A New Deal For Coffee

The "Forgotten Joys" of the Coffee Cup
By ELLA LEHR

Words—words—words! How many articles, books galore have been dedicated to the cause of better coffee. And still we have it—morning, noon, and night—sedition, worry and extra getting out of bed to drink, consumed at noon with a hope it'll be good, gulped at night to drown the richness of the desert—wondering which is the lesser of two evils. And still there is so much of friendliness, cordiality, cheer in a good cup of coffee. Children cry for it, mamma sighs for it, and dad leaves home for it!

Take hope, ye weary home-makers, there is a cure. The Drip Method! Yes, ma'am, and not only does it produce the true coffee flavor, clear and sparkling, a brew fit for the gods—and husbands—but it's fool-proof, it eliminates worry and extra effort, it's economical and convenient. Even one cup of coffee can be made just as satisfactorily as a larger amount. And not the least of its joys by any means—the pot does not require as much securing as you usually apply to other coffee utensils.

Filtering Needs Care Because the wax in the coffee are not extracted, these deposits do not cling to the inside of the pot, bringing the bitter taste so commonly found in coffee.

Of course, there are pots and pots, when it comes to drip coffee makers. Choose well! The holes in the coffee basket should be just so, the basket in proportion to the size of the pot. Some materials are not as good as others.

Fresh, clean filter papers are essential to clearness, much better to my way of thinking—than cloth, for unless utmost care is used the coffee waxes may be cooked in the fibers of the cloth—producing an undesirable flavor.

Coffee Must Be Specially Prepared Which brings us up to the coffee! The first step, of course, toward good coffee is to buy a Good Coffee in this instance means one especially prepared. Finely ground, yes—but it must be specially blended and roasted in such a way that the flavoring oils contained in the coffee berry cells, opened by grinding, are cooked and made ready for dissolving just the very minute the boiling water passes through the coffee.

Ah, me—what if you had to worry about this yourself. Did I hear a sigh for the good old days? Well—now there's coffee specially prepared for producing the finest of drip coffee, a pot designed to bring out all the fine qualities of the coffee and, right in the can to save you time and expense, a neat little package of filter papers. What more can you ask—save for the boiling water and a minute to sit down and linger over the comforting delight of a good cup of coffee?

Camera Catches "Dirty Work" in British Football Game

A mud frize unearthed from some ancient temple, do you suppose? No, it's just a jolly bit of action during a mud football match in Essex, England. The camera caught the play just as one team mud-diet through to victory, and the game, you might say, was in the bag. Because the group looked like a panel in bas relief, an artist helped out the illusion with the tricky border.

TREE TROOPER DINNER HONORS CAMP OFFICERS

C. C. CAMP #45, Silver Lake, Ore.—Wednesday night was a gala event at the Cliff Springs camp when all men were called in from sub camps to attend a banquet given in honor of the retiring captain, W. A. Wapponstela, who has been the company commander since the first of June.

He returns to his duties as Professor of Military Science and Tactics with the Reserve Officer's Training Corps at the University of Oregon at Eugene. Prior to reporting to the university, he will go to San Francisco to drive his wife and daughter to Eugene.

First Lieutenant Harry J. Harper, 9th F. A. at Fort Lewis, Washington arrived last Saturday to take over his duties as camp commander. He has been on duty at Camp Agnes.

Supper was served for 200 men. The menu consisted of fried chicken, snow flaked potatoes, creamed asparagus on toast, ripe olives, tomato, lettuce and green pepper salad, corn on cob, celery and radishes, coconut custard pie, bread, butter, jam, coffee, vanilla ice cream, cigarettes and a cigar for each man, 3.2 beer.

During the meal, Chaplain Willis Bergen of the Medford district gave a speech in which he presented Captain Wapponstela as the retiring officer.

The captain thanked Harry Lynch and his group of foremen for their support and assistance in establishing the camp. He thanked the members of the Civilian Conservation Corps Co. 296 for their loyalty, their willingness to work, no task being assigned that they did not enter into with a spirit which he had never seen equaled, and stated also that it had been a pleasure to have been their commanding officer. He also received a letter giving the rating of this camp among 15 other camps in southern Oregon. The Moon Prairie camp being the highest rated camp in the Medford district, best this camp by 1/2 of one per cent in receiving the highest rating for well managed camps in southern Oregon. The men presented the retiring captain with a Gladstone bag.

The members of Cliff Springs camp journeyed to Bly for a game of baseball. The Bly C. C. team won by a score of 9 to 6.

Another sub-camp was established on Long creek last Tuesday. The camp consists of a road crew of 25 men and a telephone crew of 12 men. The telephone crew is building a line from Silver Lake Ranger station to Ingram Ranger station, a distance of 50 miles. They will be joined at Ingram station by the telephone crew of Camp Ingram, who is building a line from Lakeview to Ingram Ranger station. The road crew will remain at the sub-camp for two months as they have several roads to build in that territory.

GUNMEN FROM EAST FACING MURDER COUNT

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Aug. 30. (AP)—Revealing a sordid story of gang vengeance in the assassination of two former St. Louis and New York hoodlums here, Chief of Detectives Joseph Taylor said today murder complaints would be sought against four eastern men for the crime.

Taylor named Charles Sherman, Morris Solvinsky, Henry Sherman and Jack Weinstein as suspects in the cold blooded killings of Harry Mackley and Frank Keller here Monday night in a fashionable Italian restaurant.

The detective chief said the slayings were an act of reprisal for the killing of Morris Moll, also known as Morris Marks, shot to death in New York last June. The four men named by Taylor allegedly are members of the gang formerly headed by Moll.

Both Mackley and Moll were wanted in Los Angeles for the murder of David Antink in 1925. Antink, secretary of a real estate firm, was shot down after he had identified five men as those who robbed him of $25,000. Mackley, once an associate of Moll later became his enemy, police charge, and was wanted in New York in connection with Moll's death.

HUGE DANCE WILL ASSIST ROUNDUP FUND

Civic organizations of the city will combine their efforts Thursday night for the open air dance to raise funds for Klamath Falls' participation in the Lakeview roundup this week-end. The dance will be held at the Klamath Union high school tennis courts.

The profits will be used to send the American Legion drum corps and the Merchants' City band to the roundup on Labor Day. The day has been set aside in honor of visitors from Klamath Falls.

The band will present a free half hour concert before the dance and the drum corps will make its first appearance since the state Legion convention. Officers in charge of the dance have made preparations for one of the season's largest crowds.

The drum corps will leave the Legion hall at 8:00 o'clock Thursday night and parade down Main street to the tennis courts. The Main street exhibition will last a half hour.

The corps, according to Manager Roland T. Warren, has shown considerable improvement in the last few weeks. The members have been out each night practicing bugle, drum, and marching exercises under Newton Green, state bugler champion, and Carl Cook, drill master. Dewey Powell, drum major, will lead the parade and tennis court appearance.
