the basin and the wall some one struck me from behind and upon my turning three or four men covered me. I saw one strike at my head with a knife or something sharp and I ducked just so that it grazed my forehead. One man was blocking the door but I stumbled low through him and managed to wriggle clear. I felt blood coming down my face from where I was cut. Some one connected with the business met

Kansas City, Mo.—Officials of the Postal Life & Casualty Insurance Co., 5054 Congress Bldg., Kansas City, Mo., have just announced that 163,921 of Postal's new low cost policies were issued during 1932. This outstanding record, set up during such a year as 1932, is a splendid tribute to the policy's remarkable value.

The new Postal policy pays up to $100 a month for 24 months for disability. Costs less than 1c a day—$3.50 a year. Anyone between 18 and 70 years old eligible for no examination required. me—also I called some of my friends—we rushed back to the wash room but all the persons had escaped and no one had seen them to identify one of them.

"I employed a taxicab and returned to the Hotel New Yorker. By the time I reached there the wound had stopped bleeding and it was not hurting. I called a doctor who dressed the wound and said it was not hurt to amount to anything.

"Throughout Sunday and today we have tried to find out the persons who did the gangling.

"Except for a cut scar high over the left eye nothing remains to show for the Saturday gangling."

The senator refused to amplify his statement. He is here to attend the national encampment of Veterans of Foreign Wars and said he hoped to swing the 1934 convention to New Orleans.

Bloody Garments Shown to Jurors stained with blood.

The next witness, Gordon Davis, special policeman on the Stanford campus, checked Zink's testimony. He declared Lamson said he was carrying the pajamas when he found the body.

County, city and campus police testified. Aside from Zink, none told stories to cast suspicion on the accused husband.

Continually attempting to convince the jury the officers' observations were not accurate, Defense Attorney Edwin M. Rea asked each witness whether Lamson's shirttail was inside or outside his trousers when they saw him that day. Not one of the witnesses had observed.

Photo Presented

Before jurors' eyes during the day was a greatly enlarged photograph of Mrs. Lamson, dead in her bathtub. The nude torso was in a bloodstained, checkered bath towel and arms dangled over the side of the tub.

Witnesses pointed to the picture to identify bloodstains on the floor, ceiling and walls of the death room.

Testimony of Officer Davis was typical.

Questioned by Prosecutor Lindsey: "Did you see any scratches on Lamson?"

Scratches Found

A—There was a scratch on his forehead and a few on his hands. They appeared to be from a razor.

Q—How about blood in the hall outside the bathroom?

A—There was some by the telephone in the hall.

Q—Did you have any conversation with the defendant?

A—He stated he had been working in the garden, came in at 9 o'clock, prepared his wife's breakfast and 20 minutes later returned to this work in the yard. Then a caller came. He said he wanted to put his pajamas away before admitting her into the house, picked them up from the living room, passed the bathroom and there found his wife's body.

Q—Did you see a bonfire in the back yard?

A—Yes.

Q—Did you investigate the fire?

A—Yes. I stuck a spading fork in the ashes and brought up a piece of pipe—this pipe. He gestured toward a pipe the state is expected to claim was used to kill Mrs. Lamson.

On cross-examination Davis said he was present at the Lamson's Stanford campus home the next day when "other objects" taken from the bonfire were brought into the house.

Observers believed today's testimony will be used as ground-work from which Dr. Frederick Prosser, prosecutor, will testify that he found bloodstains on the pipe and on the "other objects," which are said to be charred remnants of cloth.

to be a profitable competitive fair scale."

Tuesday morning members were investigating and comparing the conditions of labor in the two territories. Southern state members showed their production was slower and costlier because of foreign labor.

Representatives of some of the largest plants in the west at the meeting were: Walter S. Johnson of San Francisco representing the American Box Corporation; W. W. Burns of Boise-Payette, Inc., Boise, Idaho; Dan P. Dacey of Brooks-Scanlon Lumber company, Bend; James G. McNary, Cady Lumber company, McNary, Arizona; A. W. (UP)—Officials of six important forest products associations of the northwest met here today to study the national lumber code and plan machinery to put it into operation.

Attending were representatives of the West Coast Lumbermen's association, the Pacific Northwest Loggers' association, the Washington Oregon Shingle association, the Fir Door association, and the Pacific Box Manufacturers' association.

almost completely submerged in the swiftly flowing water.

Trammen and unharmed passengers worked frantically in the dim early morning light to rescue the injured from the wreckage.

