FLAGS LOWERED FOR PORTLAND NEWSMAN

PORTLAND, Sept. 29. (AP)—The flag at the city hall here flew at half mast today in tribute to the memory of Lewis Havermale, 65, veteran city hall reporter for the Oregon Journal.

Havermale joined the Journal staff soon after the World War. He was born in Illinois and for several years operated newspapers in Kansas. With the development of the Imperial Valley in California he went to El Centro and started a paper. He was for several years on the staff of the Los Angeles Times, and covered the San Francisco earthquake for that paper and assisted in relief work there. He came to The Journal from the San Francisco Post.

Hearings For Two Set By Richmond Hearing for D. C. Orendorf and Henry Ingebrigtson, arrested on Thursday evening at 661 Spring street on charges of disorderly conduct and fighting, has been set for 9:00 o'clock Saturday.
