Webb Kennett To Establish New Store Here

Webb Kennett, who recently sold his interest in the clothing firm of Kirkpatrick & Kennett, announced Monday that he will open a new store about October 10 in the building at Seventh and Main, now occupied by the Sanitary market, for which a lease has just been signed.

Mr. Kennett has just returned from San Francisco, where he purchased a complete stock of men's furnishings, and also furniture equipment for the new store. Mr. Kennett found such enthusiasm in San Francisco as to the future of business, nearly everyone he talked with regarding the outlook as bright.

"I am exceedingly glad to be able to conclude plans that will keep me in Klamath Falls," Mr. Kennett says. "It is going to be the second city of Oregon, and I certainly wouldn't want to leave."

The Sanitary market, which now occupies the room just leased by Mr. Kennett, will move to the building formerly occupied by the Brick cafe, at 111 North Seventh.

CRAWFORD RETURNS FROM BAKER MEET

A. L. Crawford, secretary of the Klamath irrigation district, returned Sunday after attending the annual Oregon Reclamation Congress at Baker.

Crawford was the only local representative at the meeting which is composed of all irrigation districts, reclamation bureaus and utilities supplying electricity for pumping projects in the state.

"The major part of the meeting was discussion over rehabilitation of irrigation districts and the state application for loans," Crawford said. "Senator Jay Upjohn of Bend made the address before the 300 members asking that the congress be held in Klamath Falls next year." The definite date of the 1934 congress to be held here was not set.

E. M. Hammond, chairman of the Klamath irrigation district, was re-elected vice president of the Oregon Reclamation congress, Crawford said.

Parents, Teachers At Tule Lake Meet

The second executive meeting of the season of the Tulelake Parent-Teachers association was held at the White school Friday. Plans for furnishing anti-toxin for diphtheria prevention among school children were made.

The building of an eight-foot addition to the Brown school was discussed. Following the business meeting, Mrs. A. E. McClintock gave vocal selections and P. T. A. songs were sung by the group.

The first meeting of the association was held September 10 at the home of Mrs. Helen Davis, who is chairman. The year's work was planned and meetings arranged for.

Gas Manager Sees Sales Increase

Tabulated figures showing that 60 per cent of the total volume of Gilmore gasoline sold is Fortified Red Lion is the outstanding achievement of the present Gilmore advertising campaign, believes Earl Gilbert, Falls manager for the company.

"Despite the fact that we are distributing two other well-known brands of motor fuel, the new Red Lion leads the field," Gilbert said, "proving that the public responds to newspaper advertising if the quality of the product is high. Numerous voluntarily contributed testimonial letters from motorists all over the Pacific coast who have changed to Red Lion more than indicate hearty reception for the fuel."

PARENT-TEACHERS TO NAME OFFICERS

Upon the resignation of Mrs. Elizabeth Sanders and Mrs. J. D. Bagley as president and vice-president of the Klamath County Parent-Teacher association, new officers will be elected at a meeting Tuesday evening.

The meeting, called by Mrs. Sanders, will be held at the Fremont school building at 7:30 o'clock. Plans for a school of instruction for P-T. A. officers will also be discussed at the meeting. Mrs. Sanders announced the two resignations were being submitted because of insufficient time for the work. She is employed as a field worker and home caller for the county relief office.

The meeting will be the first since the opening of school. All members are urged to attend.

PASTOR PREPARES SERMON SERIES

As one of the monthly features of the new plan of Sunday evening services, the pastor of the First Methodist church, Rev. John B. Coan, announces a question forum in which he will answer and discuss a wide variety of questions as they are presented to him during the month. Mr. Coan stated that as there are many types of questions and problems which are perplexing today and many of them are overlooked in the regular sermonizing, but which are pressing for attention, he will devote one night a month to their discussion.

He further stated that as life touches all manner of problems, and if religion is to be of help it ought to be, it must assist in interpreting them in the light of Christian understanding.

FT. KLAMATH

Fort Klamath, Ore.—The regular monthly social meeting of Fort Klamath Grange No. 775 was held in the C. I. clubhouse Tuesday evening, with Past Master George M. Denton acting as master in the absence of Theodore Nicholson.

During the short business session, tentative plans were made by the grangers present to cut and deliver enough wood for the winter for Mrs. Kate Russell. The following committee was appointed to make all arrangements for the wood cutting: Messrs. Fred Bishop, James Gordon and Linsey Slesmore. A potluck dinner will be served at noon by ladies of the community.

Following the business on hand, cards were played. Refreshments of cake and coffee were served by Mesdames Emma Gordon and Myrtle Denton of the home economics committee of the grange.