Engineer of Charles Croft, Tacoma, engineer of the Limited, and three women and two men passengers were recovered and brought to Tacoma. The passengers were not identified immediately.

Sister Cecilia, Catholic nun, died of injuries tonight.

James Handle, fireman, was missing. It was believed he was crushed beneath the locomotive, which nosed deep into the soft mud bank of the stream, or swept away by the current. Ambulances, automobiles and trucks brought the two score injured to Tacoma. They were given emergency treatment at the town's one hospital, and those not critically hurt were removed to emergency wards set up in homes.

Joint Described

"There was a terrific jolt," said Gerald Pfeiffer, radio operator on the U. S. S. Aradon who was on board the limited. "The next thing I remember the day coach was piled up on top of the baggage car."

It happened so fast that there was no chance of escape. There was quiet for a moment, and then the cries of a woman broke the silence. Then came screams of the injured trapped in the wreckage as they called for help.

In a little while, aid arrived from Tacoma and the injured were removed just as fast as they could be reached.

The wreck occurred on tracks of the Southern Pacific. Officials of the road announced that the accident caused the first passenger death on its lines in 13 years.

At Tucumcari, the train passes onto lines of the Rock Island.

Plane Dead Listed

In the Transcontinental Western Air crash near here, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gore, Albuquerque, N. M., their 3-year-old grandson, Howard Morgan, Los Angeles, pilot, and W. G. Barcus, Kansas City, Kan., co-pilot were killed.

There were no eye-witnesses to the tragedy. The plane was off its regular course, presumably attempting to skirt the heavy rain storm that swept this section of New Mexico.

At San Antonio, Texas, two army planes in practice flight crashed in mid-air. Cadet Harold R. Sandberg, Denver, fell to death with his plane.

The other three occupants of the planes used parachutes, but they were at such low altitude that two of them, Cadet William Pasche, Chicago, and Lieutenant Harley Grater, Lebanon, Ind., were killed. Lieut. Louis A. Vaspre, Kalamazoo, Mich., landed with a broken ankle.

Woman Not Killed

Mrs. Edward Benson of Vallejo, Cal., who was reported killed in the wreck of the Golden State Limited today, is living and not seriously injured, the Southern Pacific reported tonight. Mrs. Benson was first reported as killed.

Mrs. Benson's purse and other personal belongings were found beside the body of a woman, first identified as Mrs. Benson, but now believed to be Mrs. W. H. Varley of Quincy, Ill.

HEROES CITED

DALHART, Texas, Aug. 29. (UP)—A Los Angeles physician, a Notre Dame priest, an army major son and a negro Pullman car maid tonight shared prominence for heroism after the crack Golden State Limited wrecked near Tucumcari, N. M.

Forty-two survivors of the wreck in which nine persons were killed arrived here tonight aboard two special trains.

The survivors cited a dozen other persons, many of them women, as also prominent in the rescue work but agreed the priest, the physician, the maid and the army man's son deserved mention for their heroism.

Other survivors told how the physician, without an instrument kit or bandages, wrapped wounds with strips of towel and clothing. With the priest he organized the rescue work.

Ford Warned by Johnson to Sign

"whether a large or small" manufacturer, but did not name Ford. Today, however, Johnson talked bluntly and directly challenged Ford's position.

"Have you heard from Henry Ford?" Johnson was asked.

"No, I haven't," he replied.

"When are you going to crack down on him?" Johnson's mouth tightened into a thin line.

"The American people may crack down on him when they see blue eagles on all the other automobile manufacturer's plants," he said.

If Ford believes he can obtain a blue eagle merely by raising wages and shortening working hours without signing the code, Johnson said, he is mistaken.

"But if he comes in here and signs the code and then makes better labor provisions than the automobile code contains we'll be very happy."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29. (AP)—Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue of the District of Columbia supreme court today upheld the constitutionality of the agricultural adjustment act.

Dismissing a suit for a temporary injunction which would restrain Secretary Wallace from enforcing the Chicago milkshed agreement, he declared the emergency justified the law.

Attorneys Neil Burkushaw and Nugent Dadds for the plaintiffs announced they would appeal the decision.

The suits were entered against Wallace by Milton R. Beck, Milk company of Norman Park, Stickney, Ill., and the Economy Milk Co., Chicago.

They contended the Chicago milkshed agreement, which places the price at 10 cents a quart, cash business. They now sell would ruin their over-the-counter milk for 64 cents a quart.
