Stock Market Quotations

NEW YORK, Oct. 7. (AP)—Most financial markets moved at a snail's pace today, progress apparently being impeded by irregularity in stocks and other commodities. Grains dipped and rallied listlessly in trading that was the dullest in some weeks. Alcohols and specialties were given mild support, but the list, as a whole, merely drifted. The close was steady to firm. Transfers approximated only 60,000 shares.

National, Local Markets

STORAGE EGGS DUMPED UPON PORTLAND MART

PORTLAND, Oct. 6 (AP)—Dumping of huge stocks of storage eggs upon the local trade was creating trouble for traders with really worth while eggs to sell at adequate prices. While demand for fresh eggs was rather good, it was held back somewhat by the over-abundance of storage stock which was selling at competitive figures.

One of the chief troubles in the egg trade at the moment appears the selling of pomeas as pullets, which was complicating the entire situation.

Values Remain Unchanged

There was no change in local values on fresh for the day. In some cities higher prices were quoted for fresh goods than Portland is naming but a recent survey indicated that the higher prices were more for the purpose of forcing greater sales of ice house goods.

Market for butter was showing a fairly active tone with the chief interest continued in the undercurrent. There was no change in the price of either prints, cubes or butterfat.

Practically no spirit was suggested in the general live chicken trade for the week-end. Prices were held but that was about all. Broilers alone were in better call than supply.

Yakima Spuds Easy

Trade in potatoes was much the same at the week-end as during the last few days. Yakima stock may be a trifle easier here but Deschutes was firmly held with more to arrive during the coming week.

Prices were being maintained for onions but demand was confined to the local and Pacific northwest sectors. No speculative calls was as yet shown.

First arrivals of McFarlane cranberries were reported from Aberdeen. The stock is of rather good quality and well colored. Prices nominally $3 per quarter bbl. box.

There was no change generally in the market for sugared lard. The market was somewhat better than last week. Top veal appeared to be dragging a trifle.

TOURISTS MOVED ON TO WYOMING

The congestion in their small conveyance somewhat relieved by the absence of two passengers, a tourist party from Grants Pass continued on its way to Wyoming Saturday. There were still seven persons in the old-fashioned automobile of popular make.

In the party, which arrived here at mid-week, were an elderly couple, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Paulin, and their seven children and grandchildren. Four adults and five children were jammed into the tiny car, when the physical condition of Paulin came to the attention of Dr. G. S. Newson, county health officer.

The family had been on the roller lists in Josephine county, but with the help of relatives and money made in picking hops, had purchased a car and set out for Pine Bluff, Wyo., where relatives live.

When they stopped here, Dr. Newson advised that Paulin could not make the trip by automobile. Mrs. Paulin said that her brother in Wyoming might be able to send $55 so that she and her husband could proceed by train.

County relief workers investigated the situation, and telegraphed the brother. The money arrived Saturday morning, the elder Paulin caught a train, and the others in the party drove eastward in the automobile.

Jacobs Discusses NRA Before Rotary

The NRA as it applies to food distribution was discussed by Lee Jacobs, local manager of the National Retailers Association, at Friday noon's luncheon meeting of the Rotary club.

Jacobs said he expected a great deal of good from the NRA in lessening and eliminating the evils of business. He advocated strong support of the movement.

W. O. Smith was chairman of the meeting.
